In Dedication

To be selected as the first woman in the history of the University to whom an INDEX has ever been dedicated—and this is the eightieth edition—should be honor enough for any one. To be so selected by a student body in search of the one individual on the campus who best symbolizes the spirit of the University of Massachusetts is a singular honor indeed.

The thousands of alumni and faculty who have known Mildred since she took over the arduous duties of the Schedule Office in 1921, shortly after her graduation from Mt. Holyoke College, will say, "Well done;" for they recognize in her personality many qualities that might well be incorporated in the spirit of the new University. Cheerfulness! Who among both faculty and students has not come away from a conference on schedule, the problems of which are difficult ones, a little more buoyant of spirit because of her? Friendliness! Certainly every one who has had to consult her in regard to a program has felt that here, regardless of the outcome, was a friend. Patience and Self-control! It is no easy task to interview long lines of students, especially during registration weeks, and come out at the end of the day as cheerful and friendly as at the beginning and with temper at no time unruffled. Cooperation! Mildred is blessed with the desire to be as helpful as possible to all who have problems.

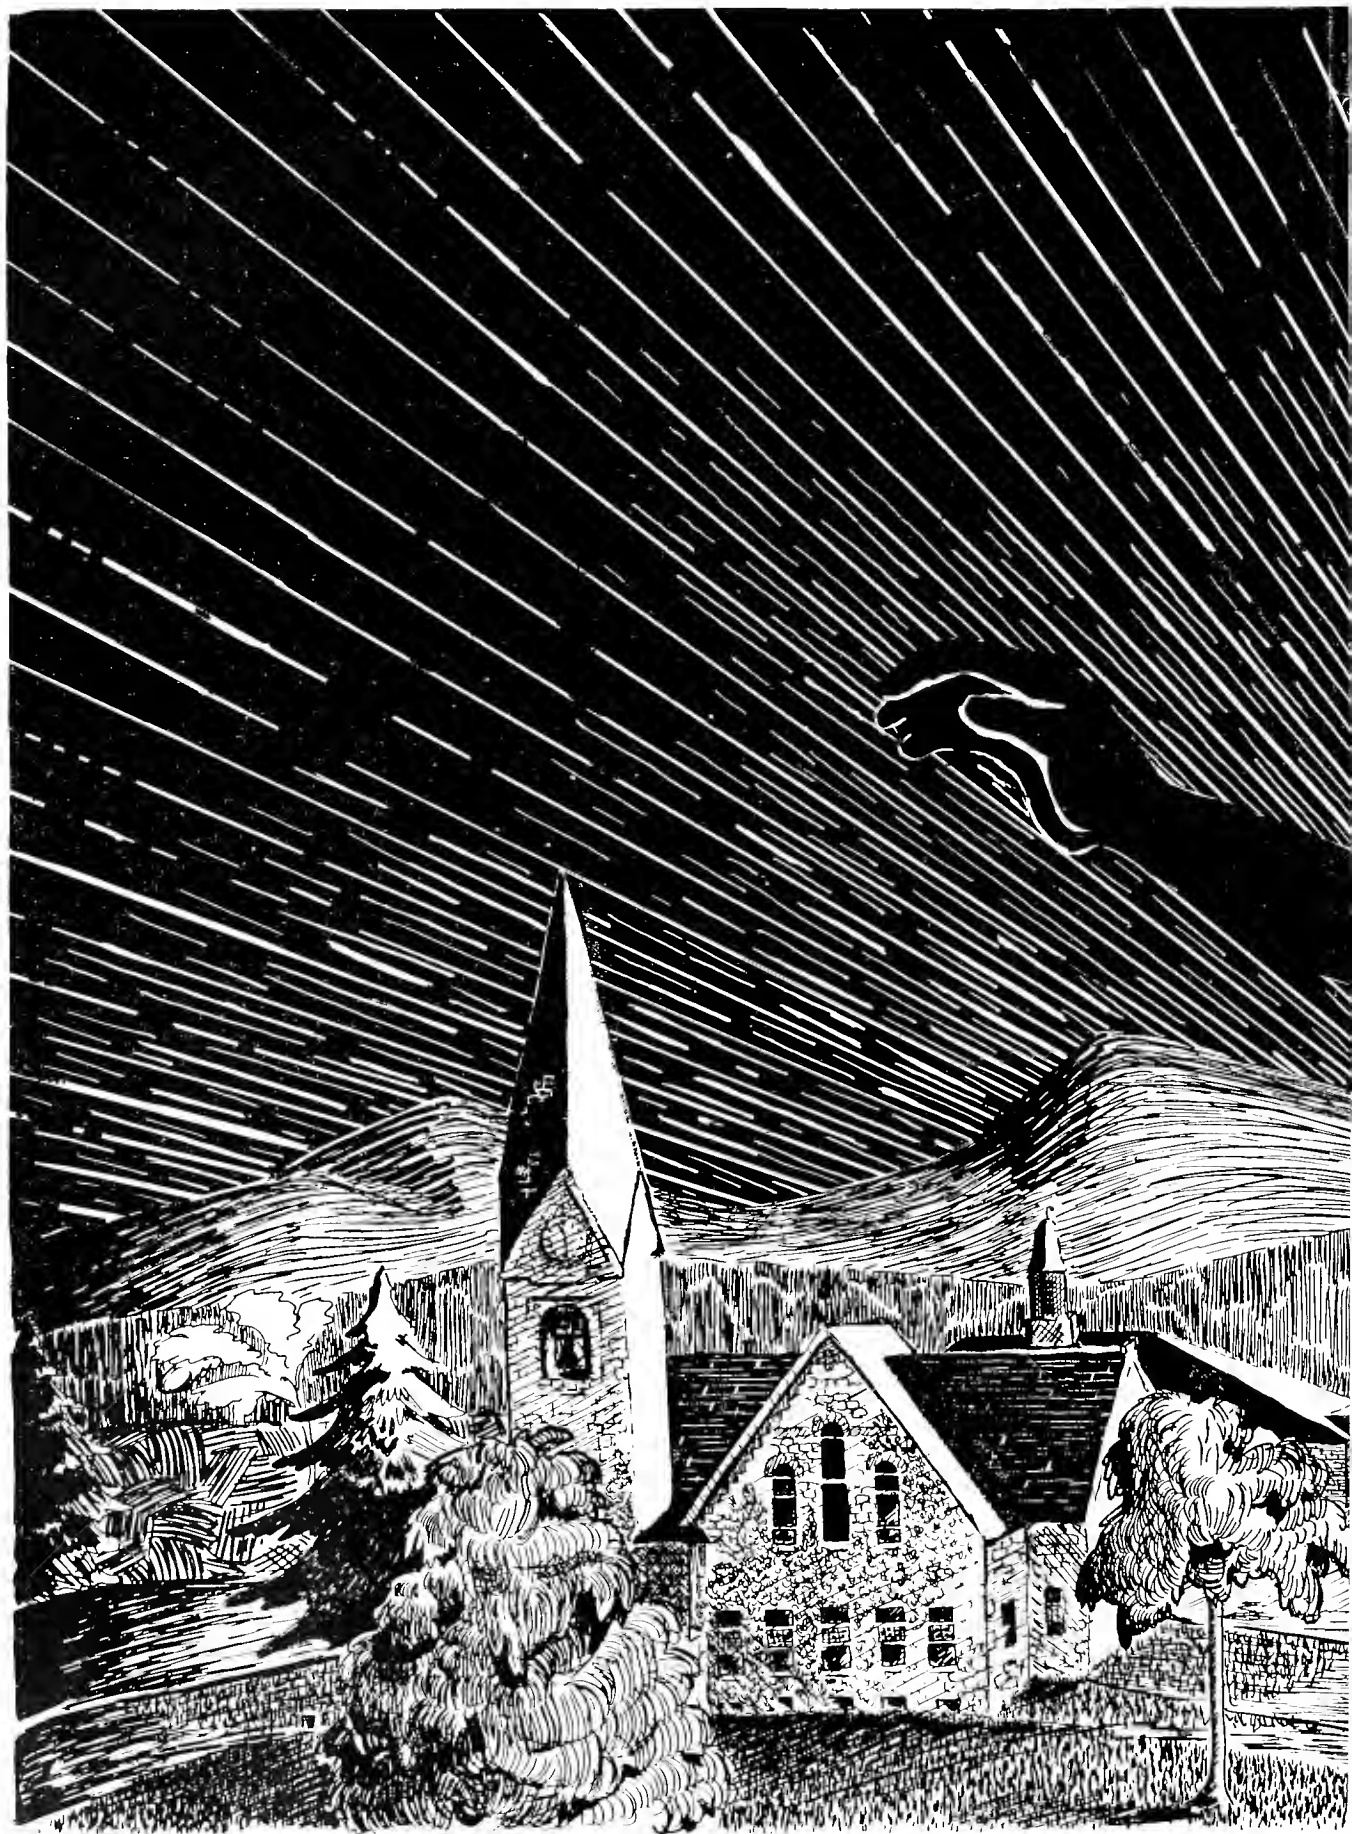

And yet it is probably not so much any individual trait as it is the sum of her many virtues that has led the students to see in Mildred Pierpont a spirit that the University might well emulate.

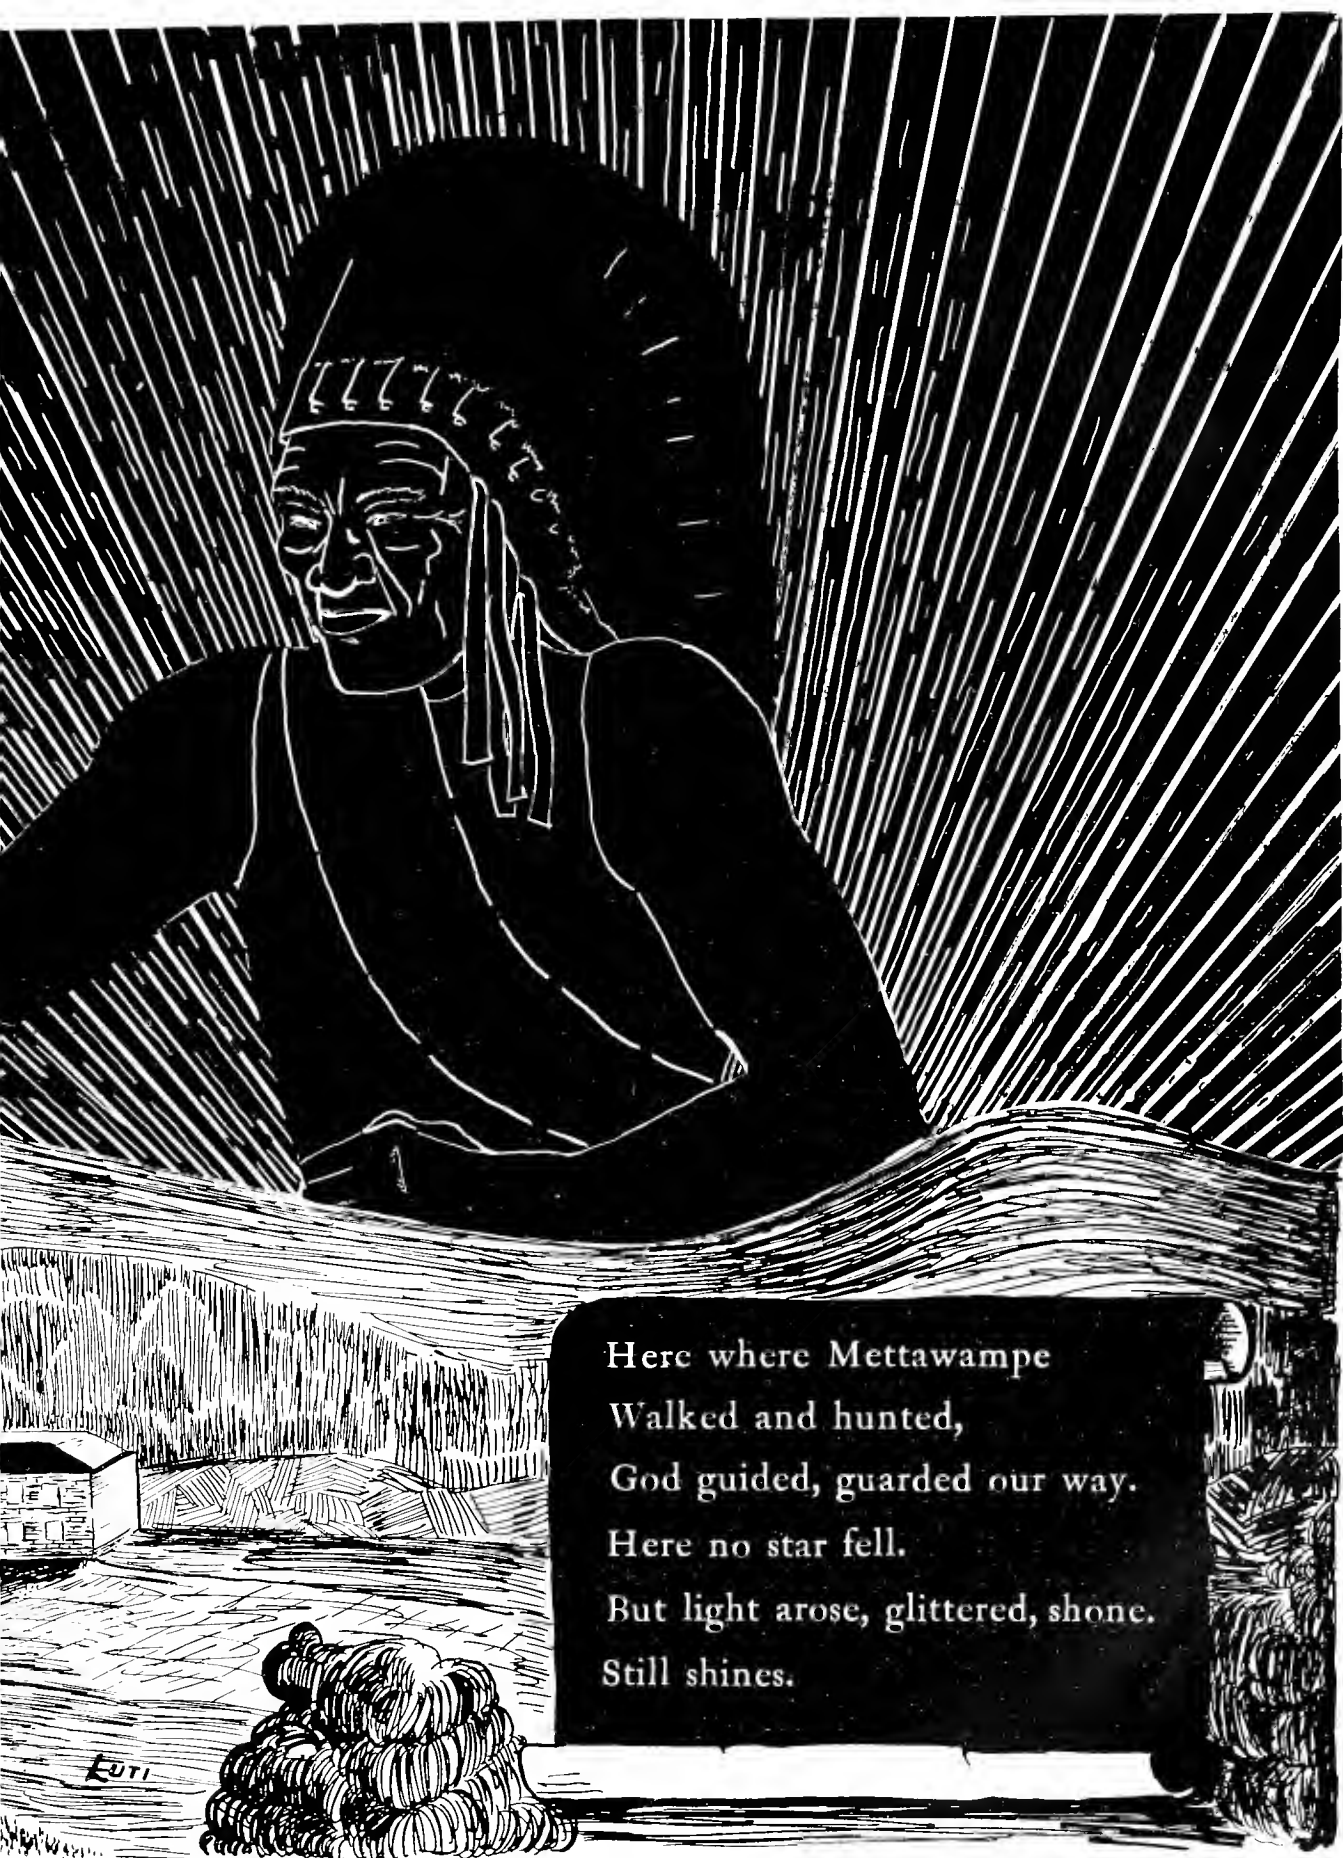

MARSHALL O. LANPHEAR

Miss Mildred Pierpont

Here where Mettawampe
Walked and hunted,
God guided, guarded our way.
Here no star fell.
But light arose, glittered, shone.
Still shines.

The revival of Indian tradition on the campus reached its climax in 1947 when the State Legislature changed the name of Massachusetts State College to University of Massachusetts. Immediately there was a spirited drive by undergraduates headed by George Burgess, ex-'49, to replace the cognomen "Statesmen" with something more appropriate. While animal husbandry majors, DAR enthusiasts and Cape-Coddors were rooting for "Bulls," "Minutemen" and "Pilgrims," Burgess literally put the Indian sign on the campus by placing the issue of university cognomenclature before the student body until "Redmen" became the acceptable and accepted by-word of Massachusetts men.

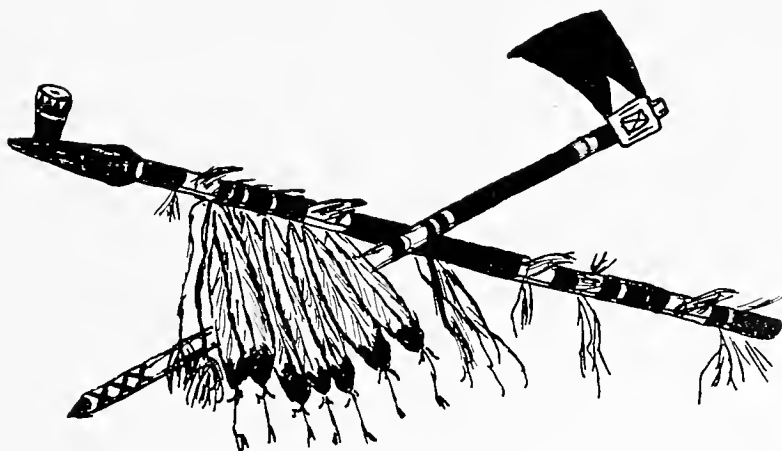

Previously the Hatchet Oration at commencement was one of the last vestiges of Indian lore upon the campus. There were, of course, the faculty Mettawampe Outing Club and some literary references by Professor Rand. To most Massachusetts graduates, however, there was only the Hatchet Oration, and that was so meaningless to them that the wearers of cap and gown were likely to ask, "Who let the Indian in?"

There was, however, an actual Indian, Mettawampe, not to be confused with a Quaboag chieftain of the same name. In 1674 he and other Indians, living in the neighborhood of Mt. Toby, which they called Knuckquachu, sold to the whites a tract of land lying immediately to the north of the mountain. He was also known as Nattawwassawet, and he had a son named Nosa-tuck. This is all that we certainly know about him, but his spirit still lingers about the mountain trails. When the University officially opened its Mt. Toby campus some twenty-five years ago, it was President Van Meter who impersonated Mettawampe in a dedicatory pageant presented at the summit.

In his book Heart o' Town Professor Rand has included a fictional character sketch of Mettawampe, as of August 31, 1675, looking down from Mt. "Knuckquachu" at the village of Sunderland, then known as Swampfield, which was to be attacked by the Indians along with Deerfield the following night, and torn between his native blood-lust to have a hand in the fight and his disturbing sense of pity for a particular friendly family in the village. The poem concludes:

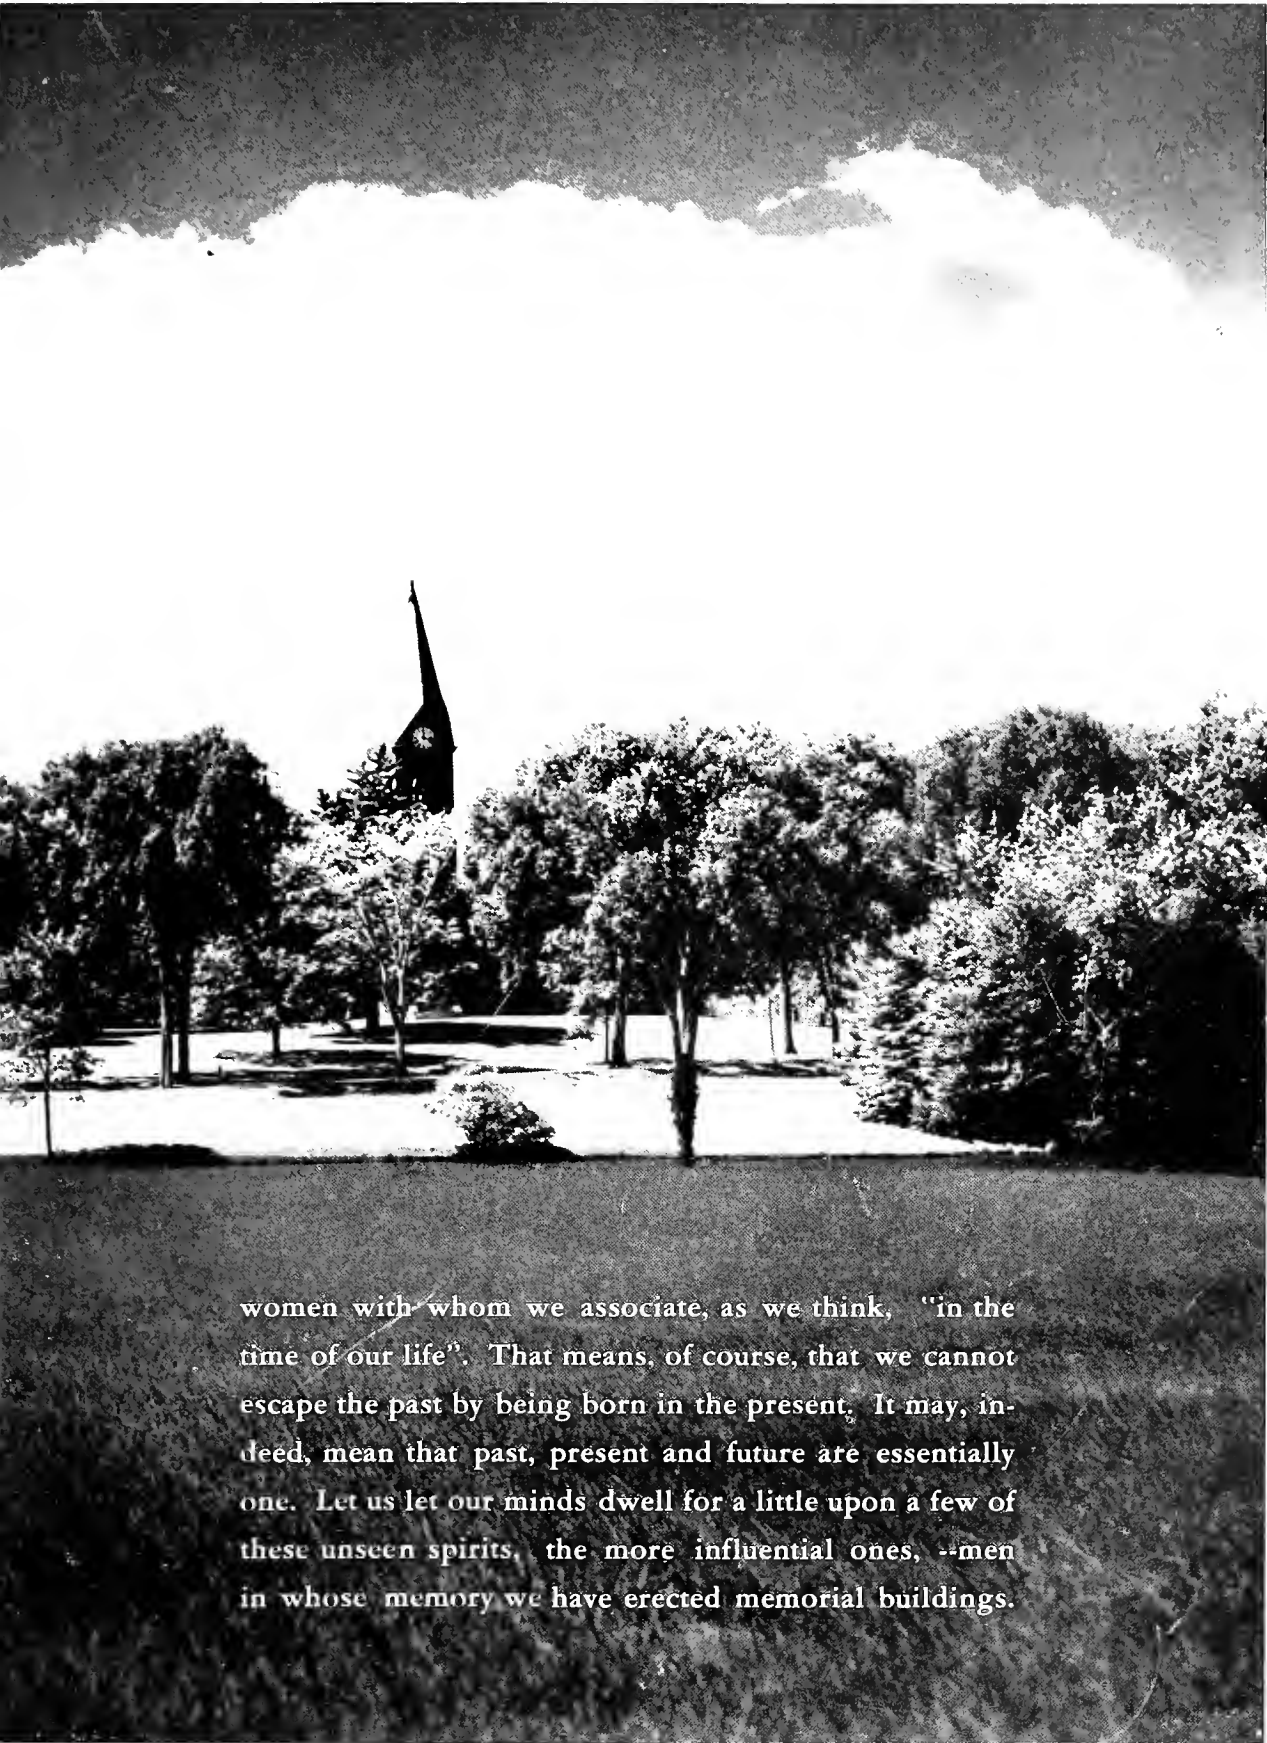

*Two trails there were, two trails to destiny:
One to the sagamores about the spring;
The other leading down, and traitorously,
To where the tiny light was beckoning.
Two shadowy trails and neither of them right.
Somewhere a nervous dog began to bark;
A spectral bat went sweeping by in flight.
Two trails and both of them into the dark!
The first would consummate itself in death,
A fellowship of furious despair.
And Mettawampe, sucking in his breath,
Caressed his gun and knew he would be there.
But still that other trail, the one that led Down to the Swampfield village — would it do
To warn those baby-lovers, ere he sped
Up to the tribal tree on Knuckquachu?
Of course it was a coward's compromise,
And on his ruddy forehead lay a frown.
He stared into the dusk with heartbreak eyes,
And felt decision click, and started down.*

*So there were footfalls, silent ones on stone;
And thunder, poised on wings of broken light;
A rabbit, too, who thought he was alone
Upon great Knuckquachu. And it was night.*

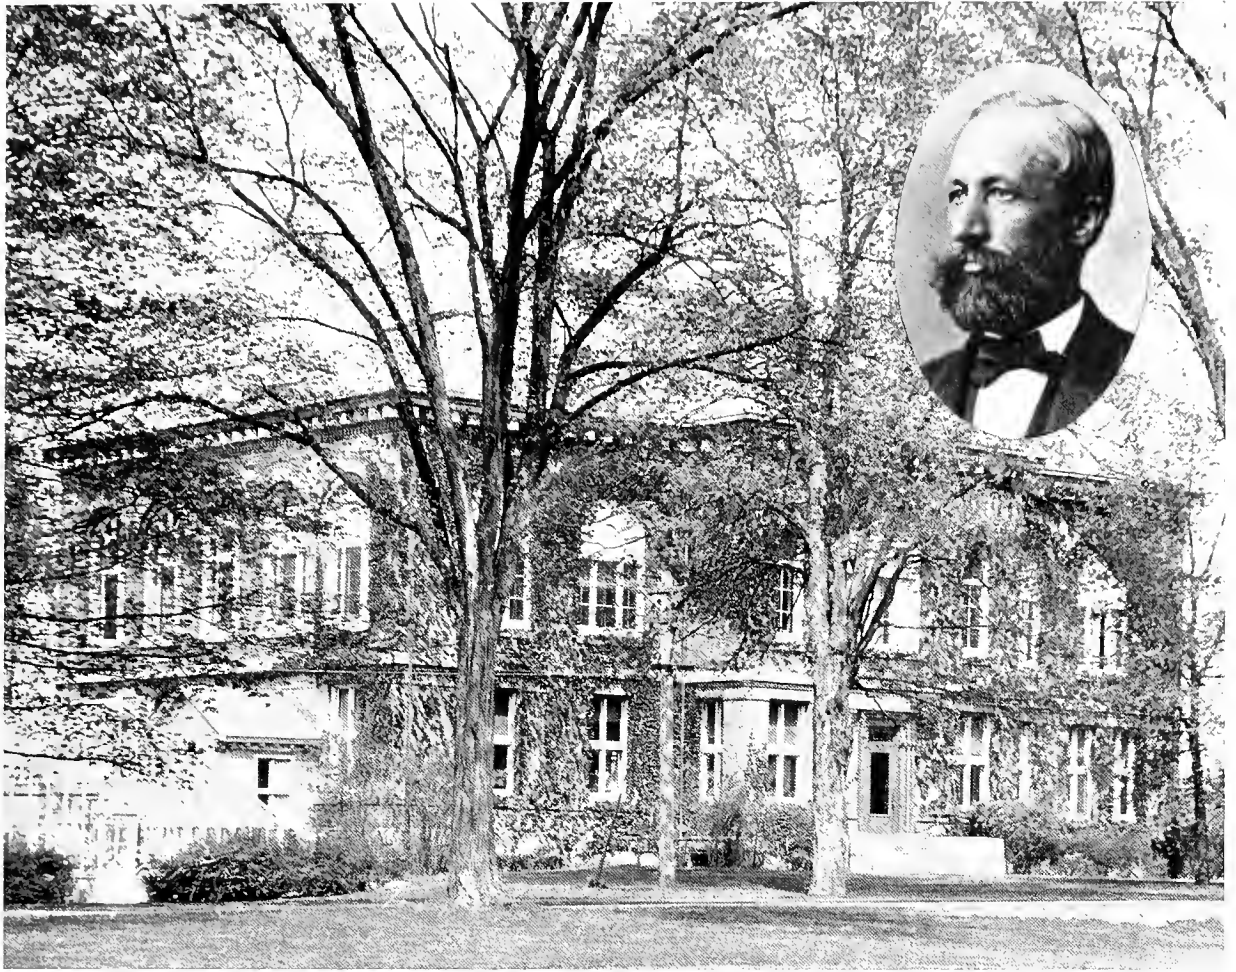

Some of you who read have heard me say that the campus of the University of Massachusetts is haunted; that there are ghosts about us everywhere; that our so-called buried dead are really very much alive; that we are living in a spirit world. You may have heard me say that these invisible spirits may have a greater influence upon you and me than most, if not indeed any, of the men and women with whom we associate, as we think, "in the time of our life". That means, of course, that we cannot escape the past by being born in the present. It may, indeed, mean that past, present and future are essentially one. Let us let our minds dwell for a little upon a few of these unseen spirits, the more influential ones, --men in whose memory we have erected memorial buildings.

Henry Flagg French was the first president of the newly established Massachusetts Agricultural College, still under the shadow of the Civil War. In accordance with the trustees' provision that the president "shall reside on the farm," he lived in the house across the road from French Hall — incidentally, the oldest home in Amherst — and dreamed of a campus of buildings, colonial in architecture, much like the campus of Bennington College, to be established upon the hill. North of Greenough Hall there are still pine trees which he set out as part of an evergreen hedge to surround his campus. With him lived a gifted boy who was ultimately to become America's outstanding sculptor, Daniel Chester French.

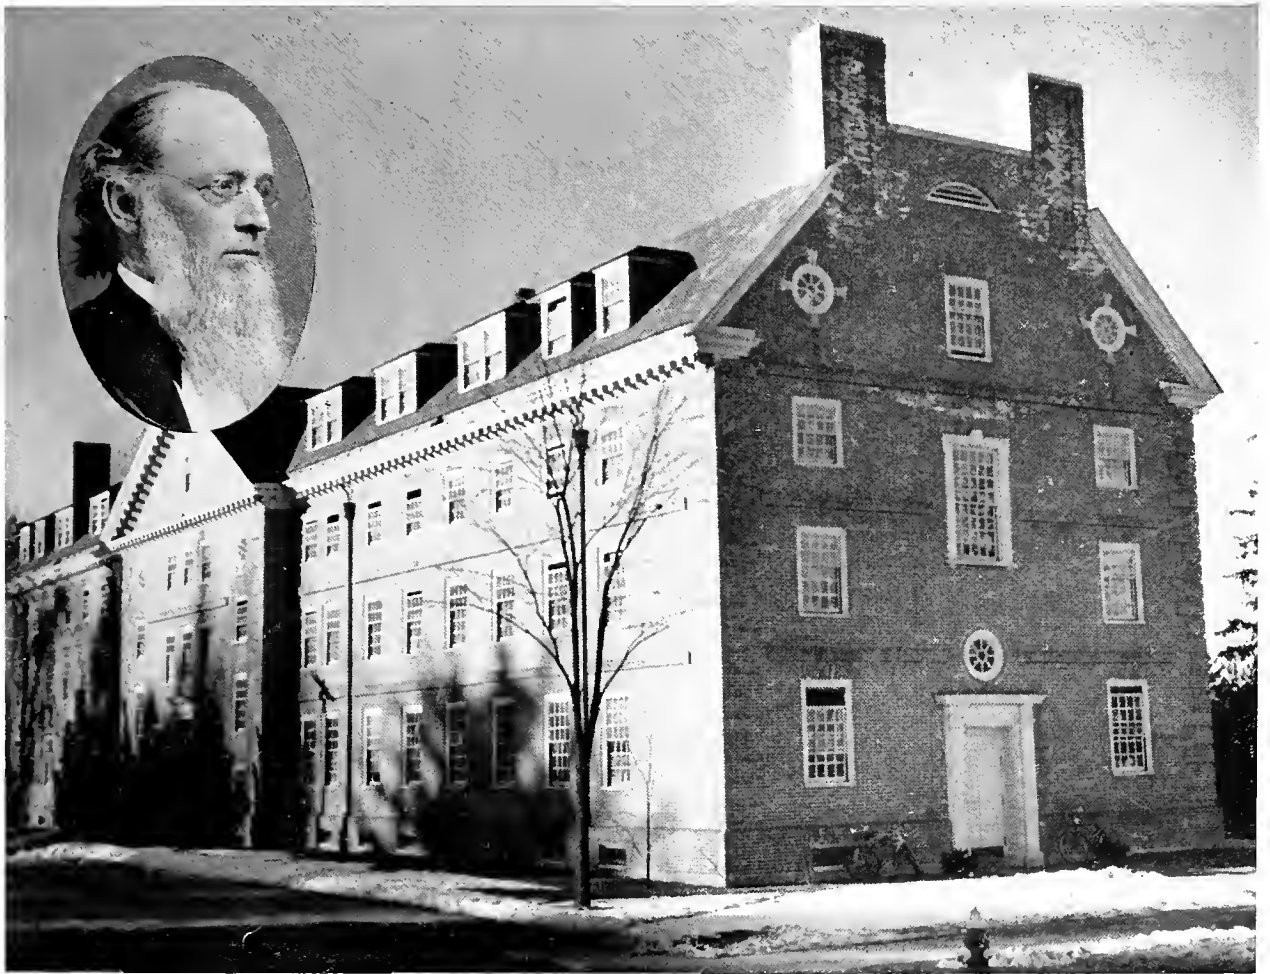

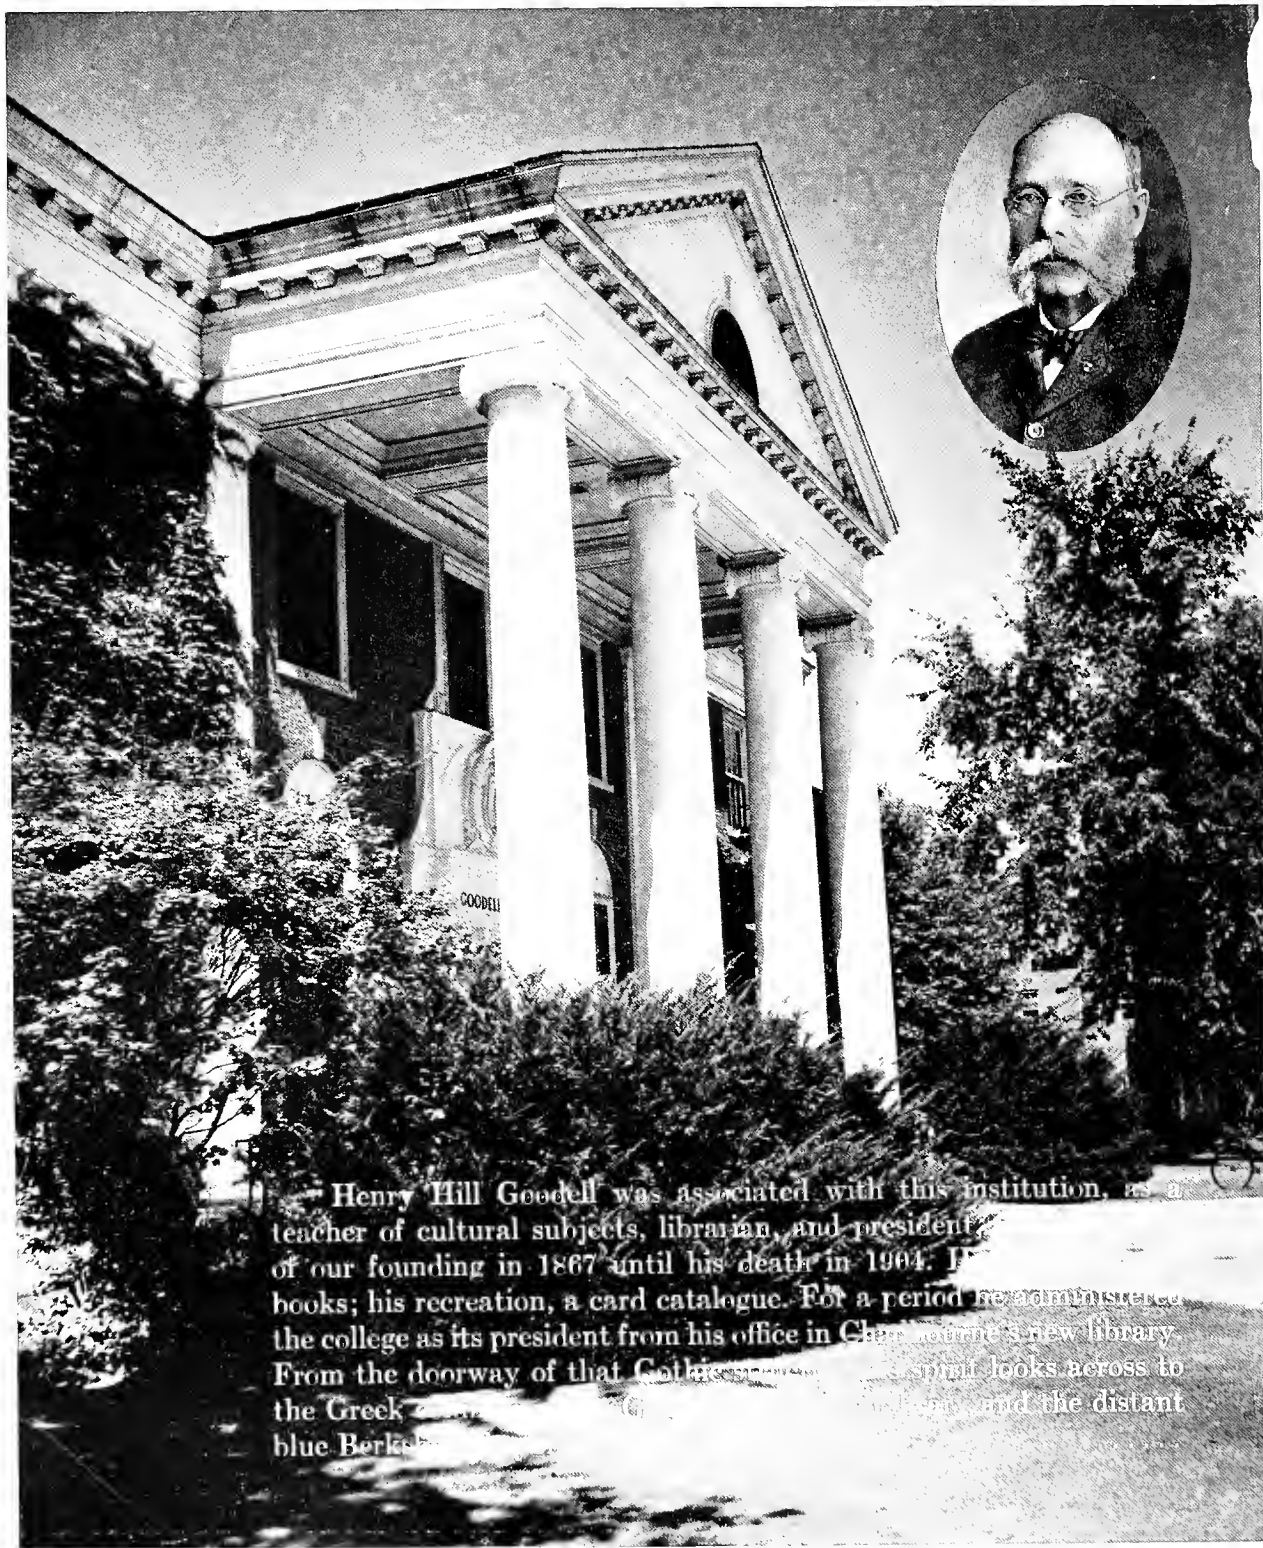

Colonel William S. Clark, chronologically third president, but the first to have any students; reported dead in the Civil War, but reappearing in time to answer the family's request for his body with the message — "Will bring my body with me when I come home"; staging in 1871 a spectacular commencement for twenty-seven graduates with the platform of Amherst's College Hall crowded with local and national dignitaries; harnessing a growing squash and demonstrating, thereby, that in the process of expansion it could lift a weight of two and one-half tons; during a Sabbatical leave organizing in Japan what has now come to be Hokkaido Imperial University. — this was Clark. As during the Civil War, his spirit still survives.

Levi Stockbridge, memorialized in Stockbridge Hall, in the Stockbridge House, in Stockbridge Road and in the Stockbridge School of Agriculture, is still a living presence. Studying his brother's college assignments and conducting experiments with fertilizer on his North Hadley farm, he was to give the practical instruction upon this campus for many years and to become a college president although he had never been a college student. When the college was going through its greatest crisis in 1879, Levi Stockbridge subsidized it from his own leather wallet, replying to a banker friend who sought to dissuade him, "Oh, I'm not afraid. Never you worry. I tell you this college is going to be a great success."

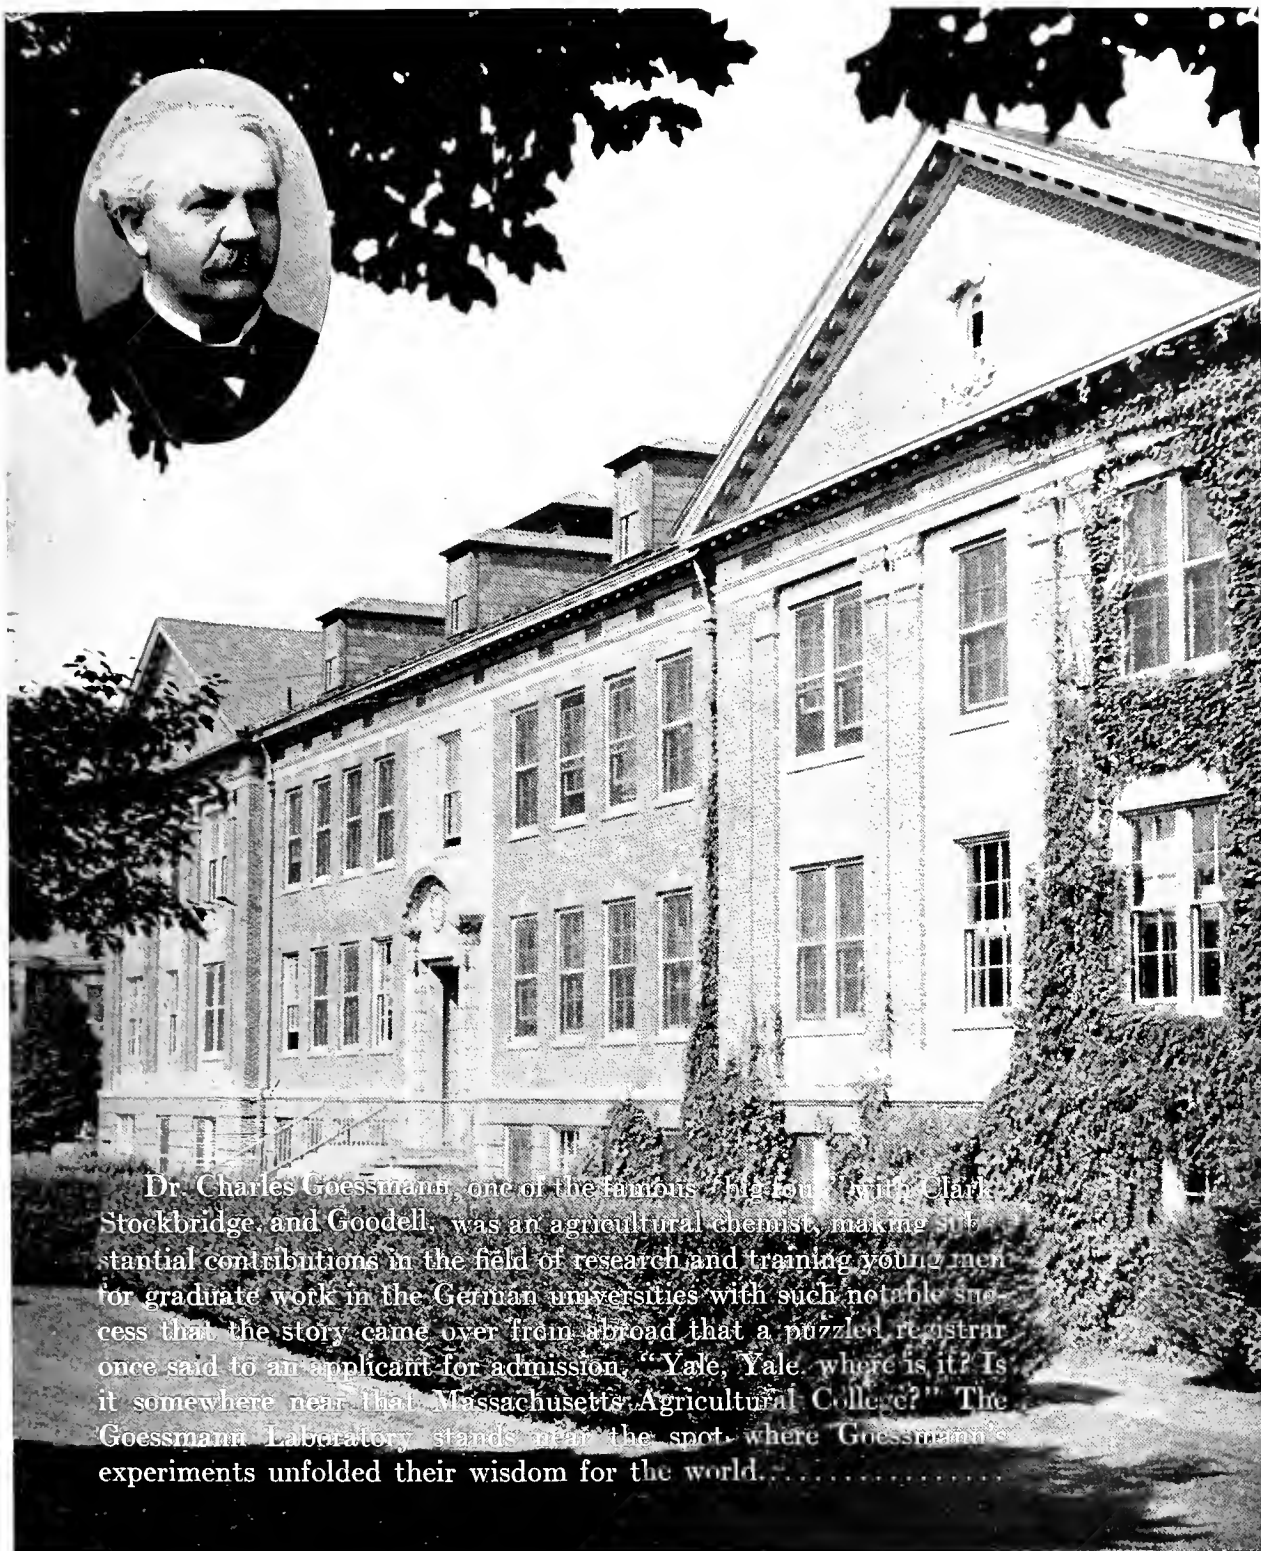

Paul Ansel Chadbourne, twice president of this institution, Doctor of Medicine, Doctor of Laws, Doctor of Divinity, but a specialist in natural science; a pioneer president of the University of Wisconsin and Mark Hopkins' chosen successor at Williams; and, ultimately, the man who in a few months re-established our Alma Mater upon Beacon Hill and, thus, also in Amherst! Chadbourne's death was a spectacular psychological adventure and was reported thus, in detail, in the New York newspapers. His spirit hovers about the Chapel, the immediate monument to his statecraft.....

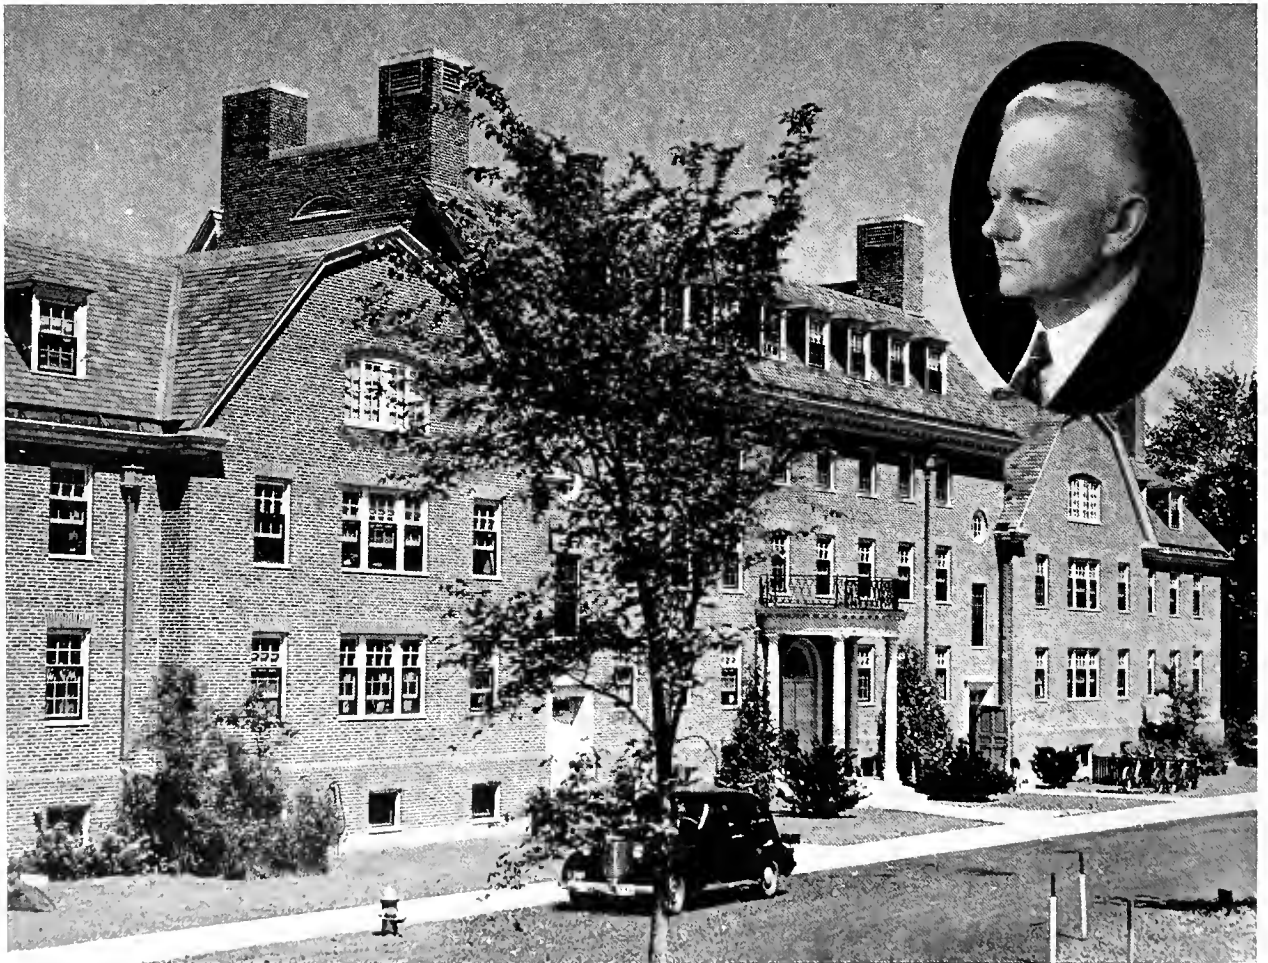

Henry Hill Goodell was associated with this institution, as a teacher of cultural subjects, librarian, and president of our founding in 1867 until his death in 1904. For books; his recreation, a card catalogue. For a period he administered the college as its president from his office in Chamberlain's new library. From the doorway of that Gothic building he could look across to the Greek temple and the distant blue Berkeley hills.

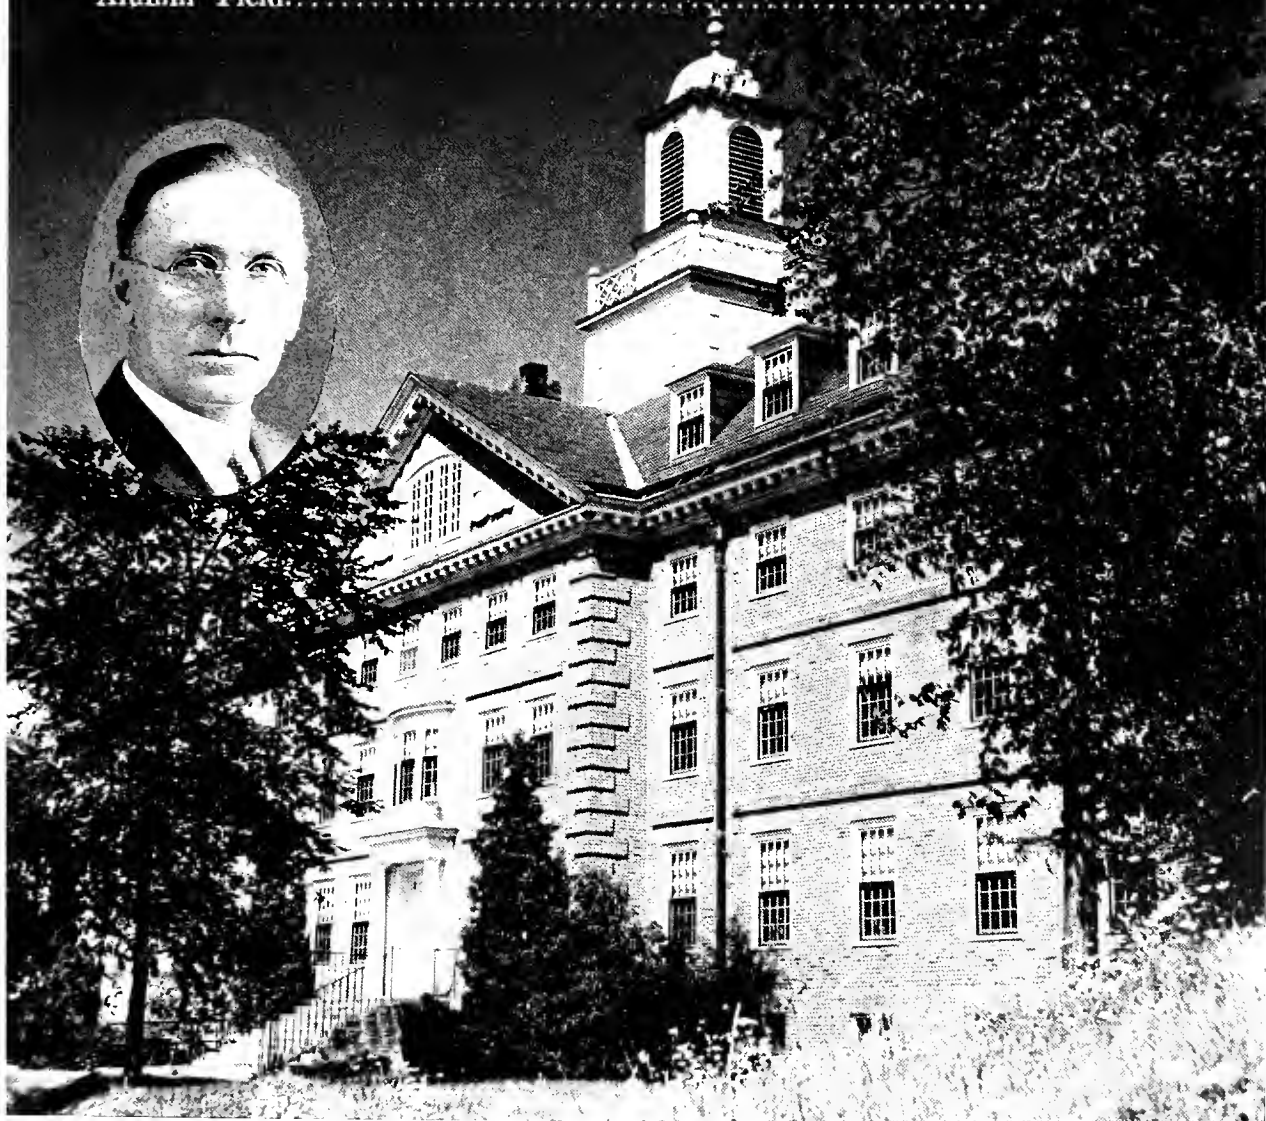

Dr. Charles Goessmann, one of the famous "big four" with Clark Stockbridge and Goodell, was an agricultural chemist, making substantial contributions in the field of research and training young men for graduate work in the German universities with such notable success that the story came over from abroad that a puzzled registrar once said to an applicant for admission, "Yale, Yale, where is it? Is it somewhere near that Massachusetts Agricultural College?" The Goessmann Laboratory stands near the spot where Goessmann's experiments unfolded their wisdom for the world.

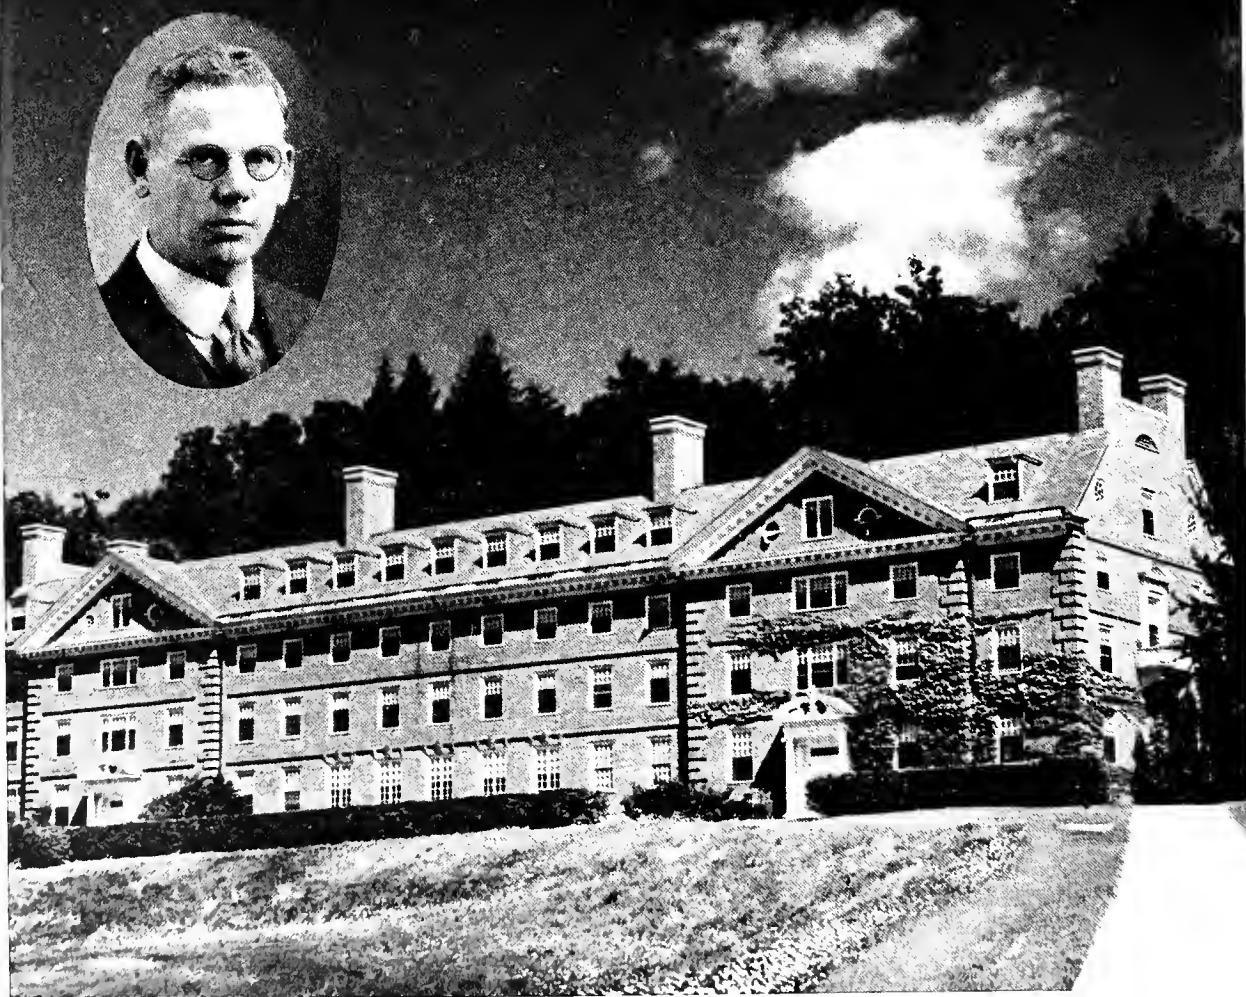

It was under the direction of Kenyon L. Butterfield that this institution ultimately fulfilled its agricultural destiny. President for a longer period than any other, he tripled our student enrollment, the number of courses, the faculty, and the physical equipment on the campus. Because of his crusading spirit, the little town of Amherst came to be a national center in terms of rural leadership. It was his habit to say the classroom is the Commonwealth, and our extension service is, today, an expression of that idea. The President of the United States solicited his advice; the Society of American Foreign Missions enlisted his aid. His enterprise concerned itself with matters of field and pasture and market, but primarily in the interest of a happier and more wholesome country life.....

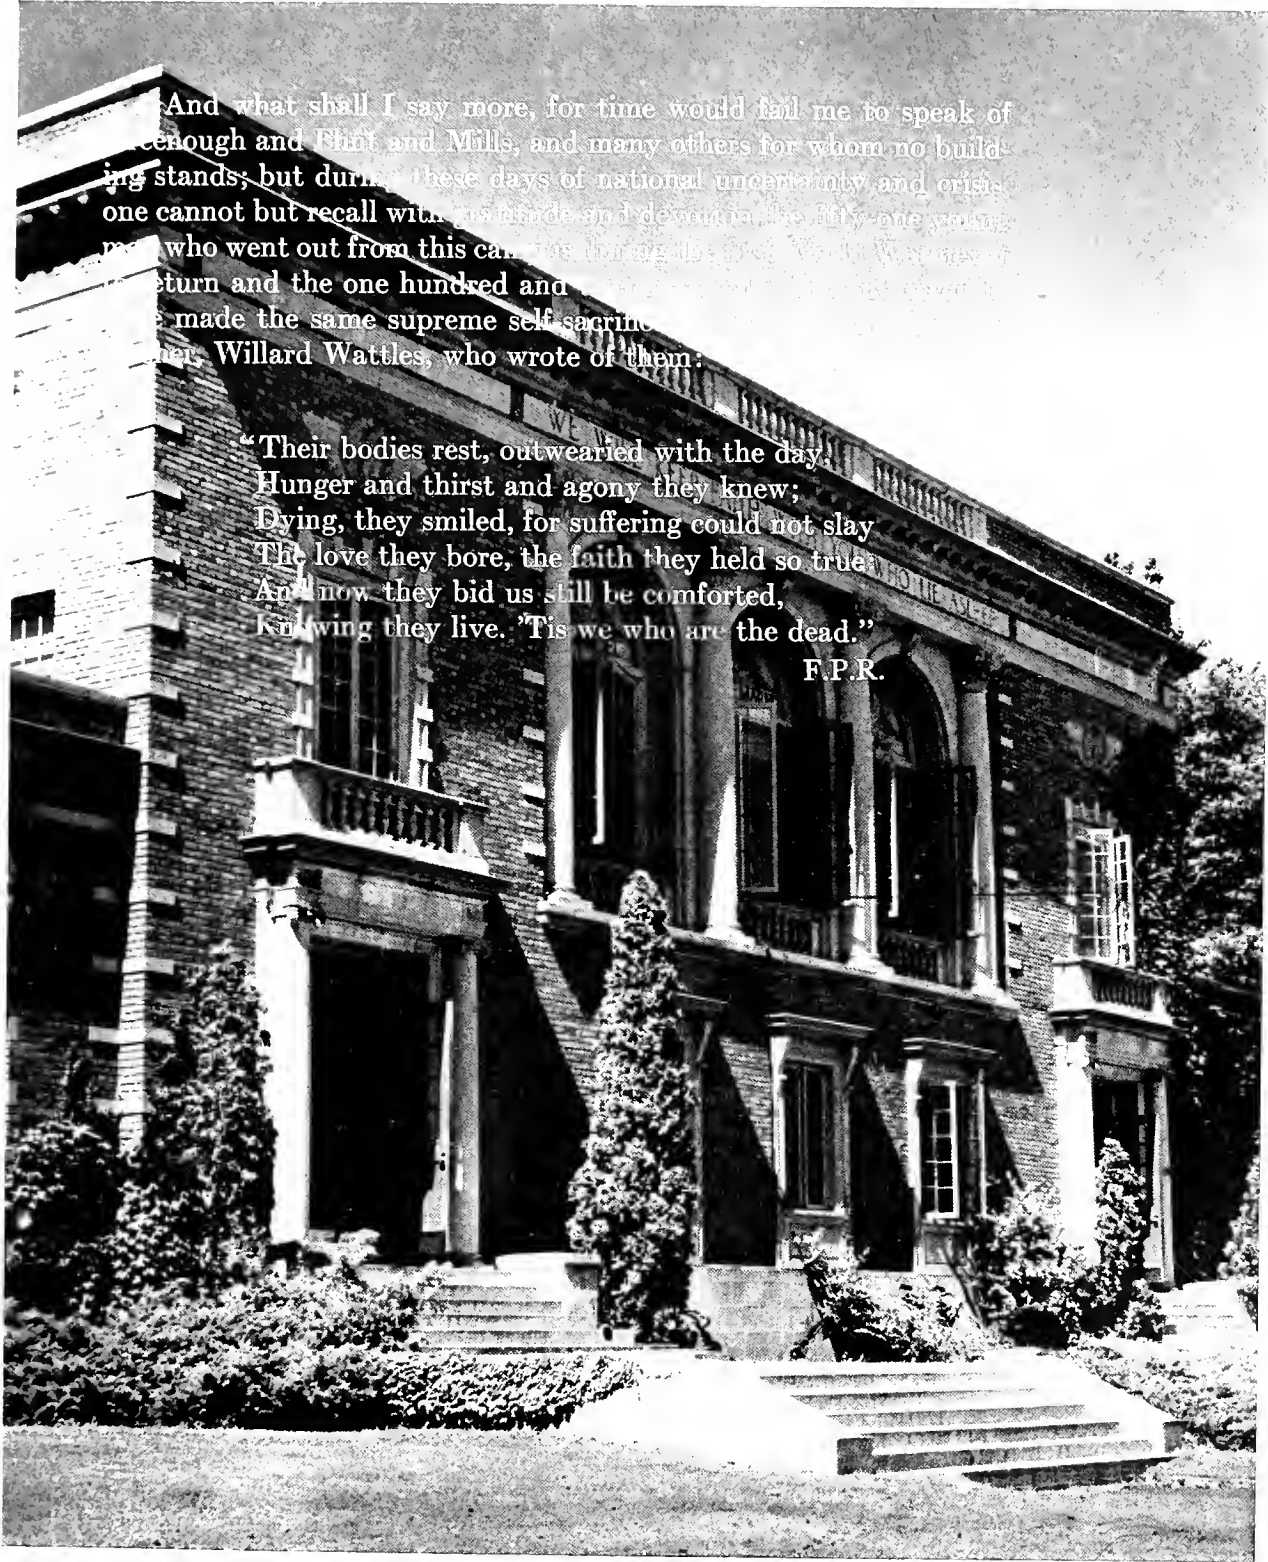

Edward Morgan Lewis, professor, head of the department of Languages and Literature, head of the division of Humanities, acting president on many occasions, and ultimately, president in his own name, was one to stir the imaginations and arouse the affections of our undergraduates. At one time the leading pitcher of the champion Boston Braves, he could never keep away from the athletic field when the sound of the bat was heard once again in the air. His monument is the girls' dormitory at the north of campus, but his spirit may be found, as of yore, when sunny afternoons deepen into twilight, on Alumni Field.....

Roscoe W. Thatcher, cut out with a broad axe, as they used to say in the great West from which he came to us, was to see the declension of agriculture as a popular pursuit in Massachusetts and to guide this institution from a rural into a scientific program. The word agriculture disappeared from the course of study in such fields as chemistry, economics and home life, and the old course in rural literature, which was gradually becoming a study of Chaucer, was now officially designated under the heading of Social Science. By the same token, the Massachusetts Agricultural College became at this time the Massachusetts State College. Thatcher was a chemist and his spiritual eyes are watching our students at work in Goessmann Laboratory, where indeed, as the saying goes, he "passed away."

And what shall I say more, for time would fail me to speak of teenough and Flint and Mills, and many others for whom no building stands; but during these days of national uncertainty and crisis one cannot but recall with admiration the fifty-one young men who went out from this campus during the First World War, and return and the one hundred and twenty-five who did not return.
They made the same supreme self sacrifice.
That Willard Wattles, who wrote of them:

"Their bodies rest, outwearied with the day;
Hunger and thirst and agony they knew;
Dying, they smiled, for suffering could not slay
The love they bore, the faith they held so true.
And now they bid us still be comforted,
Knowing they live. 'Tis we who are the dead."

1948 - 1949

The Gregorian timepiece received a new twist; classes were almost scheduled on Easter Sunday. We counted the weeks in hangovers, the semesters in rent rises.

Bridge hours replaced Couros and U-Store coffee sales reached a new high. Argyle socks replaced the hair shirt as a mark of distinction. The year 1948-1949 heralded the return of Chief Mettawampe's spirit to our campus.

April

The month of April always proves to be a busy one, and 1948 was no exception. The University Chorale started the month with its Boston Tour. Directed by Doric Alviani, the Chorale proved to be a great success wherever they performed. Another musical hit was scored by the Operetta Guild, which gave the musical comedy "Anything Goes" by Cole Porter, starring Mary Wells.

Inter-Greek Week was the busiest time of the month with fraternity skits, sorority sings and declamations, and finally the ball. The Interfraternity Skits, always good, saw first place go to Alpha Epsilon Pi; second, to Theta Chi; and third to Kappa Sigma in two nights of competition.

In the Sorority Sing, Kappa Alpha Theta placed first for their selections, while Pi Phi and Chi Omega received second and third awards respectively. In the declamation Theta again scored first place and Pi Phi was second.

The Ball proved to be a great success with George Paxton and his band performing at the Smith School in Northampton, where the dance was held. The Senate proposed a new constitution which was to change the student government. This proposal caused much discussion but was hailed as a big gain toward the goal of campus democracy at our greatly expanded University.

Inter-Greek Week

April 5-10

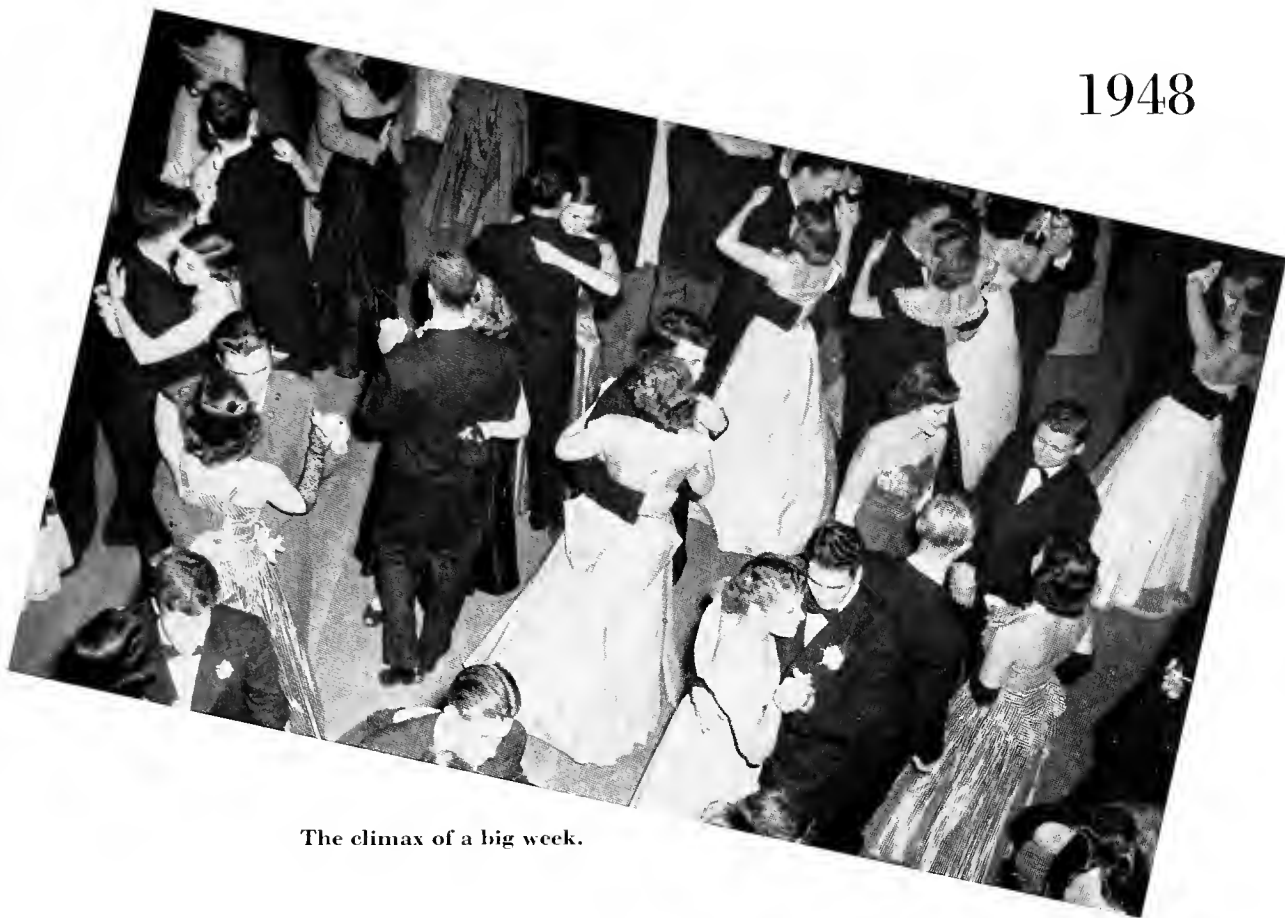

Starting with interfraternity skits on Monday night, and continuing throughout the week, fraternities and sororities combined to present a varied program of fun and festivity during Greek Week, April 5-10.

Alpha Epsilon Pi's "Jungle Fantasy" took first place in the skit competition, with Theta Chi and Kappa Sigma coming in for second and third prizes, respectively.

Not to be outdone by the fraternities, sorority girls showed their talents in the Sing and Declamation contests. Kappa Alpha Theta won first prizes for both the sing and Doris Bolles' rendition of "The Creation." Pi Beta Phi followed suit winning both second prizes, with Alice Chorebanian reading "The Telltale Heart." Sigma Delta Tau's Lois Abrams won third prize in the Declamation for "Strange Interlude," and Chi Omega received third prize in the Sing.

Northampton's Smith School was the scene for the main event of the week, the Greek Ball, sponsored by both fraternities and sororities. Featuring the music of George Paxton's orchestra, the ball drew a capacity crowd and served as a fitting close to the activities of Greek Week.

The month of May, 1948, brought many changes to the University. Acting President Ralph A. Van Meter was officially chosen the thirteenth president.

Not only was the problem of securing a president settled, but

"Spring Day" provided temporary relief for overburdened and frustrated students. The educational and entertaining Bay State Dairy Classic drew an enthusiastic crowd. A novel Cabaret Dance was sponsored by the 1948 War Memorial Drive Committee.

"Joan of Lorraine" by Maxwell Anderson, produced by the Roister Doisters, played two evenings for ing role.

The annual Burnham Declamation was held in the Old Chapel Auditorium. Faye Hammel won first prize and Alice Chorebanian, second. Another annual event was the issuing of the Collegian's page the Mother's Day Weekend audiences. The Roister Doisters did an excellent job, with Doris Abramson playing Joan, the lead-of outstanding student leaders.

Track, tennis and baseball were in full swing with an erratic season. Students tried to concentrate more on studies as finals became a reality.

Commencement Week

June 4-7

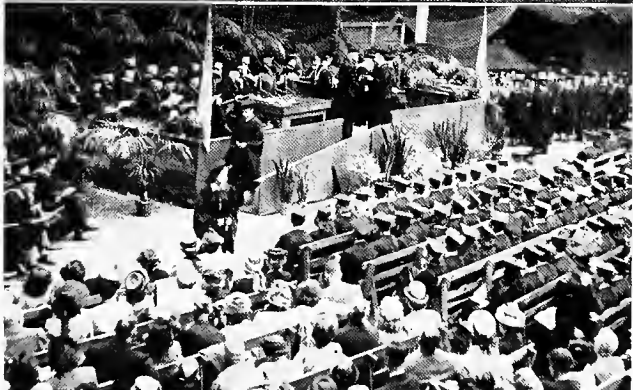

Activities of Commencement Week began for University seniors on June 3 with the Senior Banquet at Toto's. Alumni reunions, Soph-Senior Ball, and the Roister Doister production of Joan of Lorraine made up the week-end program.

Baccalaureate services were Sunday, June 6, in Bowker Auditorium with Rabbi Herbert Weiner of Rochester, N. Y., delivering the Baccalaureate address. That evening Class Night ceremonies featured the Pipe and Hatchet Oration, the Class Ode by Janet Shoenberg, the senior class address by Bob Lynch, and the planting of the ivy with Tina Romano giving the Ivy Oration.

Three hundred and sixty-four candidates received their hard-earned sheepskins at the Seventy-eighth Commencement Exercises of the University on Monday, June 7, 1948. J. Edgar Park, President Emeritus of Wheaton College, was the Commencement speaker; the Rev. David J. Powers gave the invocation.

Five men who received honorary degrees from the University were Louis Lyons, Herbert Hayes, Harlan Kelsey, Julian Eaton, and Joseph Bartlett.

Phi Kappa Phi Scholar Irving Ratner and Phi Beta Kappa Scholar Elinor Gahusha received the coveted highest honors of the Class.

June 1948

Goodbye to the Class of 1948... but before the University of Massachusetts said goodbye to its seniors, there was the excitement of commencement weekend.

After the usual event-filled weekend of commencement, the campus and the buildings were deserted for a short vacation. But soon many members of the faculty and student body returned for the summer session. The group of students that arrived for the summer session, however, consisted not only of our own students, but also of many from other colleges. Soon each student had become adjusted to his intensified summer courses, and the campus was alive again.

The oncoming of July found many U of M students at work or engaged in special training. On the campus the first semester of the entertainment...a picnic at Look Park in Northampton followed by a dance in Mem Hall...a theater trip to Mountain Park in Holyoke enjoyable summer session reached its climax.

A hard-working social committee planned activities which included everyone and which helped to unify the group. Every weekend brought well-planned and varied

Studying, however, was not the only matter to be considered durevery Tuesday and Thursday... enthusiasm was present everywhere. And when finals were over, the group found itself anxiously waiting to plunge into the activities and studies of the second semester.

August

Not even the heat of August could dampen the enrollment at the summer session of the University. Over one thousand students attended summer school, while more than four hundred students and faculty members spent their entire summer here and contributed to its many exciting events.

One of the big affairs of August was the western-style barbecue. Faculty members and students planned the event and worked together preparing the food in four-hour shifts.

A very efficient summer social committee was busy planning affairs for the students. The most interesting were the trips to see play productions by the Valley Players at the Mountain Park Playhouse.

The huge American Institute of Cooperation met on campus from August 30 to September 2.

The deliberate expansion of the University was evident throughout the entire summer. The completion of another men's dormitory, Berkshire House, and the addition of dormitories for the married veterans and their families made it evident that this expansion was to be permanent.

Desperate efforts were made to accommodate the overwhelming enrollment of students expected for the fall semester.

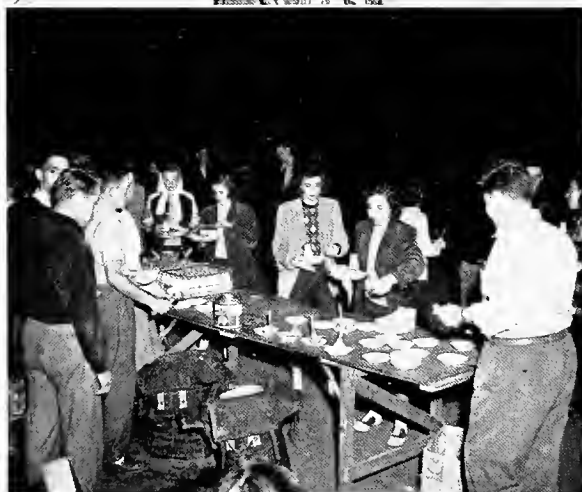

Although the summer curriculum ended early in September, activities at the University continued. Immediately following the summer session, the Department of Public Health sponsored a spe-where they could find their advisers, while the upperclassmen compared summer experiences. President Van Meter, soon to be cial "short course" in Environmental Sanitation.

The first week of the new semester was busy for everyone on campus. Freshmen and transfer students were trying to discover where their classes were held and inaugurated, greeted the student body at the opening convocation.

The president gave the annual Freshman Reception so that these new students might meet their professors.

Isogon and Adelpia jointly started social life on campus with a Freshman Get-Acquainted Dance. The members of the Class of 1952 thus had an excellent opportunity to get to know each other.

1948

Football at the University began in an auspicious manner as the Redmen overpowered a strong Bates team in the traditional season opener. The game ended on an ominous note, however, as Don Costello, one of UM's stellar backs, suffered a kidney injury which permanently disabled him for the sport. Don's loss was greatly felt all season.

October

From football to follies and inaugurations to teas, the month of October started a new and busy semester at the University.

Highlight of the month was the inauguration of Dr. Ralph A. Van Meter as thirteenth president of the University. Present at the ceremonies were more than one hundred college presidents and noted educators, among them President James Conant of Harvard, who delivered the main address.

To celebrate the Van Meter inauguration, the Concert Association presented its first program of the year, Rhythms of Spain, to a capacity crowd of 2500 students and faculty members.

In athletics, the football team suffered defeat at the hands of Norwich and Rhode Island State. At Devens, "Mommy got spanked," but the Worcester Tech and Vermont games brought the Redmen new victories.

The University Band, Cheerleaders, and Drill Team, under the direction of Mr. Ezra Schabas and Wally Kallaugher, did much to stimulate enthusiasm during the football season.

Homecoming weekend climaxed the activities of the month with alumni swarming dorms and fraternities. The presentation of Les Folies Bergère, transforming the Drill Hall into a Parisian night club, ended a busy and exciting month on the University campus.

Campus thespians and songsters worked like beavers; James Melton paid his visit; and the new month of November rushed by.

The fascinating Horticultural Show, choosing Grace Feener as Musical and dramatic productions made the month a colorful one. Roister Doisters started their season with a presentation of John its Flower Queen, highlighted the first part of the month. The Greeks glittered socially as fraternity backslapping and sorority teas netted a huge catch of eager freshman pledges.

November

Balderston's Berkeley Square. Music was in the spotlight throughout the month. The campus witnessed a ten-day series of musical events,

"Holidays of Music." A joint band concert by Amherst College and the University, a jazz concert, a variety of instrumental and vocal new honors. In football, the Redmen, trounced by Springfield College, traveled to Medford to play their final game of the year with Tufts, and succeeded in tying the presentations, and the James Melton recital rounded out the series of enjoyable musical features.

The Cross-Country Team earned highly favored Jumbos with a 13-13 score.

Tufts weekend pointed towards the end of the month...and then the eagerly anticipated Thanksgiving Vacation arrived.

Military Ball

December 3,

The first big all-campus dance of the school year, the Military Ball, was held at Northampton High School gymnasium in the early part of December. Decorations consisted of murals of the most popular World War II cartoons, painted by Paul Dextrader with the assistance of Bob Decareau.

The Military Ball Committee went all out in their efforts to provide a band that would suit every couple at the dance. They secured Ray McKinley and his "most versatile band in the land." Vocalist Jeannie Friley, her husband, trombonist, Veron Friley, and Ray McKinley scored hits with such numbers as "Buttons and Bows," "Down the Road Apiece," and "Borderline."

The highlight of the evening was the choosing of Honorary Colonel from the eight final candidates who were assembled before the audience for the ceremonies in the latter part of the evening. Four R.O.T.C. members formed the committee who chose Grace Feener as Honorary Colonel. Colonel William N. Todd, assisted by Sally Bolles, last year's winner, bestowed the blue and gold cape and the silver eagle on the new Honorary Colonel.

Grace Feener also took part in the floor show, singing "Embraceable You."

December

Snow was scarce in December, but students took part in many activities. A record number of 650 couples packed themselves into the Northampton High School Gymnasium and danced to the "versatile" music of Ray McKinley and his orchestra. The floor show included the choosing of Grace Feener as Honorary Colonel.

The following week, everyone headed for Bowker Auditorium to see the Operetta Guild production of Victor Herbert's "Sweethearts." For weeks afterward, the tuneful Herbert melodies were hummed all over campus.

The weather turned cold and rainy on December twelfth, but that did not stop the annual Christmas Carol Sing. Student voices and a brass choir joined in a program of Christmas carols, old and new, in the Memorial Building Auditorium. The French Club had its turn in helping to celebrate the Christmas season, when it presented the annual French Pageant, a tableau depicting the Nativity.

1948

Just about that time the pre-Xmas hour exams came and went, and on the seventeenth of December everyone packed up and went home to enjoy almost three weeks of vacation. When the turkeys were eaten, the presents opened, and the holidays over, students and faculty alike returned to the University campus to begin a new calendar year.

January opened with a rather dark note as the Campus Chest Drive fell far short of its 1949 goal. Less than fifty percent of the campus contributed to the drive, which was held during late December and

Underneath all the activity was the threat of fast-approaching finals, and rumor had it that every seat in the Libe was occupied each night by harassed students buried deep in Chemistry or English Lit. The grind was broken by several events, however, notably

In sports, the University was honored by a winning track team and discouraged by a basketball team which lost to Devens. Then, after exams were over, came a brief vacation.

Winter Carnival

February 5-12

Winter Carnival week highlighted winter activities with the entire campus entering into the spirit of the carnival.

Main event of the week was the Carnival Ball held at the Amherst College gym. Over 600 couples danced to the music of Johnny Long and his orchestra as Virginia Reynolds of Reading was chosen Queen of the Ball.

The first big events of the week were the skiing and skating events held the first Saturday. The next day, Phi Sigma Kappa and Chi Omega were awarded first prizes in the men's and women's sculpture contests. As a whole, the snow sculptures were the best ever seen on campus!

Monday saw the campus flocking to Bowker to see the Interclass Play contest. Seniors and juniors came in for top honors with their productions of "The Potboilers" and "Riders to the Sea." On Wednesday evening the Home Economics Club and the Floriculture Club presented the annual Flower Fashion Show, while Thursday brought campus music-lovers a performance by the colorful Cleveland Symphony Orchestra.

Round-Robin dances at the Greek houses Saturday night and coffee hours at all sororities on Sunday rounded out the splendid Winter Carnival program.

Fraternities and sororities continued making plans for snow sculptures; campus Thespians rehearsed late into the night to prepare for the interclass plays; and students made the perpetual resolutions to do more studying as the new month and the new semester began at the University.

Two New England college groups came to the University in February to hold conferences. The Four-College Genetics Conference met here and the local chapter of the National Student Association played host to the New England regional convention of NSA.

Highlight of the month was Winter Carnival Week, beginning with skating events on February annual Roister Doister Interclass Play competition. The Concert Association joined in the festivities by presenting a concert by the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, conducted by George Szell.

February marked the conclusion of another disappointing basketball season; yet, a brighter record was foreseen for 1950 when a seasoned "sophomore five" will return to action.

March was another busy month on the University campus. From campus wits slaving over the Campus Varieties book to musicians rehearsing in the newly formed University Symphony, the month formed, others practiced. Rehearsals for the University Symphony, the Operetta Guild's spring production of Naughty Marietta, and

THE GRADUATING CLASS
OF 1949

Your college generation has brought a new spirit to the campus: a strengthening and deepening of the best in tradition and a seriousness of purpose that has had a powerful effect on campus life.

The Class of 1949 will leave the University when it is in the midst of sweeping changes in its organization and scope and when higher education in America is itself entering a new era. You have played your part well in bringing about this development in higher education. Federal and state funds have made it possible for most of you to go to college and the energy and ability with which you have set about it have amply justified the high hopes of those who have supported these projects.

You leave a campus that is changing but which will always remain in many respects the same place you have known so well. The friendships and associations formed here will last if you do your part, and we hope that you will always maintain contacts with us and with each other.

Wherever you go and whatever you do, you carry with you our best wishes — always.

R. A. VAN METER, President

Adelphia

During the academic year of 1948-49 Adelphia has accomplished its many undertakings in a rather unpretentious manner. Many of the projects tackled by Adelphia were sponsored in conjunction with Isogon.

At the beginning of each semester members of Adelphia assisted with registration, and helped freshmen become familiar with the campus. During the football season Adelphia sponsored and ran the football rallies which were held before each home game. A freshman get-acquainted dance, held as a welcome to these new students on the campus, was sponsored by the combined efforts of Isogon and Adelphia.

A campus guide service, with headquarters in Memorial Hall, was established by Adelphia in order to assist newcomers and visitors to the University. Adelphia and Isogon again were the co-sponsors of Campus Varieties, the annual student variety show, which was presented in mid-March. In May, Adelphia organized and put on the Senior Convocation at which time new men were named to be members of Adelphia.

Adelphia was not intended to be a service organization, but rather a final recognition of leadership and service rendered to the University. It has promoted the highest type of fellowship and upheld the traditions and ideals of the University. These accomplishments were achieved more by example than by lectures.

Isogon, the honor society for women established here at the University, was organized to be of service to the University and to recognize outstanding girls of the senior class. Members of Isogon were chosen on the basis of versatility, leadership, scholarship, extracurricular activities, and character. Election to membership was made at the end of the Junior year during the Junior-Senior Processional held in the spring, when the outgoing Isogon members tapped the new members to signify their election to Isogon.

Isogon activities included the publishing of Co-Ediquette, a book of "do's and don't's" for freshman women, and the sponsoring of get-acquainted dances for the first-year women. In conjunction with Adelpia, Isogon sponsored football rallies and Campus Varieties.

Isogon has been self-perpetuating. Every year new members elected to the association have carried out the traditional Isogon activities. They have worked with Adelpia, the honor society for men, in giving service to the University.

To be able to signify which girls are members of Isogon is not difficult since they wear their traditional white jackets with maroon insignia.

In the fall of 1948, forty-three members of the Class of 1949 were elected to Phi Kappa Phi Honor Society while seven were elected this spring.

The Massachusetts Chapter of Phi Kappa Phi was initiated here in 1904. Subject to a quota, senior and graduate students who have had an average of 85 percent or higher during their college years were eligible for election.

The president of the society was Prof. Frederick Troy. He became president in the spring of 1947 and held this office for two years. Other officers were: Prof. Richard Foley, vice-president; Prof. Arthur Julian, secretary; and Prof. Harvey Sweetman, treasurer. New rules governing the election of members are to be used next fall.

Initiation of the fall candidates was held in December. In March new members were elected to the Society. After the spring elections the annual Phi Kappa Phi convocation was held with the traditional procession of Phi Kappa Phi members from the faculty and from the senior class. The purpose of this convocation is to introduce the new members of the society to the students and to award a prize of $50 to the Phi Kappa Phi Scholar.

Senior Class Officers

The presidency of the senior class has not only been an honor but it has also been a great deal of work. The president's duties have been to preside over all senior class meetings, to be "ex-officio" member of all senior functions, and to be chairman of the Campus Social Committee. Coordinating all activities concerning graduation was one of "Wally's" greatest responsibilities. Another very important task for the president was to act as mediator in problems which arose between students and administration.

The vice-president has aided the president at all times; he was prepared to preside over any meetings or to assume any duties in the president's absence. Ed McGrath, as vice-president of the class of 1949, has fulfilled these duties very well.

Marie Matthes, the class secretary, has been responsible for the minutes of all class meetings, all correspondence, and will be responsible for relationships with the Alumni Office after graduation.

This year's senior class treasurer, Ed Young, has administered the class financial policy. He estimated that the budget for the year was $3200, being that portion of the senior activities tax which was earmarked for the class treasury. The money was spent in the following manner: one-third for graduation printing expenses, one-third for the senior class banquet, and one-third for the class gift and other expenses.

Marie Matthes, Sec.; E. McGrath, Jr., V.-Pres.; W. Kallaugh, Pres.; E. Young, Treas.

1949 Index Has "Hangover" Trouble

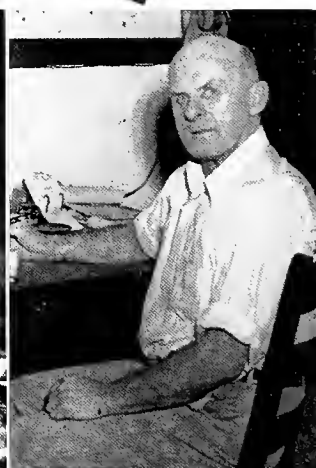

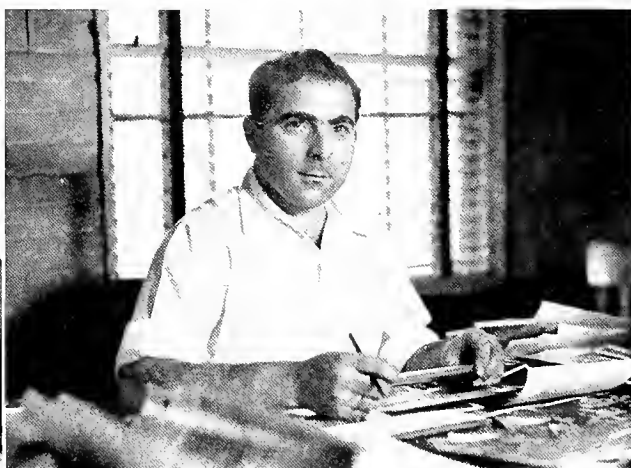

The 1949 INDEX started with "spirit," but ended with "hangover trouble." Election of the Board was made on the basis of popularity and other intangible qualifications. Training consisted of one half-hour meeting of the 1948 Board of Editors with the 1949 "big-heads."

During the spring weeks the Editor and Business Manager listened to every conceivable bid of every commercial photographer, printer, engraver, lithographer, and cover salesman that came along at any time of day or night! These contacts, of course, were necessary so that the Editor could learn the technical requirements of his job.

The theme of University Spirit from Chief Mettawampe down to the Redmen was the goal, but Indian traditions did not appeal to the Literary Staff, who wanted either a theme of the New Idea in Education, or one of a Historical nature. After a two-week struggle in October, however, the reluctant ones agreed to try to put spirit, enthusiasm, and fire into their writing. Lil Greene caught the spark, while others tried.

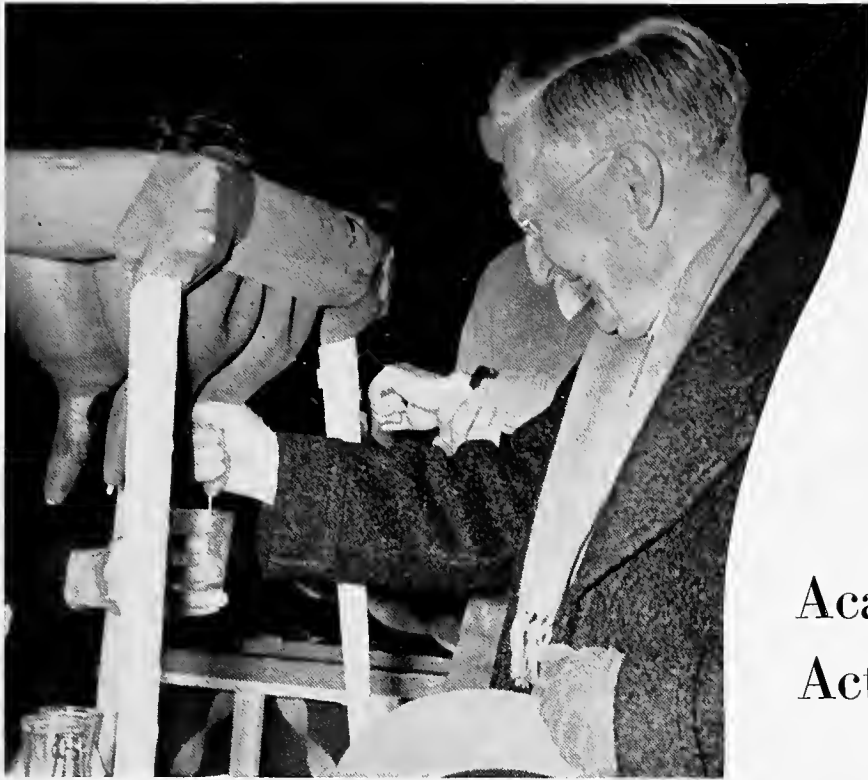

Billy Feldman succeeded well in bringing the large senior class into line for its precise portrait schedule, and by the time group pictures were finished in early December, Billy found that the INDEX business had really interfered with his studies. Pat Stevens did a tremendous job in getting statistics copy in on schedule, but she had her headaches, too. "Land Archeology Club," "R.F.D. Boston," "Mechanical English," and "Horsatonic, Mass." were among the errors that found their way into copy. Dave Wolf created the striking cover motif as well as other designs, and set the Art Staff at work on the Indian theme. After Dave graduated in January, Joan France took over his position and carried through very effectively. Arnold Binder supplied numerous fertile ideas and photographs while Everett Kosarick snapped many campus events and took the colored shot of Old Chapel. Mike Shapiro helped the Editor in preparing some of these pictures for the engraver. When the Associate Editor resigned in late January because of lack of time, the Editor secured the help of Jack Dunn, who wrote the lively material on divider pages, discussed policy, planned features, and made other contributions. The accuracy, life, and promptness of Gerry Popkin and his Sports Staff set a commendable example to the Board as a whole.

Seeing his name posted on Dean's Saturday (shortly after making Phi Kappa Phi), the Editor resolved that, 'it shall not happen again!' With the assistance of the Faculty Advisors and the Business Manager, he took the initiative in revising the INDEX constitution and organization. The new INDEX policy points toward a more closely knit organization, carefully appointed from among the best talent on campus.

Maynard, Curtin Elected Editors

Floyd ("Tollie") Maynard was elected the new Collegian editor and James Curtin managing editor at a meeting of the editorial staff Thursday, January 8.

Maynard '50, who will replace Paul Perry as editor next semester, served as reporter and news editor during his sophomore year and as managing editor this semester. He is majoring in history.

Curtin, '50, a Devens transfer of this year, was a member of the news staff of the Statesman his freshman year, and was later managing editor for two semesters. At Devens he was also campus correspondent for the Globe. He has been feature editor on the Collegian, and will replace Floyd Maynard as managing editor next semester.

More than 4,000 students will be enrolled in the University of Massachusetts this month as a record-breaking 2654 registered in the undergraduate college in Amherst this week and 808 registered at Devens.

Tentative figures released by Registrar M. C. Lathrop revealed that 1400 will register in the Stockbridge School, and another 200 in the Graduate School, bringing the total at Amherst to 2200. The undergraduate registration at Amherst tops last year's by nearly 500.

BRICK BATS

Dear Editor, I would like to take this opportunity to say that the Collegian is a very responsible newspaper.

Collegian Elects Seven Competitors To Staff

The election of seven competitors to the Collegian staff was announced at a meeting last Thursday, as the competition period neared a close. Those newly named to staff were the following: Fred Cole '52, Barbara Curran '50, Carl Cutler '50, Sylvia Kingsbury '52, Agnes McDough '54, Elbert Taitz '50, Pamela Tickels '52.

Because of the large number of competitors for the staff this year, it was announced that not all those competing could be adequately judged for election to the staff immediately. The remainder of the competing group will be considered as contributors to the Collegian, however.

A tentative date of the first meeting after the Christmas vacation was set for the election of those remaining competitors who are judged ready for staff status.

Musgrave Speech Calls Collegian "Free Press"

The Collegian is a free and responsible press, responsible because it is free, and free because it is responsible. Arthur B. Musgrave, president of the University of Massachusetts, said in his address to the Collegian staff last week that the paper and the faculty should work together to provide technical guidance to the student body in the use of the press. He said that the Collegian is a "free press" and that it should be used to promote the kind of journalism that makes a newspaper a "public utility." He added that the managing editor is responsible for the opinions expressed in the news columns, and that the staff should take responsibility for the proper judgment without the newspaper. I am sure that the staff hopes I will turn up to good newspapermen among the staff so that the staff can do a better job in the near future.

April Fool!

Each year the Collegian staff incorporates utopian notions of a day in a bit of journalistic fun—a grandiose university that might last to commemorate April Fool's Day.

Although the stories on pages one to five are primarily excursions into an impossible never-never land, they are nevertheless intended to be read with the same good will with which they have been published.

Collegian Takes Over New Six Story Edifice

Amherst, April 1 (AP)—The Collegian has just moved into its new six-story press building, erected with funds given by the loyal supporters of the campus magazine Pin-Wow. The building, the Collegian is publishing five daily editions in order to keep the campus and the outside world informed of all the important events that occur here. In order to bring a more personal touch into the news, the five editions will be distributed by route standing in study rooms and meeting the new longer length.

Every hour and half from the public will be conducted on a tour of the news building where they will see Editor Cynarski burrowing around in the "morning".

The Senate has graciously given up its room in Menz Hall in order that the A. P. and U. P. may have offices on this campus.

Budget Restrains Ambitious Staff

"Does someone want to write this head?" "Don't forget to save some room on Page 1 for the Senate story." "Ham wants that dummy—is it finished yet?" And so goes a typical Monday night at the Collegian office. Amidst a pile of coke bottles, cigarette butts, and a clatter of typewriters, another issue of the Collegian has gone to press.

Functioning as a true medium of student expression, the Collegian, besides reporting the news of the day, attempts to present campus issues and problems to the students so that they may recognize them and take action on them.

Through its Bouquets and Brickbats column, its many polls and questionnaires, the Collegian tries to make each student an important part of the paper.

While serving the campus as its official student newspaper the Collegian provides an opportunity for students interested in journalism to get first-hand experience, doing everything from reporting to makeup, and typing to editing. The new policy of changing the staff every semester gives a greater number of students an opportunity to take part in the publication. Two issues a week are proposed for next year.

The Quarterly

UNIVERSITY OF MASSACHUSETTS

Amherst

"Have you read that new story we got this morning? This poem is really good, but it's too long... now if we could only cut a few lines..." And so goes a typical "bull" session in the Quarterly office.

The Quarterly functions as an experimental magazine, giving students a chance to examine each other's ideas and opinions—in poetry and prose, in photography and art. Although often hindered by a scarcity of contributions, the staff did publish some of its most successful issues this year.

Serving as editors of the magazine were Doris Abramson, first semester; and David Buckley, second semester. Working with them on the editorial board were Faye Hammel and Joe Hillyard, Associate Editors; Betty Krieger, Art Editor; Paul Greenberg, Business Manager; and Bill Ratner, Circulation Manager.

Continuing a precedent established last year, the Quarterly awarded prizes for the best contributions submitted. In 1948, Doris Abramson and David Buckley took the $15 prizes for poetry and prose, while Tom Kane won the $10 prize for the best art work.

Handbook

1948-1949

From Freshman Bible to General Information Center went the University Handbook in its 1948-49 issue. Formerly a book devoted to guiding incoming students through the trials and tribulations of their first weeks in college, the Handbook last year became a guidebook for all students. Where else could a student look for a bus schedule, with a suitcase in one hand and only two minutes to make the bus? And the Handbook also listed Infirmary hours, Cafeteria hours, Library hours—in fact hours for practically anything a student might want to do.

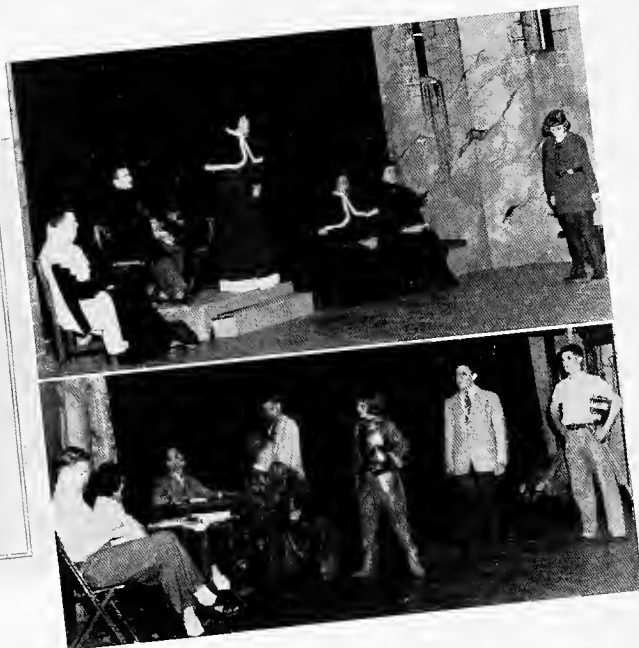

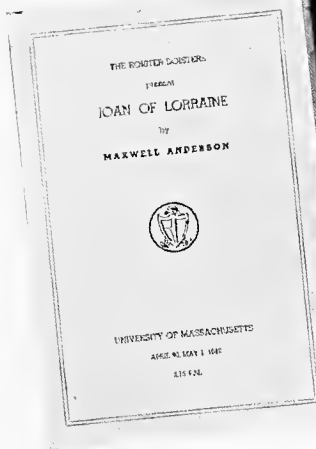

The Directory at the back of the

Handbook contained a list of all campus “wheels.”

For the freshmen, perhaps the most “handy” part of the Handbook was the little map of the campus pasted to the back cover. With registration schedules marked “Fe” and “LA”, the incoming students found the map and its accompanying list of abbreviations a very good thing to have around. The map and the entire book were used constantly by the whole campus, and this is the highest praise that could be accorded the hard-working and long-suffering Handbook staff.

With "Joan of Lorraine", the Roister Doisters reached their peak and again attained approval with the fall production of John Balderston's "Berkeley Square". Under the able direction of Mr Arthur Niedeck, professor of speech and advisor to the Roister Doisters, a competent cast captivated the campus audience with their splendid interpretation of the love of a twentieth-century man with an eighteenth-century woman.

During Winter Carnival Week,

the Roister Doisters sponsored the annual Interclass plays. The seniors' production of "The Pot Boiler," a play within a play, won them top honors in the contest. Second-place laurels went to the Junior class for their production of "Riders to the Sea."

This year, the Roister Doisters started their plans for their spring production early in February. Inspired by their successes of "Joan of Lorraine," and of "Berkeley Square," the Roister Doisters undertook to produce "I Remember Mama" by John Van Druten for Mothers' Day and commencement weekends.

Cole Porter's

Tom Kane

"Sweethearts" Finale

Cole Porter's operetta "Anything Goes" climaxed the 1948 spring season for the University Operetta Guild. A production starring Wally Kallaugher, Alice O'Donnell, Mary Wells, and Bill Clarke was presented on April 21, 22, 23, and 24, 1948. Bowker stage became the promenade deck of a ship in the production, which had never been presented previously except on a revolving stage.

For their first production of the 1948-49 season, the Operetta Guild chose Victor Herbert's "Sweethearts," which was presented on December 9, 10, and 11. This famous comic operetta starred Dorothy Morton Billings and Edward Purrington singing in the leading roles, with Mary Wells turning in a fine job in the main character role of Dame Paula.

For their third operetta, presented in the second semester of the 1948-49 season, the choice of the Operetta Guild was the popular "Naughty Marietta." This was the Guild's first attempt at a modern operetta.

The Band of the University of Massachusetts evolved during this past year into two large campus organizations, including seventy-five students, under the spirited leadership of Ezra Schabas. For now there is a concert band added to the well-known football band; and both have their own functions and their own purposes.

The football band wore a "new look" this year as it performed at all games, rallies, and torchlight parades. It had become a medium for transferring enthusiasm and school spirit from itself to the campus. The students seemed unable to resist the contagion of this emotion. The "new look" that the band wore this year was the joyous, spirited faces of the students marching along with the band at torchlight parades, the students cheering with the band at football rallies, and the students exultantly singing with the band at the games.

The concert band has shown by the response to its performances—in its first year of existence—how successful a newly established group of musicians can become with real inspiration and good leadership. It is a versatile band for it plays all types of music, from jazz to classical, according to the occasion. The University of Massachusetts concert band put on a joint band concert as the climax of Music Week. Just before Christmas vacation the brass ensemble of the band played Christmas carols on the Amherst Common and in Memorial Hall. The band also traveled to some of the high schools in the state where it spread the name of the University and its accomplishments.

A well-known band is very important to the reputation of its school. With a continuation of the spirit and enthusiasm displayed this year, and with the support of the school and the students, the band will continue to unite the campus and preserve the spirit and traditions of the U. of M.

Cheerleaders

For the first time since before the war, we have had this year all male cheerleaders.

Also, for the first time, a new cheering technique, patterned after the procedures used at Yale and Cornell, was introduced this year. It took spirit and enthusiasm to make up new cheers, to learn them, and to teach them to the students at the football rallies; moreover, the new style, a short terse cheer, proved highly effective in a fast-moving football game.

The cheerleaders this year have instilled a great spirit into the student body.

Drill Team

Under the excellent direction of Wally Kallaugher and his assistant, Doug Footit, the drill team proved spirited and dynamic on the football field this fall.

With fifty women signed up for the team, Manager Janet Miller was able to show visiting teams and their supporters that the University's football team was backed by the students. These girls by working hard and long, on their own time, demonstrated to the football team that they were being backed and urged on to bigger and greater victories.

The University of Massachusetts

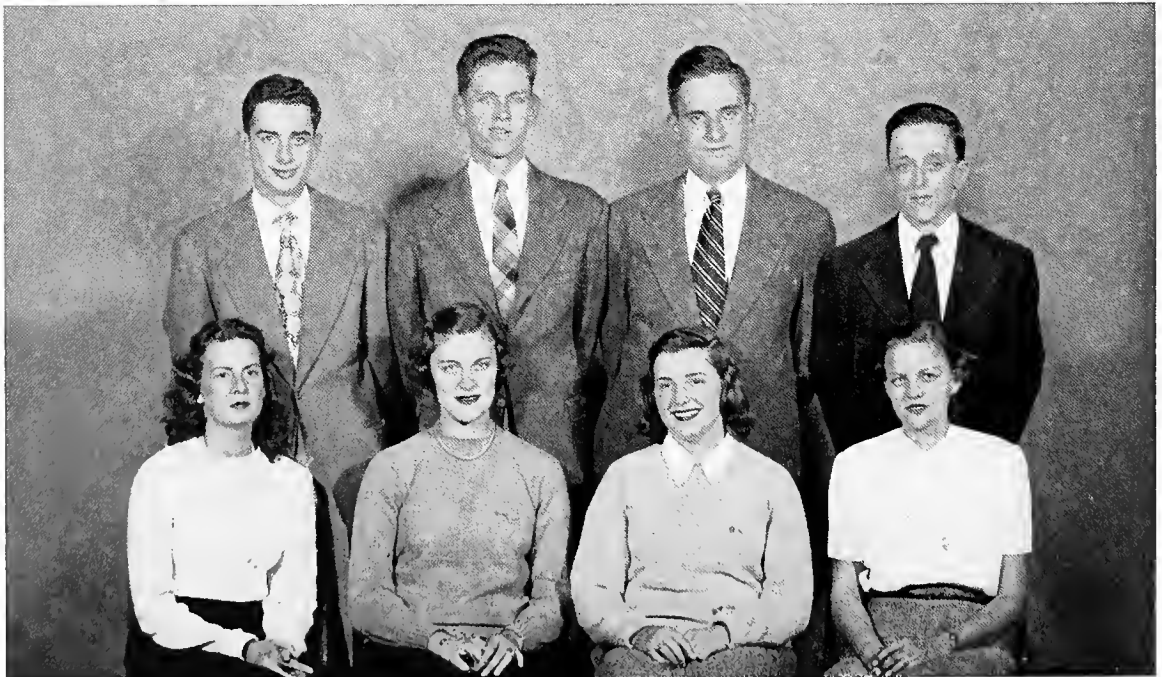

Concert Association

The Concert Association is a non-profit organization completely controlled by students. All the phases of presenting an evening's entertainment — scheduling events, furnishing programs and publicity, and supervising seating, lighting, staging, and decorations — are included in their activities. This year their varied program included an orchestra, soloist, dancers and a chorus. In October, the association presented "Artist's Night," featuring Rhythms of Spain interpreted by Spanish dancers, a famous guitarist, and a distinguished pianist.

To climax the "Holidays of Music" festival held in November, James Melton, leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera Association, was featured in a varied program. Following Christmas vacation, the DePaur Infantry Chorus offered an evening of songs and spirituals. As the musical highlight of Winter Carnival Week the association presented the Cleveland Symphony Orchestra, under the direction of George Szell. Next year the association will offer Rise Stevens, the Robert Shaw Chorale, the Rochester Symphony Orchestra, and Whittemore and Lowe, pianists.

You have to be good to sing in the University chorale. The twenty-eight members of the campus's only choral group are personally selected by Doric Alviani. This group not only gave several performances on campus last year, but also travelled to various other points in the state to bring their melodious charm to as many as possible.

The annual Snowman's Frolic, held during Winter Carnival Week, was one of the high spots of the choral season on campus. An informally attired Chorale regaled the audience with humorous offerings and other light songs. This same concert was later taken on the road by Prof. Alviani and the Chorale, and many people away from Amherst were able to enjoy the fine music which the group presented.

This was only the second year of the Chorale's existence on this campus, but the group has already made for itself a high reputation, not only at the University of Massachusetts, but also in the various cities and towns in which it has sung. Plans are being made now for a third year that will be even more successful than the first two.

Academic Activities Board

A general manager, two faculty members, two alumni, and student managers of the various Academic Activities make up what is known as the Academic Activities Board. The student managers represent the Collegian, the Quarterly, the INDEX, the Handbook, the University Chorus, the University Chorale, the Operetta Guild, the Band and Drill Team, and the Roister Doisters.

The Board serves as a financial aid to the various organizations represented on it. It also serves as an award-making organization, presenting honorary gold medals at the annual Commencement Sunday breakfast to alumni who have made definite contributions along academic lines on campus or elsewhere. Last year medals were awarded to David M. Lipshires, James A. Hyslop, and Myron H. West.

The Board also awarded the conspicuous service trophy to Mildred Kinghorn for her fine work on the University Handbook, and the manager's prize was divided between Theodora Melahouris and Jean Rheaume. Diamond chip, gold, and silver medals are also awarded to members of Academic Activities according to the amount and quality of their contributions.

Student Senate

The Senate reasserted itself on campus this year as the central legislative body serving the students of the University. Elected by their fellow students not only for their popularity but for their abilities as well, the student senators have shown their interest in our school by playing an important role in promoting the general welfare of the campus. Creating school spirit, one of the most vital topics of campus conversation, has been a primary objective of the senators. By supervising and co-ordinating all campus activities, the Senate has assumed a task of great significance, although few students realize the importance of it.

In addition to setting up rules and regulations for the Judiciary Board, the Senate this year revised its own constitution with a view to giving better service to the student body. The improvement of many campus facilities, such as the dormitories, the University Store, and Memorial Hall, has been at the head of its agenda. Despite the fact that the Senate is still in an experimental stage, this year has been a successful and auspicious one for student government.

For some time we have felt a need for the revival of campus spirit and tradition. This year a committee was formed by Robert Leavitt, Senate president, to investigate and recommend methods for improvement. The committee included presidents of the campus honorary societies, Adelpia, Isogon, Scrolls, and Maroon Key, plus the president of the freshman class.

Meeting weekly, the committee generalized their suggestions into five categories: publicity off-campus, freshman orientation, improved athletics, improved student-faculty relations, and organized social activities.

Student Life Committee

The University Committee on Student Life makes recommendation to the Administration regarding extracurricular activities of students and student organizations. It endeavors to maintain a proper balance between time set aside for these activities and time available for study. It also tries to encourage successful planning in such activities.

Last year the Committee revised the plan for chaperoning mixed social events, studied the regulation of drinking in fraternities, helped the Interfraternity Judicial Board start their work, and adopted a policy toward possible expansion of fraternities and sororities.

Last year the campus chapter of the National Student Association came into existence. Better student government is one of its major aims. The N.S.A. sponsors European tours each summer, and several of our students took advantage of this opportunity last year. In September Chairman George Runquist went to the National Congress in Wisconsin, while the Regional Conference was held here in Amherst.

Now in progress are plans for a student exchange with foreign colleges and the possible institution of a student union purchase-card system to lower our cost of living.

Campus Chest Drive

The United Negro College Fund, the World Student Service Fund, the Exchange Scholarship Fund, and the Cancer Research Fund were chosen by student poll to receive the results of the annual Campus Chest Drive which opened on campus in December.

At the same time, the students elected Miss Charlotte Rice as Miss Good Samaritan in conjunction with the drive. Miss Rice reigned as the queen of the spring Mardi Gras, held outdoors under the chairmanship of George Runquist. Booths were set up by various campus organizations, all proceeds going to the Campus Chest Fund.

Who's Who

By scholastic excellence, leadership and cooperation in educational and extra-curricular activities, general citizenship, and promise of future usefulness, students are elected to membership in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities. Over six hundred colleges and universities from all parts of the nation are represented in this national organization, which is the students' version of the well-known Who's Who in America.

This year, eighteen U of M students were recommended by student government groups and faculty members and approved by the publishers to be included in the 1949 volume of Who's Who.

Varsity M Club

W. Looney, V.-Pres.; R. Lee, Pres.; D. Kinsman, Sec.

Founded in the fall of 1948, the Varsity M Club dedicated itself to advancing the "M", taking part in campus activities, fostering relationships between athletes and coaches as well as between high school athletes and the University, and orienting freshmen athletes at the University.

Meeting on the fourth Thursday of the month, club members enjoyed talks by men well acquainted with the scope of athletics. The Varsity M Club sponsored a benefit dance for injured football star Don Costello early in the year. Other activities of the organization included the operation of concessions at all athletic events.

Scrolls

Each spring at a special convocation for women students 13 outstanding girls from the freshman class are tapped for Scrolls, the sophomore women's honorary society. Selection is made on the basis of personality, scholarship, leadership and service. Members of Scrolls are known on campus by their maroon crew hats with a white scroll emblem.

The society promoted initiative, scholarship, and fellowship among the coeds. Scrolls ushered at concerts, aided their parent organization Isogon, acted as guides at registration, and conducted a friendly initiation of freshmen to the traditions of the University.

Maroon Key

Being a member of the Maroon Key is not all play and no work. Ask any member! The year's activities began by a well-received dance held early in the fall. Hazing the freshmen was one of the more enjoyable tasks assigned to this honorary society; playing host to visiting athletic teams was, however, a more serious responsibility. Nevertheless, there are no members of the Maroon Key who regret the work that they do. According to President Dick Vara, "It's a lot of fun."

Due credit should be given to the Maroon Key for their efforts in fostering a friendly spirit on campus and in enlivening campus life.

Women's Athletic Association

As a climax to freshmen hazing, WAA sponsored its annual Freshmen Playday after the pond party in the fall. Grinning Frosh, who played everything from badminton to field hockey, decided that University life was going to be "not bad after all." They really had fun watching the annual Student-Faculty hockey game which took place in November with the coeds on the short end of a 2-0 score.

Winter and spring activities of the organization were varied, including a Swimming Symposium at Wellesley, many intrahouse sports, the Student-Faculty Playnight, and the Modern Dance Recital.

The Hillel Foundation of the University of Massachusetts aims to foster among the students of all faiths realization of the necessity for close interfaith relationships.

During the past year, Hillel included in its program a series of forums on subjects of general interest to the college group. Several movies, as well as many varied social functions, including a buffet supper in January, were an important part of the full social and educational program offered by Hillel. Under the direction of Rabbi Ruchames, religious services were held weekly on Friday evenings and upon the High Holidays.

This year the College Pilgrim Fellowship at the First Congregational Church voted to call itself the Edwards Fellowship, a name taken in memory of the famed Congregational minister, Jonathan Edwards. This change was prompted in part by the desire of the group to affiliate with the United Student Fellowship, which is the official grouping of students under the recently culminated merger of Congregational Christian Churches and the Evangelical and Reformed Church.

Suppers, worship services, and discussion groups, designed to be limited to a two-hour fellowship, were held on Sunday evenings until after Easter.

This year a group of students who had been meeting informally for Bible discussions organized the Interfraternity Christian Fellowship. The organization promoted fellowship among the Christian students on campus by means of Bible study and prayer.

Advised by Reverend Robert Davis of the Baptist Church, the group gathered together every Tuesday evening in Old Chapel or, in fair weather, beside the University Pond. At these meetings a different member acted as moderator each week. In the spring some of the members attended the New England Conference of Intervarsity Christian Fellowships.

I. Z. F. A.

The University chapter of the Inter-collegiate Zionist Federation of America has attempted throughout the past year to spread an understanding of the Zionist movement to students on campus. Providing an agenda of varied activities, I.Z.F.A. sponsored numerous socials and biweekly discussion groups, as well as an exhibit in the library showing the achievements of the Jewish state.

Twice this year I.Z.F.A. played host to representatives from four other colleges in western Massachusetts. The various aspects of the developments in Israel and in the American Jewish community were the topics of these discussions.

Judson Fellowship

Last October, college students, assisted by Rev. Henry Wolk, formed a new club on campus with the aim of bringing together college students from this area interested in the Lutheran faith. During the year, members met on the second Thursday of each month for round-table discussions.

Many members attended regularly, and enjoyed the spring picnic, which is to be an annual affair. Because of its comparative newness, the club's activities were limited this year, but growth in years to come will assure all Lutheran students of a social outlet as well as a place to bring their religious problems.

Every Sunday evening at the parsonage of the Baptist Church, the Judson Fellowship sponsored supper meetings, followed by a worship service and informal discussion groups or movies. Together with their advisers, Rev. Robert Davis and Professor William Sanctuary, the members planned varied programs based on the examination of their denomination in relation to other denominations.

In November the fellowship was host to a four-college conference of student Baptist organizations. The group was active both in the local Baptist Church and in the New England Baptist Conference.

Affiliation with Amherst College has insured a large, interested group attending the Phillips Brooks Club. Supper meetings were held every other Thursday, under the leadership of Rev. Chandler McCarthy and Rector John Coburn.

This year emphasis was placed on discussion groups rather than speakers, as students felt they could arrive at better understanding of their Church through the informality of this procedure and the opportunity to raise any questions that puzzled them. Mr. McCarthy was transferred in January, when the groups presented him with a gift. A spring picnic rounded out the year.

Two outstanding events highlighted Newman Club activities this year. In October the club played host to the annual convention of N. E. Federation of Newman Clubs. A few weeks later, the Newman Club Achievement Award, given to the most active national collegiate member, was presented to a University student for the first time. Tina Romano '48 was recipient.

The activities of the club included the annual spring Communion Breakfast, the Christmas dance, and the weekly bowling group. A joint meeting was held in the fall with S.C.A. and Hillel, presenting Fr. O'Brien as the guest speaker.

The cabin parties given by the Student Christian Association throughout the past year proved very successful in promoting good fellowship among the many members. Held at Camp Anderson, the parties provided pleasant and instructive Saturdays. The Association also sponsored two Embassies, with dormitories and Greek houses participating, and Reverend Jim Robinson from Rabbit Hollow as one of the guest speakers. The whole University enjoyed the SCA-sponsored carol sing, another traditional event.

Interesting panel discussions and outside speakers formed the nucleus of the monthly meetings.

Wesley Foundation

Informal meetings at the home of Dr. Adrian Lindsey afforded members of the Methodist Wesley Foundation some home life while they were here on campus, the students taking turns cooking the Sunday-night supper.

A varied program this year included speakers on Communism, the Far East, and the United Nations, as well as movies and discussion periods. The women of the Amherst Methodist Church held the annual fall banquet for the members, with the Reverend Mr. Bullock as speaker. Other events included the annual Christmas party and the outdoor wiener roast for the seniors in May.

La Maison Française

The first floor of Thatcher Hall was the home of La Maison Française, which boasted 14 members this year. While intent on perfecting their ability to speak fluent French, the students sought to broaden their background in French culture, and in their salon appeared an interesting assortment of French books, magazines, and records.

A gay Parisian touch came to the campus in the fall when the members helped present "Les Folies" to start a building fund for a new French house. La Maison Française, with the flags of both nations flying side by side, was a symbol of Franco-American friendship.

Fencing Club

Membership in the Fencing Club was open to any male student on campus, regardless of whether or not he had had any previous instruction or experience in fencing. The club held at least one meeting a week to accommodate all the members who desired instruction. At these meetings various parries were taught and

International Club

The International Club, far from being a political organization, promotes a fine "good neighbor" policy. American and foreign students came together at its meetings, with their principal aim being to achieve a better understanding between the two groups.

the past year. The meetings of the Naiads have offered the members a chance not only to get in some recreational swimming but also to improve their skill.

Along with representatives from Smith, Wellesley, and Radcliffe, the Naiads attended a symposium at Wellesley in December. Their varied talents were also demonstrated in a water ballet which was presented during the spring.

Outing Club

This year the Outing Club brought together students interested in the different phases of outings. Members offered new ideas and suggestions to the group as a whole.

The club brought prominent political leaders to our campus during the course of the year, its outstanding guest speaker being the popular Norman Thomas, leader of the Socialist Party in America. At the biweekly meetings of the group, guest speakers and movies were a part of the program. Among the guests of the club was Strand Mikkleson, the renowned Norwegian who aided in introducing skiing into this country.

Veterans' Association

Since 1944, the Veterans' Association has been an actuality on the campus. Chief among its purposes was the establishment among the members of mutual responsibility and aid in procuring for each, those entitlements given by law. The campus association, as well as the national and state organizations, has aided the causes of many members. It has helped to procure increased subsistence for all the veterans through representation at a national conference.

This year the organization was discontinued. Should the interest and need not arise within two years, all funds will be given to the War Memorial Drive.

Veterans' Wives Organization

The Veterans' Wives Organization promoted friendship and recreation among the wives of the veterans. Besides their regular meetings, the group sponsored many excellent social events. In December they held a Christmas party

Thanks to the assistance of Professor Pierce and to the diligence of its officers, the International Relations Club made itself known on campus as a smoothly functioning organization.

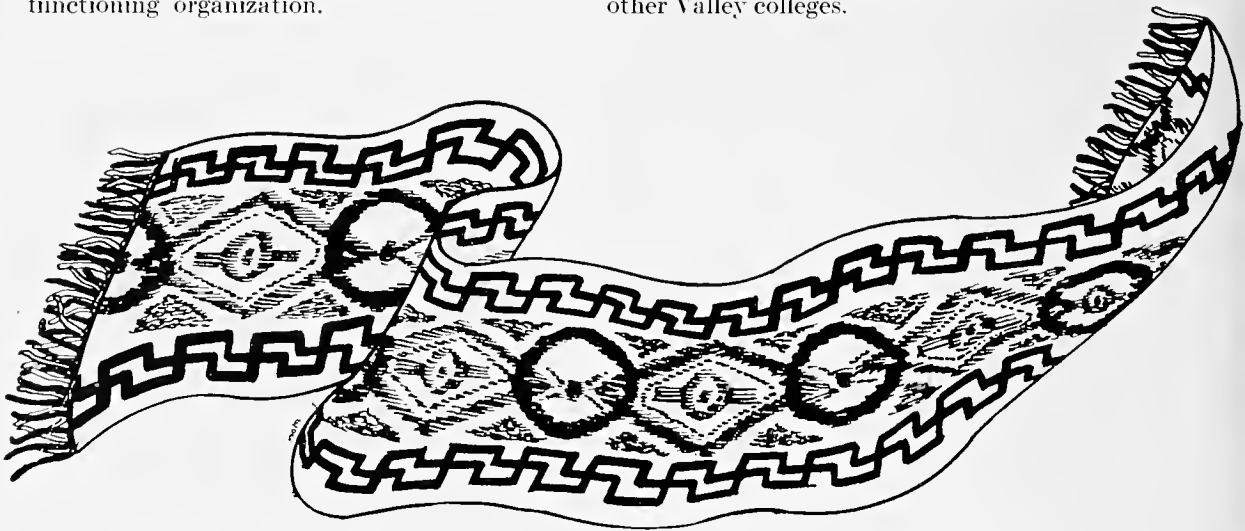

Society of Intercollegiate Noetics

R. Peters, G. Peters, M. Manning

Although the Amherst chapter of the Society of Intercollegiate Noetics has been organized on this campus for only a few months, it is already quite active. The primary function of the club is to stimulate creative intellectuality, and members have organized discussion groups and extended speaking invitations.

Last semester the Society brought Morris Sayer, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, to the campus as a speaker. The club also arranged intercollegiate functions, distributed publications of interest, and assisted in the organization of Noetic societies in other Valley colleges.

Such speakers as Arthur Caesar from Switzerland, Professor Heartlein from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and other professionals from Philadelphia and New York discussed a varied selection of topics such as precise surveying instruments, effects of stream pollution on small towns, highway engineering, and governmental projects.

The local chapter, one of the oldest campus organizations, was unique in that it brought together the four-year students of the University with the two-year students of Stockbridge.

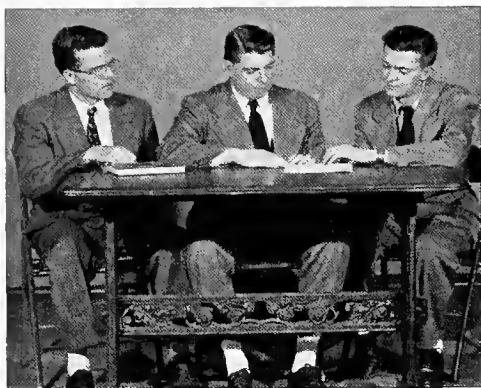

Pre-Medical Club

With the enrollment of pre-medical students at the U. of M. larger than ever, the Pre-Med Club enjoyed one of its best years. The members of the club were made aware of research work that has taken place at the University in the field

Psychology Club

D. Balise, J. Lane, Pres.; P. Holt, Sec.-Treas.

The purpose of the club is to acquaint students with the general nature of psychology, and the meetings tried to cover many phases of psychology. After the presidential election, members heard a discussion on Gallup polls; and talks or films were given on Child, Clinical, and Industrial Psychology.

The Psychology club opened its doors in October with a demonstration of hypnotism that packed the hall. A Smith College psychologist hypnotized Professor Feldman, and the delighted members then tried to find out from the hypnotized professor what would be on his next hour exam.

Chemistry Club

Standing: J. Leal, Prog. Comm.; B. Crowley, Adviser.
Front Row: C. Flynn, Treas.; E. Murphy, Pres.; A. Bluestein, V.-Pres.
Absent: Gloria Sirine, Sec.

With its largest membership in school history, the Chemistry Club enjoyed one of its biggest years. Lectures by Dr. John Roberts, J. S. Hurley, and Dr. Charles Bauer, on such complicated subjects as antiluministics, silicones, and microscopic analysis, were featured among the many events that the Chem Club sponsored. Movies, informal discussions, and field trips gave variety to the meetings and made them exciting to those interested in chemistry.

With zeal for science reaching its peak, this year's Chem Club was an excellent medium for students to further their interests in chemistry.

Education Club

The Education Club was organized so that students might supplement their class work in education by listening to guest lecturers, seeing films, and conducting open discussions on subjects related to their interests.

In the past year, the Education Club enjoyed talks by many men and women active in the secondary schools of Massachusetts, including Mr. John Redmond, Principal of the West Springfield High School. Other activities included a trip to the Putney Private School at Elm Lea Farm, Putney, Vermont, and an open discussion on "Comparative Education," presented by foreign students.

Standing: Marilyn McCarthy, Sec.-Treas.
Front Row: Barbara Broderick, Phyllis Gruntler, J. Dunn, J. Litz.

Fernald Entomology Club

Jeanette Tonner, Sec.; A. Therrien, Pres.; W. Tunis, Editor; M. Ghani, V.-Pres.

A well-coordinated program of educational and social activities helped to make this year a rewarding one for the members of the Fernald Entomological Club. The club's meetings consisted essentially of informal talks by noted speakers, whose lectures kept the members of the club "up-to-date" with the latest developments in the science of entomology.

Picnics, inaugurated and concluded the year's activities. A Christmas party helped to enliven the gay spirits of the Yuletide season. President Al Therrien sincerely believes that the "Ent Club" has enjoyed one of its best years.

Future Farmers of America

Another active year has been completed by the local chapter of the Future Farmers of America. In addition to its regularly scheduled program of lectures by students, professors, and guest speakers, the FFA made arrangements for the State Convention of the organization. The club sponsored the annual State Public Speaking Contest, many judging contests and several secondary school banquets.

As the result of such a varied program of activities, the club was successful in promoting the interests of former high school members of FFA and of students of vocational agriculture.

Nature Guide Association

R. Wood, Sec.-Treas.; Barbara Robinson, Pres.;
W. Randall, V.-Pres.

The Nature Guide Club presented a program which featured lectures by returning alumni, who discussed various aspects of professional experience. Members of the club were encouraged to correlate the social and professional aspects of their work by participating in community service projects of various sorts.

Besides taking part in monthly meetings, which included handcraft work, a discussion on youth hostels by "Cap'n Bill" Vinal, and the showing of Kodachrome slides, the groups made a survey of the Girl Scout Camp at Cedar Hill, Waltham—a project similar to that conducted earlier at Lynn.

Physics Club

The Physics Club was unique in that it had no officers. The members were divided into committees, and at each meeting a different committee presented lectures on physical theories or research methods. After the talks by the members, informal discussion periods were held with participation by the students, the adviser

Dr. Wallace Powers, and the instructors of the Physics Department. "The Oscilloscope as a Laboratory Instrument" and "The Determination of Elastic Constants" were among the talks given by student members.

To mark the end of a successful year the club held a social get-together in May.

Pomology Club

O. Roberts, Adviser; H. Ainsworth, Pres.; W. Haines, V.-Pres.; W. Sherman, Treas.
Absent: G. Scotland, Sec.

The Pomology Club throughout this past year attempted to stimulate and maintain an active interest in pomology among all the members.

Meeting on the third Wednesday of every month, the members of the Pomology Club have enjoyed talks on subjects related to Pomology. Included among the guest speakers of the Pomology Club were Professor French, who spoke on "Horticulture in France," and Professor O. G. Anderson, who discussed his experiences while teaching in Indiana. At a joint meeting with the Entomology Club, Pomology Club members heard Professor James Brann of Cornell University speak.

Other Organizations

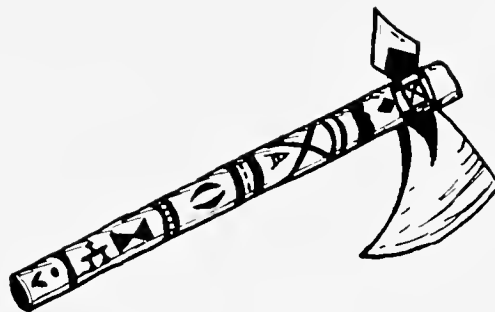

New clubs and more new clubs were formed on campus during the year. The Music Department headed the list of sponsoring organizations with two new groups. The University Concert Orchestra, a student-faculty symphonic group, presented classical concerts, while the University Dance Band played everything from Miller to Kenton in the approved style. Both groups gave concerts in the spring, and, in addition, the Dance Band provided the music for several all-campus dances at the Drill Hall. Both organizations were accepted as self-supporting members of the Academic Activities Board.

The Statesmen, a male group, was reformed again in the spring of this year. Although disbanded several times since its start in 1939, the Statesmen were enthusiastically welcomed back as a traditional part of campus life.

Sportsmen found a common interest in the Rod and Gun Club formed on campus early in the spring. The big feature of this new organization was the sponsoring of a team in the first intercollegiate Trout Derby held at Amherst in April.

Among the new major clubs approved by the Senate Activities Committee were the Pre-Vet Club, the Business Administration Club, the Agronomy Club, the Agriculture Honor Society, and the Engineering Club.

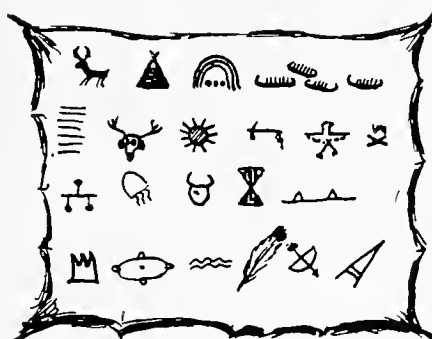

A Debating club was formed early in the spring by a group of interested students. Other new clubs described elsewhere in this issue are the Fencing Club, the Society of Intercollegiate Noetics, the Political Union, and the DeMolay Club.

Devens College Association

During the Homecoming Weekend at Devens in the fall of 1948, plans for a permanent organization for former Devens students took shape. A committee sent letters and applications to all former Devens men, and the first issue of an Alumni Bulletin was distributed.

The first "alumni" meeting was held on March 12, at a gala social weekend sponsored by the Devens students. A constitution was adopted, and the name of the organization was changed from Alumni Association to Devens College Association. This organization is as unique as Devens itself. There will be no ivy-covered walls to return to, but there will always be that potent concoction known as the Devens spirit, in the hearts of Devens men. Membership is open to anyone who has been connected with the college.

Luck Leaves

The baseball season of 1948 was one of the most unsuccessful in the history of the school, as is evidenced by the 2-11 record, despite the efforts of Earl Lorden, who in his first year as coach, was the victim of erratic fielding and weak hitting by his charges.

One of the few bright spots of the season was the superb hitting and pitching of Lefty Bill Winn, who played a dual pitcher-outfielder role to utilize his strength at the plate. His .341 batting average was the high for the team, and for his efforts he received the Thompson

Trophy, awarded annually to the most valuable baseball player.

Lorden and his 18-man squad, picked from 50 candidates, launched the baseball campaign inauspiciously, with opening game jitters getting the best of the Redmen as they lost to Northeastern, 15-1.

In their second outing, it was sloppy fielding that lost the ball game to Devens, 6-5, despite great hitting and pitching by Bill Winn.

Smarting from the humiliation of the two previous setbacks, the determined Lordenmen trounced Lowell Textile, 5-0, behind the brilliant 7-hit pitching of Al Alexander, supported by the timely hitting of Red Kelly and Bill Winn.

Too many errors at inopportune times was the main cause of the 7-2 loss to Connecticut in a game that was featured by a homer off the bat of Bob Cerie.

Going out of their class to meet Yale, one of the best college nines in the coun-game saw Don Kinsman collecting a double and a triple.

According to Coach Lorden, the U of M baseball team played its best game of the season in its return match with the U Conns, but because they failed to hit in the clutch, they succumbed 4 to 1, despite Bob Reis' 6-hit pitching.

Blowing an early lead, the team was outslugged by A.I.C., 9-7.

On a wet field in freezing weather, the Lordenmen dropped another to Worcester Tech by a 6-2 count.

Trinity handed the U of M nine their seventh consecutive defeat, as they walloped the home team, 12-4.

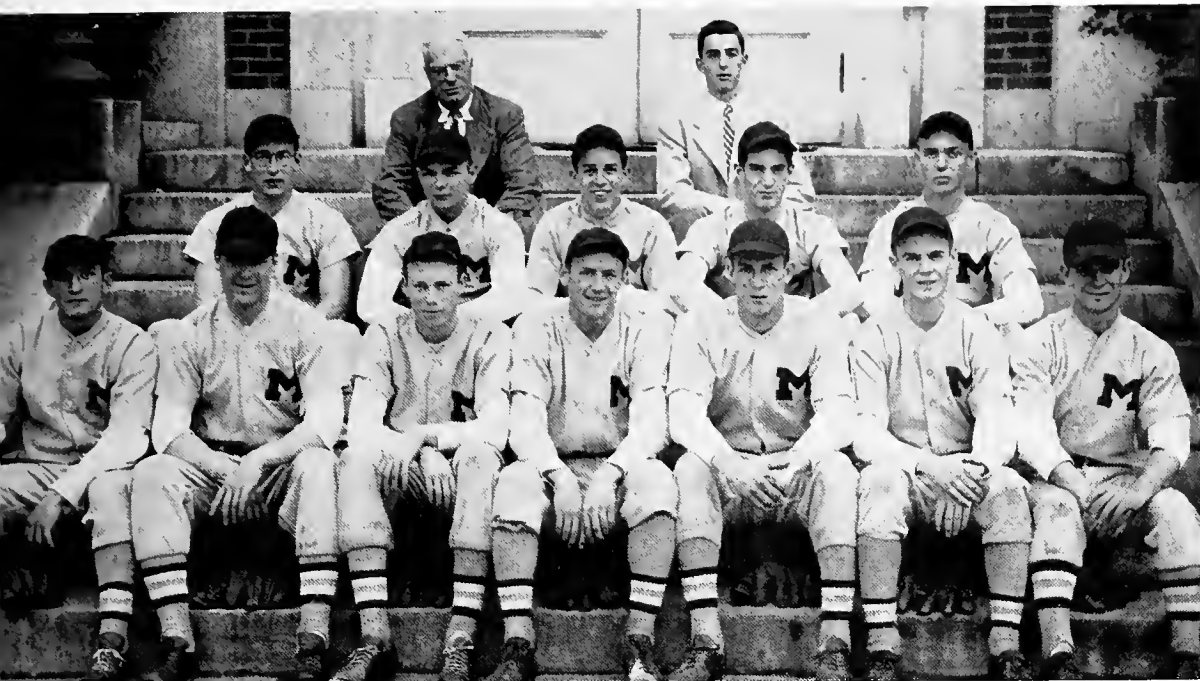

The second and final victory of the season proved to be a thriller. A home run by pitcher-right-fielder Bill Winn in the top half of the 12th gave the Bay Staters a 3-2 win over a strong Vermont outfit. Winn, on the mound until two were out in the 12th, batted in all three runs and struck out 12 men—Red Winton got credit for the win.

The season ended rather abruptly, with three of the remaining five games rained out. Wesleyan and Springfield both pinned setbacks on the Redmen.

FRESHMAN BASEBALL

Winning varsity baseball teams may soon grace the University, if the brilliant showing of the freshman squad is any criterion. Excellent pitching and a strong batting attack resulted in a season record of five victories and a lone defeat.

The frosh opened their season with a 12-0 shellacking of Leicester Academy, behind the 2 hit pitching of Ed McCauley.

Good pitching also highlighted the second win, as Marty Anderson and Ed McCauley teamed up to kalsomine Deerfield Academy, 7-0.

Defeat finally caught up with the Redmen yearlings, the Springfield frosh humbling them, 7-3.

In a free hitting contest, featured by Ray Gagnon's two home runs, the "Little Indians" edged A.I.C., 10-9.

Big Ed McCauley's fine twirling once again was the main factor in the Ballmen's 8-1 win over Williams.

The season ended in a blaze of glory as Marty Anderson struck out 19 men in Holding their own in the running events, but outpointed in the field events, the spring track team ended the season with 2 victories and 4 defeats.

In the first meet, the Derbymen, led by top scorers Davison and Clough, outpointed Williams 40-32 at the end of the running events, but in the field events, Williams went ahead to win, 76-59.

In the two meets following, despite the superb running of Lou Clough, the U of M tracksters lost to U Conn, 83-52, and were swamped by Amherst, 53-19.

The Derbymen bounded back in the Trinity meet, taking all events to win 84-42. Davison won the 100-yard dash in 10 seconds to tie the college record.

the Derbymen were edged out by a WPI squad, 64 $\frac{1}{3}$ -61 $\frac{2}{3}$.

In the win column again, the Maroon and White Tracksters topped Devens, 72 $\frac{1}{2}$ -62 $\frac{1}{2}$ with Hal Fienman breaking the college shot-put record for the seventh time with a throw of 41'9".

In Eastern Intercollegiate competition, University entrants Funkhouser and Fienman placed third in the half-mile and shot-put respectively.

The freshman track team finished the season with no wins and three losses. Losing to the Conn., Amherst, and Trinity frosh, the freshmen could not amass the necessary number of points for a win, despite the excellent showing of a few men: Willis in the jumping and running events, Lee in the pole vault and high jump, Greenberg in the high hurdles, and

RACQUETEERS

The spring of 1948 saw the first full postwar tennis schedule at the University, and the Redmen proved equal to the task, as they compiled a 4-4 record. A ninth match with Holy Cross was cancelled, due to rainy weather, and the netmen's trip to Dartmouth to participate in the New England Intercollegiate Tennis Tournament was also rained out. The weather was a major factor all season, with many cancelled practices and match postponements playing havoc with Stan Salwak's team.

Strand, Brown, Beauregard, Lovelace, and Kelleher performed creditably in singles, while Strand and Lovelace, and Brown coupled with Beauregard did well in doubles. The brilliant tennis of Captain John Strand, Art Brown, and Wilfred Beauregard was a shining light all season.

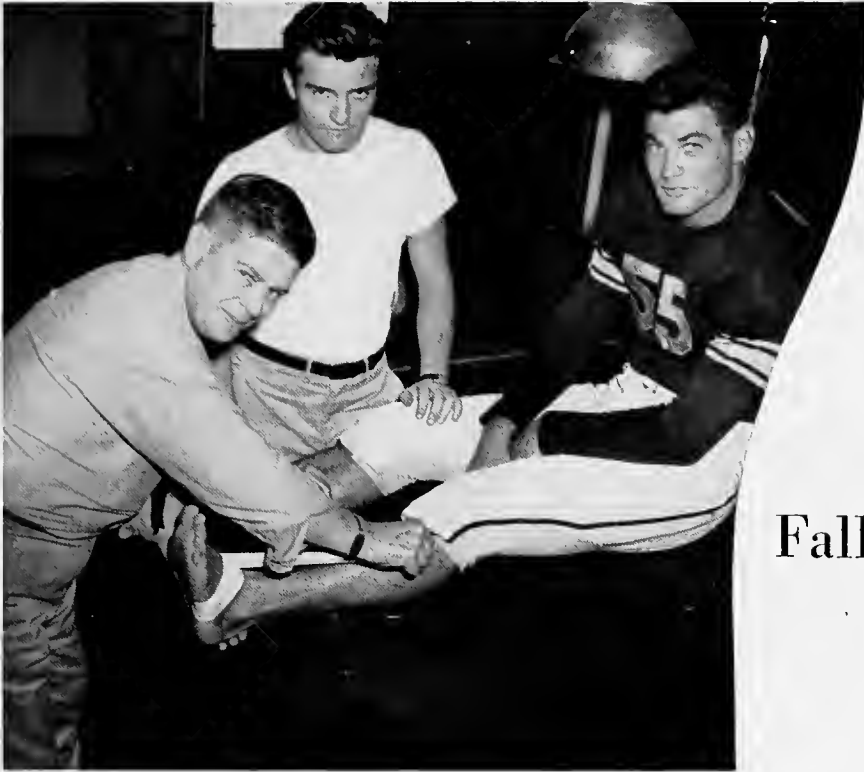

The Redmen racqueteers won their first three matches, opening against Trinity with a strong 8-1 win, then blasting Connecticut by 5-4, and an 8-1 walloping of Devens. W.P.I. stopped the U. of M., 5-4, with the netmen bounding back to breeze by Vermont, 8-1. The lack of practice took its toll, as Springfield humbled them 7-0, Rhode Island beat them 8-1, and Connecticut returned to even the record with a 5-4 win.

The prospects for this coming season loom bright as Capt.-elect Beauregard, Art Brown, Warren Lovelace and Dave Kelleher are returning to form a veteran nucleus.

Although Coach Tommy Eck, the athletic department, and the entire student body looked forward to a most successful football season, because of the return of most of last year's lettermen, the appearance of new Devens' transfers,

Charlie, Tom, and Bob

and the elevation of last year's undefeated frosh gridmen to a varsity status, the University footballers played an erratic brand of ball, showing a season's record of three wins, four defeats, and one tie. A great number of injuries to key men, and a spirit that was sometimes dull, helped in the compilation of this record.

The season started on an encouraging note, as the Redmen ckd out a 7-6 victory over a favored Bates team. Ev Johnston, before he retired from the game with an injury that hampered him last season and was to be bothersome for the remainder of this season, racked up the score when he ran 57 yards on a boot-leg play. Anderson provided the winning point.

The Redmen journeyed to Norwich as favorites over the weak Cadets, and though Hal Fienman alone picked up more yardage than the entire Norwich team, untimely fumbles coupled with poor officiating gave the Cadets the game, 27-19.

The Eckmen came home to Alumni Field the following week-end and played poor hosts to Worcester Tech., as they turned on their power and speed, and crushed the Engineers, 26-7, as all the men pitched in to help Gilman, Lee, Kenyon, and Anderson score.

The travelling nemesis haunted the Bay Staters, as they were unable to maintain their early lead and succumbed before a determined Rhode Island State outfit, 19-12. A Fienman to Hall to Harrington pass put the U of M in front, and after the Rams tallied twice in the final period, Lee tied the score on a five-yard sprint, but the Rams kicked back and put the winning points over just before game ended.

Rhode Island defeat, the Redmen moved their activities to Devens, their sister branch, and came limping out of the fray on the short end of a 20-14 score, as the spirited Chiefs outfought the parent school. Even though the Eckmen outstatisticked Devens, they were not able to outpoint them. Trailing 14-13 late in the game, the Chiefs filled the air with passes, finally clicking with a touchdown aerial to wind up the game.

Displaying a new drive and spirit, the U of M gridsters tomahawked a highly favored University of Vermont eleven, 33-0, as they played their best game of the season. Vermont, fresh from an upset victory over New Hampshire, was walloped from the outset of the game and never quite recovered, as Marty Anderson led his mates by personally accounting for 21 points.

The Eckmen next met a powerful Springfield aggregation, and boasting seven fumbles, they were never in the ball game as the Gymnasts kept them scoreless, and rolled up 31 points on their own behalf.

For the final game, the Redmen moved over to the Tufts Oval in Medford. They went into the game as underdogs; and since they managed to match Tufts' 13 points with 13 of their own, the game was considered a moral victory. The Jumbos went into the final stanza with a 13-point edge, but Russ Beaumont caught fire and sparked his teammates to two concerted scoring drives. End Bill Looney made a circus catch of a Beaumont 55-yard aerial, and stepped into the end zone for the initial score. Andy Anderson utilized his educated left foot to garner the point. Shortly after this tremendous catch by Looney, Beaumont and Fienman moved the pigskin to the Tufts three-yard stripe, from where Dick Lee plowed over to paydirt. Anderson this time failed to convert.

Freshman Coach Red Ball seems to have a way with football players; for the second consecutive year he has produced an undefeated, untied freshman team. This year's squad compiled a perfect four-win record, and amassed a total of 85 points to the opposition's 7.

The frosh suffered from "first game jitters" in their initial contest with an underdog AIC eleven. The Papooses fumbled away many scoring opportunities but managed to garner seven points in a late fourth-period drive, and won the game on this score, 7-0.

Leicester Junior College was the next team to face the Bay Staters, and the Redmen were just too powerful for them. Interceptions, coupled with domination of offensive and defensive play, earned the Redmen a lopsided 53-0 victory.

Their third game was their toughest of the season, as they had to stave off a last period rally by a powerful Springfield aggregation to post a 13 to 7 win.

The Ballmen closed their season with a hard-fought 12-0 win over the New England College frosh.

cross-country history.

In their first meet, the running Derbymen were edged out by Northeastern, 27-28, in one of the most thrilling contests of the season. The spectators were shown a wonderful finish when Lou Clough, with a last minute burst of speed, took first place, clipping 30 seconds off the course record. Walt Szetela, in his first varsity meet, placed fourth, and Whitey Cossar came in sixth.

Rebounding from this close defeat, the Redmen proceeded to swamp W.P.I. by a perfect 15-50 score, trample Trinity by the near perfect score of 16-47, and edge out M.I.T., 27-28, for their third consecutive win. In the next meet, Lou Clough chopped ten seconds off his own course record as he led the hill and dalers to a 22-35 victory over Vermont.

Walt Szetela and Whitey Cossar came in third and fourth, and Ed Pierce and Ed Funkhouser placed sixth and eighth, respectively. Paul Channell finished ninth.

In their next meet with Devens, the Derbymen easily defeated the Chiefs, 18-44. Lou Clough, setting the pace once again, broke the course record of 18:35 by 25 seconds. Whitey Cossar, in the number two slot, tied the course record. Walt Szetela was only six seconds behind Cossar, finishing fourth, and Capt. Ed Pierce coming in fifth.

Clough, after finishing the dual meet season undefeated, completed his third season of dual competition without once having been beaten. If Lou had not pulled a leg muscle at the IC4A games, he would have undoubtedly established himself as one of the finest runners in the East.

In their intersectional meets, the harriers finished third in the Connecticut Valley Championships, placed a strong second in the New England Intercollegiates, and came in sixteenth in the 27 entry IC4A New York Championship.

Freshman Cross-Country

The freshman cross country team competed in four dual meets, and though the frosh harriers ran hard, they were able to post only one win. They garnered a tie with Trinity, 28-28, but lost to Amherst, 20¹/₂-37¹/₂, and to M.I.T., 19-36. They outran Deerfield, however, 27-30.

Successful Soccer Season

This year's edition of the soccer team was highly successful, with Larry Briggs' booters boasting a record of five wins, including two shut-outs, and four losses, which were close, hard fought contests. The Briggsmen finished in a 5th place tie with Yale in the 18 team New England

Intercollegiate Soccer League; three of the Redmen, including goalie Ed McGrath, fullback Jack Holt, and center half Bob Tetreault, were named on the All-New England College Soccer Team. In addition, Holt participated in the Olympic tryouts.

The U of M booters opened their season with a tough 2-0 loss to Dartmouth; then they were tripped by Williams, 3-0.

Bouncing back with terrific playing, they defeated both Clark and WPI by identical 3-1 scores.

One of the Redmen's best games was against Connecticut; the contest saw the U of M booters pressing all the way but finally losing 3-1 to the National Soccer Champions.

The Maroon and White were nosed out by Trinity, 2-1, then went on to play their most outstanding game, beating Amherst, 1-0.

The soccer team closed the season with two great victories, beating Devens, 3-0, and Tufts, 4-1.

But Bright Future

As was predicted, last year's fine freshman basketball team added much in the way of varsity calibre to this season's squad. The starting five was composed of sophomores, until an injury to big Ed White caused a shift in the lineup. Last year's captain, Ed McGrath, spurred by his relegation to the bench, played a great brand of ball, fitting in perfectly with the sophomores. The Sophs, in addition to the former Devens star, Bill Ryback, compiled a much better record than that of last year, not only by winning more games, but making practically every contest a close one. The University may well be represented by a winning basketball team next season, as all the boys have gained valuable experience, showing improvement in every game. The pacesetters were Gagnon, McCauley, Norskey, Captain Looney, McGrath, Johnston, Ryback, and White.

The season opened inauspiciously with a 45-25 defeat by Clark. The next two games, a 44-42 loss to Northeastern, and a 50-49 overtime defeat at the hands of Worcester Tech, were tough pills to swallow. The Redmen finally hit the victory column, even though they had to lose their New Year's holiday to do it. Returning from vacation early, the Ballmen travelled to Orono, and beat Maine, 52-49. In the next game, troublesome Devens again turned the tables, this time to the tune of 43-38. The second victory of the season was a decisive 63-50 win over the fast-breaking A.I.C. quintet. After an 80-48 shellacking at the hands of powerful UConn, the cagers went on a rampage against U.N.H., winning, 64-38, for their most decisive victory. Trinity, Wesleyan, and Hartwick administered three straight setbacks before the University Five again found the range with a neat 67-42 win over Middlebury. A capacity Winter Carnival crowd was treated to an unexpected thrill, as they saw the hoopsters come from behind to tie Springfield, before bowing 47-44 in overtime. In a game that many observers considered the best of the season, they edged Williams with a brilliant display of sharpshooting. After the remaining four games with Middlebury, Vermont, Tufts, and Norwich, the season ended with the familiar chant: "Wait Till Next Year."

Basket of Ball

Keeping in stride with the freshman teams of the past two years, this season's yearling basketball team compiled an impressive record of 7 wins in 11 starts. Such powerhouses as the Phys. Ed. majors from Springfield, fast moving Williston Academy, the classy frosh five from Trinity and Tufts were the only teams to post victories against our versatile frosh. The Lordenmen rolled to easy victories over Clark, Worcester Tech.,

Stockbridge, Wesleyan, and Leicester Jr. College; they eked out close decisions over A.I.C. and a strong Williams aggregation.

Bill Prevey and Ed Kerswig led the team in scoring. Barrett, Erlandson, and Garvey rounded out the starting five.

Tracksters Cool

Coach Derby's protégés began the season with a warm-up at the Boston Y.M.C.A. meet, and then proceeded to chalk up a spectacular victory at the K. of C. meet. The Derbymen finished the mile relay in 3:32, the fastest time turned in by a University mile relay team. At the B.A.A. meet, the Redmen relayers finished third.

Meeting Holy Cross in the first dual meet, the tracksters lost their lead in the running events, finally bowing, 52-34.

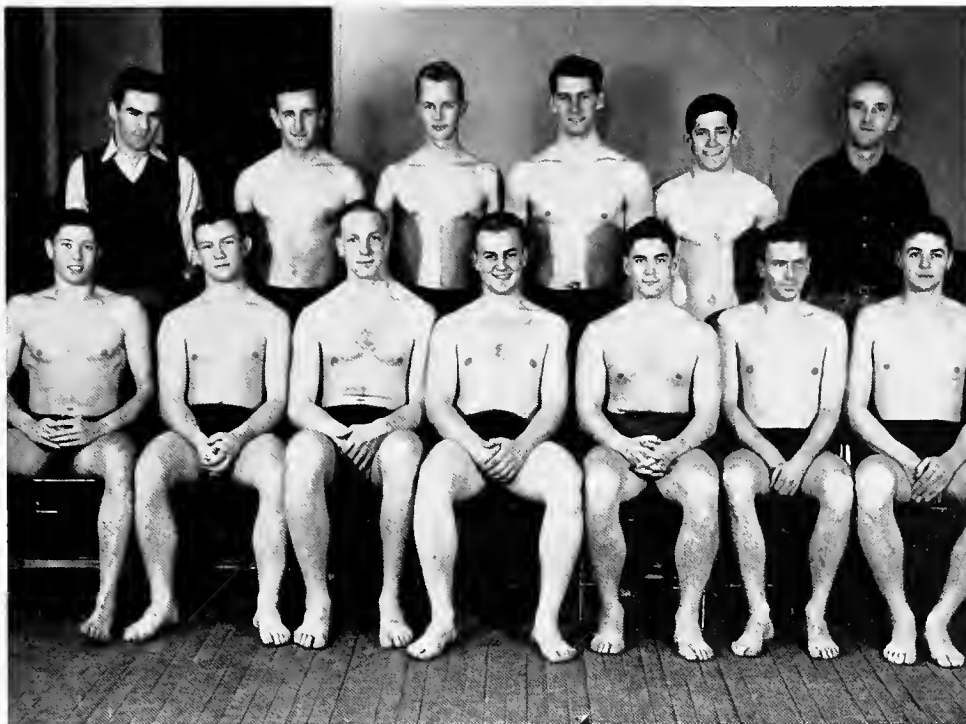

Determined, the Redmen rolled up seven firsts to edge UConn and Worcester Tech., 52-49½-39½. Jim Greenberg, in addition to scoring in three events, broke the Cage record for the 35 yard low hurdles; Lou Clough, while finishing second in the two mile, elipped 3 seconds off the previous record.

A powerful Northeastern team outran our locals, 72 to 41.

The freshman team, in three dual meets, beat Wilbraham and Williston while losing to Amherst.

Joe Rogers' mermen, facing a tough schedule this year, won 2 meets and lost 5. Joe Chmura, ace diver, turned in a creditable performance and was the team's shining light, but Parsons, Hall, Roth, and O'Brien gave plenty of support.

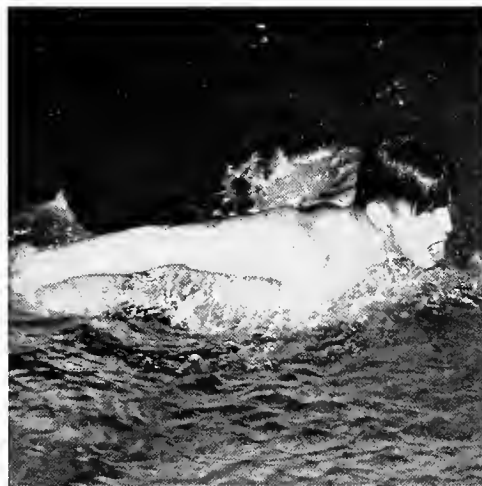

In their first meet, the Rogersmen initiated the season by splashing over the natators from Boston University, emerging with a crushing 60 to 15 victory. Chmura's form was almost perfect as he compiled 98.6 out of a possible 100 points.

The Maroon and White dropped its first meet to a strong Wesleyan outfit, which dunked them by a 50-25 margin. Losses at the hands of the tankmen from Connecticut, Tufts, and Bowdoin followed. The Mass. swimmers gained their second win over Worcester Tech., outracing them, 46-29. In the season's finale, M.I.T.'s speedy team defeated the Rogers forces by the same margin.

Hockey Lacks Ice

Harassed by bad weather and insufficient practice, and with lack of ice allowing it to play only three out of ten scheduled games, the University's first formal hockey team since 1937 completed the season with no wins and three losses. Despite the unsuccessful campaign, Coach Tommy Filmore's charges showed a great deal of spirit and potential power, with the boys making up in drive and energy what they lacked in practical ice skating experience.

The Redmen showed plenty of fight in their opener with Williams. Tom Toohey, in the opening minutes, scored the first goal of the game. However, an experienced Williams sextet came back to score twelve times during the game. In the final period, the U of M flipped in three goals in less than two minutes by McLaughlin, Friedman, and Roche. Tetreault tallied the last one.

In the Northeastern tussle, the pucksters were tripped by the Husky squad, 13-3. Foglia and Sweeney starred.

The Norwich game was nip and tuck all the way, with the final score 4 to 3.

Volleyball returned to the intramural calendar, after a wartime lapse, with a complete interfraternity schedule and a small independent league.

Alpha Epsilon Pi and Kappa Sig had little trouble in leading their respective leagues with impressive undefeated records. In the playoff, Kappa Sig defeated Alpha Epsilon Pi in the interfraternity championship, and went on to beat Federal Circle for the intramural crown.

SOFTBALL

Despite a rainy spring season, a closely contested intramural softball competition gained campus-wide interest. The original plan called for two leagues of nine teams each, with each team playing a round-robin schedule, and the winners of the respective leagues meeting for the intramural title. The poor weather caused many games to be cancelled, and the championship tilt could not be played until the day before finals. Alpha Gamma Rho emerged as champions in the fraternity competition by a slight margin, while the Commuters gained the top of the Independent League. The Commuters went on to capture the intramural championship by swamping Alpha Gam, 17-4, in the play-off game.

BASKETBALL

The Cage basketball floor, in addition to being utilized by the varsity, frosh, jayvees, and Stockbridge, was the site for a 24 team intramural season. The teams were divided into three leagues, composed of the fraternity league, a dormitory league, and a combination dormitory, clubs, and Stockbridge fraternity league.

Lambda Chi Alpha completed its second successive undefeated season to pace the interfraternity league. Greenough eked out a win over neighboring Chadbourne for the League B title, while Berkshire A ran roughshod over all opponents in copping League C honors.

In the semi-finals, Berkshire defeated Greenough, and won the right to meet Lambda Chi in the finals. Berkshire hooped out a close 24-22 victory, ending Lambda Chi's unbeaten streak at 18 games, and capturing the coveted crown.

This last season's intramural touch football competition produced some tricky plays and slick ball handling that at times gave the spectators thrills and excitement comparable to varsity football fervor.

Alpha Epsilon Pi ran roughshod over eight consecutive opponents to capture their second successive fraternity championship, while a powerful combination representing Greenough Hall had an easy time in winning the Independent crown and in defeating Alpha Epsilon Pi to cop the intramural title in the play-off series.

Interfraternity Council

Each year the fraternities on campus elect members of their own houses to represent them on a council which governs and counsels each house.

During the year the council drew up rushing rules and helped to supervise the freshman rushing. The organization also acted on any matters pertinent to fraternity life on campus. The annual interfraternity skits and sings, and the annual interfraternity sports competition were among the activities sponsored by the council.

Highlight of the year was the presentation of Greek Week, a week of activities and social events culminating with the Interfraternity Ball. This is the week during which the campus sees the work that Interfraternity Council has done in building up the spirit of every fraternity.

AEPI's campus success story was presented in terms of offices held by its members. Bill Feldman, Dave Wolf, and Gerry Popkin filled key positions on the INDEX while other members were enthusiastic leaders of Academic Activities, Student Senate, Judiciary Board, Campus Chest Drive and Adelphia.

Pi's burlesque "Military Brawl" was an exciting climax to the Military Ball Weekend. The pledge formal, Alumni Homecoming, exchange suppers, and regular Saturday dances were the other outstanding socials. Alpha Epsilon Pi again captured a first in spirited intra-fraternity football competition.

It was not the White House but you could call Alpha Gamma Rho the "house of presidents." While Don Kinsman, house president, held the top office of Adelphia, SCA, and An. Hus. Club, Gil Porter and Len Todd were presidents of the 4-H and Flori. Clubs, and Em Hibbard was INDEX Editor.

Socially, Alpha Gam ranked high with its Saturday dances, Christmas party, and company dinners. The boys had a banner year with house painting, new furniture and the most freshman pledges of any fraternity. In athletics, Alpha Gam was well represented in football, soccer, baseball and other sports.

Kappa Sigma's first big event of the year was the Embassy Ball, attended by 80 couples. A new house activity was the Christmas party for 40 boys from the Brightside Orphanage. Both the fraternity brothers and the orphans enjoyed the party so much that it was decided to make this Christmas party an annual event. The brothers also decided to contribute to the support of a Dutch exchange student on campus.

The climax of the year was the Kappa Sigma Regional conclave, attended by 100 delegates from seven New England chapters. A pledge group of 28 swelled Kappa Sig's membership.

This year Lambda Chi again had its share of representation in campus activities with two members in Who's Who, five in the Maroon Key, two on men's Judiciary and officers on seven other campus organizations. In athletics, the house shone, having both co-captains of football, the captain of the soccer team, fifteen men on the varsity football team, and members participating in almost every other sport.

Lambda Chi's incomparable Saturday nights were varied with buffet suppers, costume parties, and scavenger hunts. Other social highlights were the Spring formal and the "homecoming" banquet.

Situated in its new house on Sunset Ave., SAE has completed another progressive year on the University campus. The new house, formerly the estate of David Grayson, was redecorated this summer for SAE.

Thirty-seven men were pledged to the fraternity this season—a group which boasts of many brothers active in campus organizations. Lou Clough on the track team and Paul Stenard in Roister Doister productions brought new fame to the group, while the officers of many other campus groups were also SAE members. The fraternity was greatly saddened by the death of Chet Bowen, SAE member, who was one of the outstanding students of the University.

Off to a good start in becoming a powerful fraternity again, Sigma Phi Epsilon, assisted by the Worcester Tech chapter, has completed the reactivation of the Massachusetts Alpha chapter. The group boasted the Presidency of the Senate, members in class offices, Judiciary Board, Concert Association, Band, SCA, and on varsity athletic teams.

Starting the season with only three pledges, Sig Ep, composed largely of Devens men, grew to over 60 members. The house conducted a busy social program in conjunction with other fraternities and sororities. Members eagerly planned to obtain a new house for next year.

New honors came to the Tau Pi chapter of Tau Epsilon Phi when Dick Brown won an interfraternity award as one of the outstanding men in the national organization. TEP members, besides their numerous activities in campus affairs, maintained a very high scholastic average both semesters. Members of the House were busy working on the Collegian, Quarterly, in the International Relations Club, athletic teams, and other campus organizations.

The annual anniversary banquet and formal held in March highlighted TEP's busy social program for this year.

A Sadie Hawkins' Day party and the annual Bowery Ball were the special social events of the year at Theta Chi. Campus coeds and their dates frolicked in the frat house attired as Daisy Maes and L'il Abners, as the whole house began to resemble the Al Capp comic strip. At Christmas time, the Theta Chi's carolled at the dorms and Greek houses, and entertained a group of 30 children from the Brightside Home in Springfield at a party. This was an innovation this year which the house hopes to make an annual affair.

Panhellenic Council

The Panhellenic Council at the University is part of a national organization in which every sorority on campus is represented. Each sorority sends a junior and senior member to the Council, where they form a group to discuss mutual sorority problems. It is the purpose of the Panhellenic Council to help sororities and not to rule them.

The creed of the Council is "to maintain good scholarship, to cooperate with University ideals, to maintain commendable social standards, and to make friendships—all of which aim toward a happy and successful life."

The Panhellenic Council has sponsored

Round-Robin teas, thus regulating sorority rushing. They also gave a tea set to the sorority with the highest scholastic average. This year, Sigma Delta Tau was presented the tea set by the president of the alumnae Panhellenic League. Also, each year a different sorority sponsors a tea for the other sororities in order to foster friendship among the Greek girls.

The highlight of the year was the Inter-sorority sing and declamation, which was presented during Greek Week. Every sorority competed and the winners were presented with plaques. Greek Week was held the last week in April.

Iota Beta chapter of Chi Omega began the year with repairs. All the Chi O's helped with the redecoration of the sorority house. This year the sorority adopted as part of their philanthropic program the plan of sending baskets of food to poor families on Thanksgiving and Christmas.

Chi O's social calendar included a buffet supper party, held at the house on the evening of the Military Ball, a traditional Christmas party for the patrons and pledges; an invitation dance in the fall; and a pledge formal in late winter.

Kappa Alpha Theta's purpose of developing a bond of sisterhood among its members and a spirit of friendliness in campus relations has been attained during the past year.

A sleigh ride in the winter, a pledge formal in March, an open house party, and an invitation dance were all delightful events which helped the sorority to fulfill its ideals. In the spring, the girls of Theta held their annual neighborhood Tea, now a sorority tradition. The purpose of the tea is to promote neighborliness and good will in their North Pleasant Street community.

Delta Nu Chapter of Kappa Kappa Gamma came through with another excellent year. The sorority is justifiably proud of its representation in many campus activities. A member of Isogon, the president of Scrolls, president of WAA, and two members of Who's Who were Kappa girls. The Horticulture Show Queen and Honorary Colonel of the Military Ball were also from KKG.

A most fruitful rush week started off a busy fall semester. Alumni teas, a Christmas party, the annual pledge formal, and the initiation banquet all kept the girls busy entertaining and being entertained.

This year Pi Phi continued its very active social life, with one of its purposes to promote friendship among all the girls on campus. The girls gave a tea in the fall for all the senior coeds. The coffee hours continued. The Pi Phi's held an open house during the Military Ball weekend, and in January came the pledge formal.

The girls of the sorority were active in all phases of campus life. The Chief Justice of Women's Judiciary, members of Scrolls and of Isogon, the manager of the Drill Team, and members of the Dormitory house councils all were Pi Phi sisters.

Tangible proof of academic success of the Psi chapter of Sigma Delta Tau is the tea set, awarded to the sorority at a Panhellenic tea in November in recognition of the maintenance of the highest scholastic average of University sororities. A similar award was won at the Sigma Delta Tau national convention last summer when Psi chapter was presented the national scholarship cup, and placed second for the activities cup.

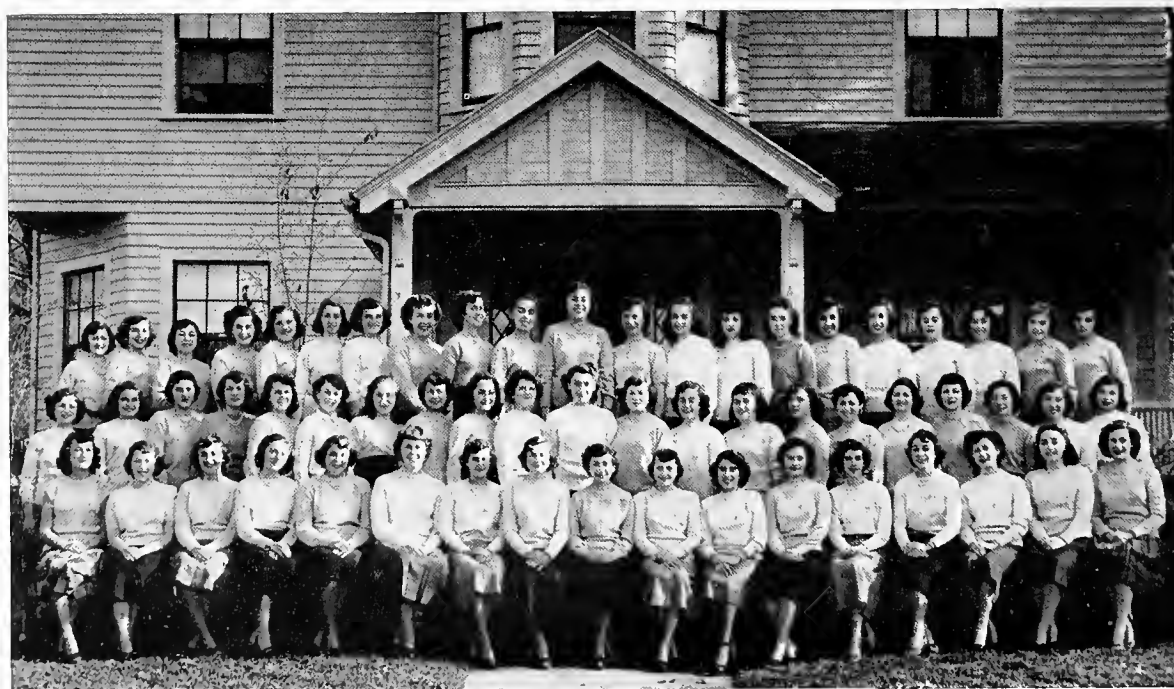

Adding socials to studies, Sigma Delta Tau entertained at an open-house dance in December. Pledge formal weekend consisted of an exciting barn dance. SDT's formal was held at the end of February.

The Sigma Kappas made merry in a home of their own this year, after one semester in North College, and one of scattered abodes. Eager to show off the new acquisition, the Sigmas joined with Pi Phi in sponsoring an open house for Devens transfers in October. Since then they have had the house open for an indoor hot-dog roast in November, an invitation dance in January, and an invitation supper in February.

Sigmas are literary and dramatic, with Rae Blouin heading the Handbook Staff, Betty Kreiger on the Collegian and Quarterly Boards, Phyl Cole in Roister Doisters, and several INDEX and Senate members.

Clichés of Praise

This being the moment
For some of the world's Greatest clichés of praise,
I say, "Massachusetts,
Alma Mater, your Spirits
Here in this environment
Will live always
And your Echoes
Will resound
From Holyoke Hills forever.

I see the years,
Protruding abruptly
Through the Gregorian timepiece,
And the delightful ennui
Of Massachusetts days.
I see Amherst, the town,
Not the artificiality
Of the New York Blue Book
Surnames, pursued hotly
By Roman numerals.
I feel your September
Afternoons that mimic
June days, hot and dry.
I see your sunny hills,
And red brick, old and new.
I feel your evenings, crisp, clear.
I see your small-town Broadway
Beckoning me to sip
With song and laughter.
Your cynosures of neon
Hampden, Bud and all the rest
Attract, seduce or direct.
But if we had reeled
From your Septembers
To your Junes,
And had nothing else,
We would have you.

But there is in the environment,
 Echoes and Spirits that mingle
 With youthful voices, speaking
 Idealism and hope
 Without experience
 Of having lived.
 There are the echoes of yesteryear
 That mingle with the breezes
 Of late returning Spring days,
 That swirl about your lilaes
 Or your pouting rhododendrons
 Or damp leaves of another season.

These are the Spirits,
 Profound and noiseless,
 Each not the reality
 But the overtone —
 Not what is
 But what seems to be.

Spirit of Midnight
 And a quiet campus
 Down below the Hill.
 Of dormitory luminescence,
 Of open textbooks,
 And tired eyes
 That blink
 Yesterday's assignment
 Into tomorrow's recitation.

Spirit of Mirth
 Leaving the classroom joke
 At the doorway
 But carrying the laughter
 Into the world.

Spirit of the Dance
 Steeped in corsage fragrance,
 Moving on ballroom clouds,
 Thinking romance in verse,
 Speaking soft and low,
 What Guittone said
 To his lady.

Spirit Intelligent

Of the lectures
Of Marx and Plato
On Christian minds.

Of Moses on St. Paul's
In Hebraic-Christian tradition.

Of economic planning
Churning the brains
Of bodies
Clothed with empty pockets.

Of "First Cause"
Superimposed upon
The Latest Thinking
Of the scientists
Who speak scientifically
To the theologians
Without ears.

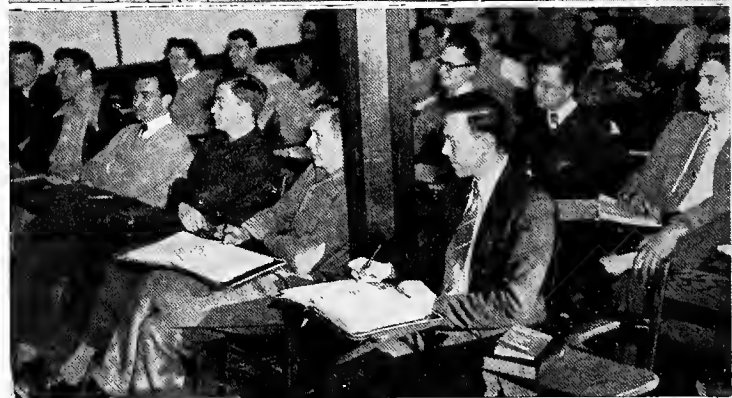

Of Aristotelians
Who pound upon a table
That is not there.

Of Swinburnes
Who laugh at Wordsworths.

And Wordsworths
Who climb a hill
Or tree with golden foliage
And shout, "He is here!"

Spirit Intelligent

Never dormant!
Arguing everything!
Admitting everything!
Discarding nothing!

And your echoes . . .
 Of cool Autumn afternoons,
 Of leathery sounds,
 Of shrill steel whistles,
 Mixed with cheers.
 Of snow winds
 Of Amherst winters,
 Of crunching feet
 On blanched pavements.
 Of Springtime trees
 Oozing maple sirup,
 Of beer barrel sounds
 And ale cans' rattling
 Springday's song.
 Or of twilight whispers
 Between the bookrows.
 Or the soft smack of lips
 And foot scuffles
 At dormitory doorways,
 That only the lovers hear.
 Or echoes of blue books
 Crinkling when pages turn.
 Or pencil scrawl
 Telling professors
 Youth is in accord
 With reason of the philosophers,
 The economists and historians.
 Of typewriters pounding
 Theses of mind over matter.

Massachusetts —
 The name is spoken,
 Leaving the Chapel bells;
 And we pass,
 Leaving the Chapel bells
 To peal but not to fade.
 The chimes will ever pack
 The vibrant air with Echoes
 That resound from Holyoke Hills
 To be heard forever."

A Building

Epsilon Epsilon Sigma

On the northeast portion of the campus, below Thatcher Hall, and opposite the road leading into South College, is located what has been called the most homely building on campus. The unimpressive structure has served the University greatly, for here are located the offices of the Graduate School and Experiment Station. This building is the East Experiment Station.

Throughout the years, fortunate students have been given the opportunity to make the upper portion their home. In the past few years, the pupils living there and mutual friends, who are often present, have coined the name Epsilon Epsilon Sigma, using the initials of "East Experiment Station."

The East Experiment Station is the crossroads of a million lives, and Brother, we mean that literally. From the crow's nest on the second floor, all the pulchritude of Lewis and Thatcher Halls can be seen on parade.

Often one can detect a faint odor of alcohol on a warm afternoon emanating from the pigeon loft on the third floor. We are not running competition to Grandy's, for the stuff we have is no less than 95% (190 Proof) diluted with corrosive sublimate. You see, this joy juice keeps bugs from eating our preserved plant specimens (two of us are Botany majors). Also in the pigeon loft we have a botanical garden, containing such things as oak trees, chestnut trees, castor beans, and African violets. Last year we raised tomatoes. In one corner is a shovel. This shovel is to remove snow which accumulates through the open north window in winter. It has become a regular chore to shovel out the bedroom after particularly violent storms.

Our front yard will be remembered as the spot where steam rises from the ground on cold days. We claim the original "Old Faithful" on campus, but recently our spectacular geyser has been challenged by another more youthful one in front of Fernald Hall.

There is no lack of culture within these hallowed walls, for here are stored the theses of past graduate students. On rainy Saturday afternoons it is not unusual to find members perusing such titles as: "On the Mandibles of Certain Crustacea" by "Slim" Cadigan and, "A Comparative Study of the Morphology and Histology of the Digestive and Excretory Systems of Naiads Representing the Three Families of North American Mayflies" by Larry Bartlett.

The bicycle brigade, terror of all pedestrians on campus, traces its origin to the flock of bicycles which one often sees propped against the building.

We hope that this short history of Epsilon Epsilon Sigma will help to curb peculiar and strange attitudes with which most people view it from the outside. Even if the roof leaks when it rains, and the fire hose is full of moth holes, it is home to us, and will always be remembered for the good times and hard work which we have had there during our college careers.

Still More Buildings

D is for

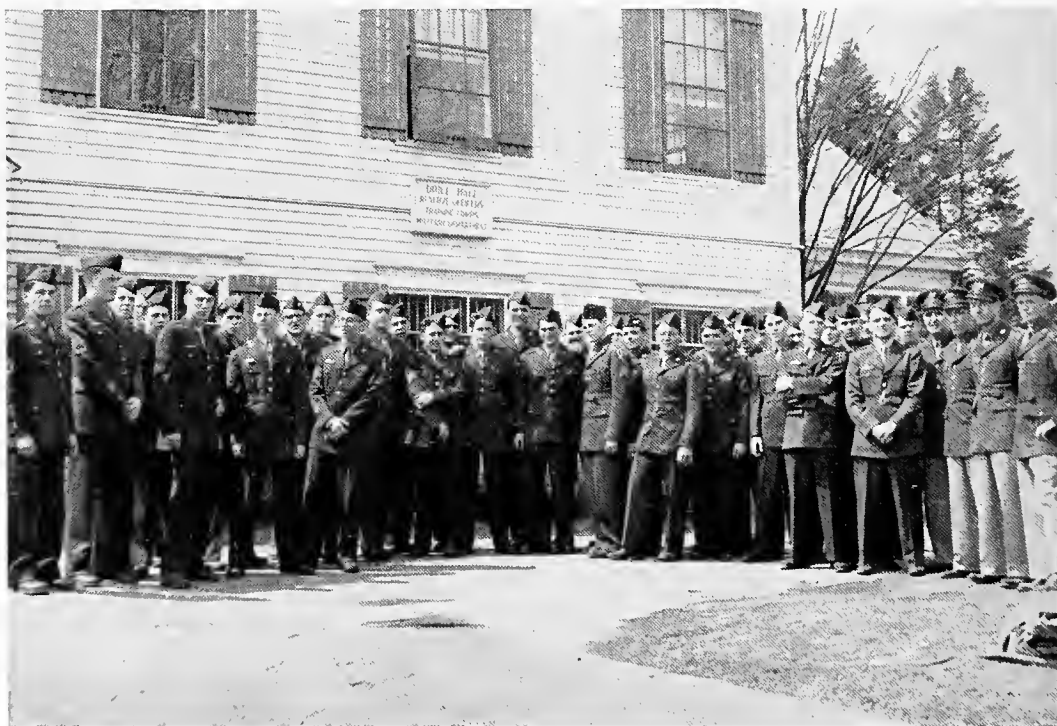

The Drill Hall, or College Armory, is the only clapboard building remaining on campus, with the exception of the Math Building, the Physics Building, the Homestead, the President's house, and the University's kennels. The Department of Military Science and Tactics maintains its headquarters here.

The building has withstood the blizzards of '88, '04, '23, and the more recent New England snowstorms. It was during World War II a proposed site for Atomic Bomb tests, and ultimately served as War Emergency Kindling Wood Station No. 6437.

While one wag has stated the Drill Hall has withstood New England Glaciation, another maintains that the building was formerly the old Revere Beach fun house. More erudite campus historians have delved into past records and theorize that the building is the lost bow of Noah's Ark.

DRILL HALL

Destruction

DRAPER

Draper Hall, or the University Commons, is a conglomeration of the pseudo-Georgian, pseudo-American Colonial, and the G.I. architectural types. The cafeteria has been referred to as the home of the Johnson Plan, a dietetic system involving meal tickets, metal trays, noise-while-you-eat, lines-while-you-starve, and yesterday's meat balls.

Draper has often been compared with Harvard Stadium, but the facts are that Harvard Stadium is in Cambridge and Draper has a larger seating capacity.

While present-day cafeteria personnel lodge at Draper, it has been rumored that Tyrone Schapiro, Preserved Smith, and George Washington have slept there.

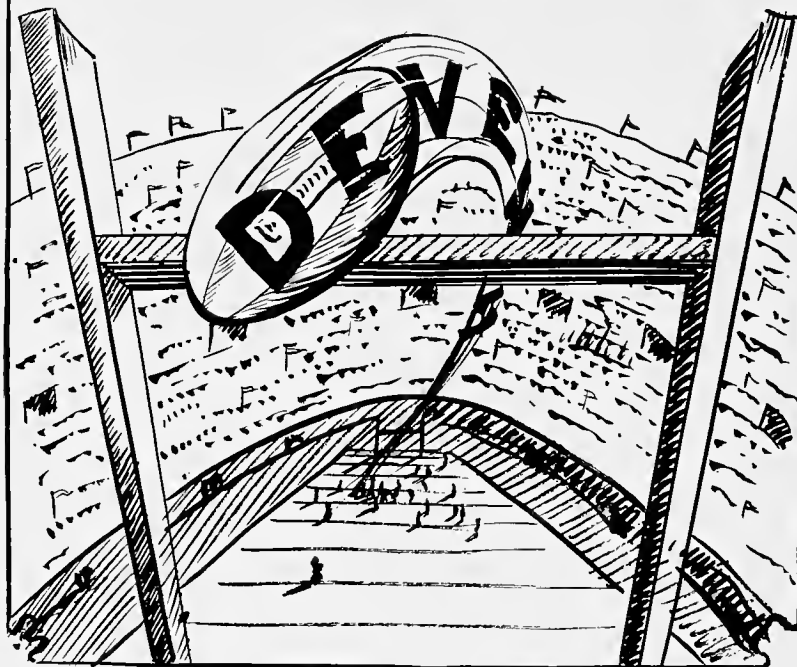

DINTY'S

Dinty's, or simply the Math Building, is a two-and-one-half story clapboard edifice, housing the you-know-what and why-did-they-flunk-me department. The building takes its name from Mr. Moore, a retired department head, noted for his explanation of infinity. Infinity, as Mr. Moore explained it, was a chalk line extending from one end of the blackboard to the other end and then a flip of the chalk out the window.

"Dinty's was originally built as a home for bugs." The building is one of the oldest on campus and of such a non-collegiate type architecture that it is said to have inspired James Whitcomb Riley to write his most famous poem.

DEVENS DAYS

By FELIX BUBA, with aid of CHARLES PLUMER

In 1946 Colleges were crowded far beyond their normal capacity. So the Massachusetts Legislature did something about it. In June, of that year, it passed a bill authorizing the establishment of a college for Massachusetts veterans. A portion of Fort Devens at Ayer was obtained on loan from the government, and the responsibility of setting up the school was delegated to Massachusetts State College.

To create the complex structure of a college with any assurance that it will succeed is a formidable undertaking. Limit the time of its creation to a maximum period of ninety days, supply no tools — unless you consider an authorization a tool — and the task is almost an impossible one. That the men given this problem solved it and reached their objective is a tribute to their ability, industry, and spirit of cooperation. A Board of Trustees was formed, composed of Presidents of nine Commonwealth universities and colleges, in addition to the trustees of Massachusetts State College. An administrative staff was selected, led by Dr. Edward Hodnett, vice-president of Massachusetts State College. To Dr. Stokes fell the task of gathering together a student body, and to Dr. Williams the difficult job of recruiting a competent faculty.

Things had to be done systematically and well, but they had to be done in a hurry.

There is many a story told about professors in fatigues hauling chairs, desks, beds, and whatnot, quite belying the dignity of their profession. But it was through the cooperation of these men and their willingness to work, even at menial tasks, that made it at all possible to receive the incoming rush of students on time, and to provide for them. There was much left to be done, but the way in which this first obstacle was hurdled left no doubt that any remaining problems could be solved.

What the new student probably first noticed was the vast distance he had to walk; at least six miles a day could be covered in the pursuit of required duties. Dormitory life was disgustingly reminiscent of army or navy barracks; study facilities were practically nonexistent; and, to add insult to injury, classes were held in big empty barracks rooms, warmed by one little old base-heater. All in all, it was not a very auspicious beginning; yet not one man left the place because he found the conditions too tough. Then, too, there was the inevitable grousing about food. Let's put that down to the "usual G.I. griping — they're not happy unless they gripe, you know"—and say no more about it, except that sometimes, perhaps, the griping wasn't justified.

Things improved, of course. With the addition of new buildings, adequate classroom conditions became a reality; study-rooms were set aside in dormitories, and a library established; in a very short time, a newspaper and literary magazine were published; a glee club, an orchestra, athletic teams, a dramatic society, and numerous clubs were formed; acquaintances were struck, teachers and students came to know one another better.

Gradually, there developed a sense of belonging, a kind of pride in what had been done. It was a school spirit different from the usual kind because inherent in it was the sense of authorship and creativity shared by teacher and student. The school will close in June of this year, but will always be remembered affectionately by those who inaugurated their university careers at Fort Devens.

Songs

SONS OF MASSACHUSETTS (Alma Mater)

Bay State's loyal sons are we;
In her praise our song shall be,
Till we make the welkin ring,
With our chorus as we sing,
With the tribute that we bring.
Holyoke's hills prolong the strain,
Echoing to our glad refrain,
And the gentle winds proclaim
Far and near thy peerless fame,
Praising e'er thine honored name:
Ma-a-a-a-assachusetts!

CHORUS:

Loyal sons of old Massachusetts
Faithful, sturdy sons and true,
To our grand old Alma Mater,
Let our song resound anew.
Cheer, boys, cheer for old Massachusetts,
Give our college three times three;
Sons forever of the old Bay State,
Loyal sons, loyal sons are we.

WHEN TWILIGHT SHADOWS DEEPEN (traditional song)

When twilight shadows deepen,
And the study hour draws nigh,
When shades of night are falling,
And the evening breezes sigh,
'Tis then we love to gather
'Neath the pale moon's silv'ry spell,
And lift our hearts and voices
In the songs we love so well.

CHORUS:

Sons of old Massachusetts!
Devoted sons and true;
Bay State, my Bay State,
We'll give our best to you.
Thee, our Alma Mater,
We'll cherish for all time;
Should old acquaintance be forgot,
Massachusetts — yours and mine.

FIGHT ON! REDMEN! (To the melody of "The Vagabond King") by RUDOLPH FRIML)

Sons of Massachusetts
Hold the ball, don't lose it
On your way to victory

Sweep the line before you
As we all implore you
Fight you on to victory

Fight on! Redmen! Slash on thru the fray!
Fight on! Redmen! Smash 'em down to stay!

Sons of Yankee splendor
Hear our chorus render
Bold refrain of victory

(years ago)
And there's nothing in this world that I don't know, (I don't know)
I saw old King Pharaoh's daughter
Fishing Moses from the water,
And I'll lick the guy that says it isn't —
I've been working on the railroad,
All the livelong day.
I've been working on the railroad,
Just to pass the time away.
Can't you hear the whistle blowing,
Rise up so early in the morn.
Can't you hear the captain shouting Dinah blow your —
Glorious, glorious, one keg of beer for the four of us,
Glory be to God that there are no more of us,
For the four of us can drink it all a —
Oh, they had to carry Cary to the ferry,
And the ferry carried Cary to the shore,
And the reason that they had to carry
Cary
Was that Cary couldn't carry any more.
Sweet Adeline, say you'll be mine;
Come let me whisper in your ear.
Way down yonder in the old corn field,
For you, I pine —
Sweeter than the honey to the honey bee,
I love you, say you love me;
Meet me in the shade of the old apple tree-ee-ee
Eva, Iva, Ova, Evaline —
For it's always fair weather
When good fellows get together
With a stein on the table,
And a good song ringing clear.

We'll forge her fame, men,
Sounding her name, and then
We'll toast Alma Mater,
Praising her ever,
Bay State won't give in!
The Maroon and White will win!

For Freshmen

The Fable of the Credulous Frosh

(Reprinted from the 1939 INDEX)

Once there was a freshman who believed everything that he was told. But within six months at the U of M, he flunked out. He was too obedient, paradoxically speaking.

Prexy, in the first week of September, told Joe Freshman to put in two hours of study for every class. In the next week's rushing, all fraternity men told him that he should spend some of his time socially — in the fraternity bull sessions, poker games, or vic parties. The Dean told Joe, a little later, to engage in an extracurricular activity — the Roister Doisters, for example. In the frosh Phys. Ed. course, Joe was talked into putting in two practice periods per week for the freshman football team. Since he planned to be a chem. major, he had to join the chem. club. Lastly, his father considered it a healthy American custom for Joe "to work his way through college."

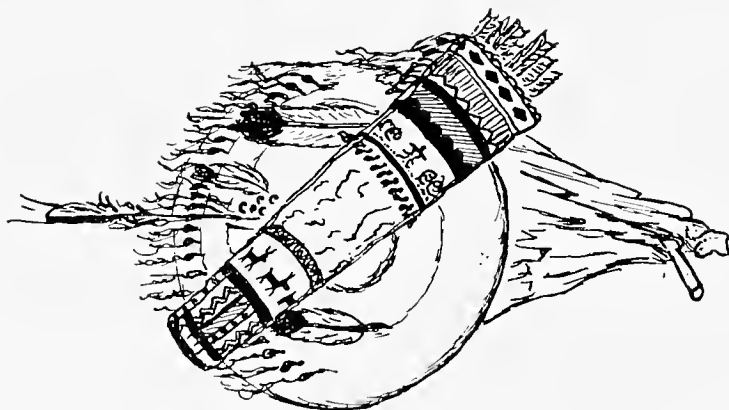

So, like Don Quixote, he charged his own little windmill and went at his "college life" schedule.

He studied five hours a day. He pledged a fraternity, thereafter attending vic parties and meetings. He joined the Roister Doisters. He became a member of the chem. club. He worked three hours a day for his meals. And he caught the knack of dressing with his left hand and eating his breakfast with his right.

Soon he was three days behind schedule, then a week behind, and then a month. Came January. He found that he flunked completely.

"I would have pulled through all right," said Joe, "if there were about forty-eight hours in a day."

MORAL: It should be obvious.

He aimed too high!

The Fable of Freddie the Freshman

(Reprinted from the 1939 INDEX)

You should know by now that Freddy was a freshman, which opens up a vast field of possibilities for any fantastic mind. Given a freshman, anything can happen. Well, it did.

Freddy was the kind of freshman that took everything literally. He wrote home every day; he vigorously saluted the Senators; he never forgot to sign his name to the Honor Pledge. But, saddest of all, Freddy said "Hi" to everyone. No matter who would approach him on the campus, Freddy would deliberately go out of his way to say "Hi" to that individual. After a month of "Hi"-ing, Freddy got so that he would automatically say "Hi" to the trees, Maud the Mule, or Muggsy the Dog. Freddy would walk around in a daze, intermittently saluting Senators, jumping numerals, and muttering "Hi" under his breath.

Thanksgiving vacation came, and Freddy went home. He "Hi"-ed his little sister, his mother, his father, and all his relatives. They were frightened at first, but they later came to accept it along with Freddy's bright socks and his whiffle.

On the last Saturday of vacation, Freddy went into Boston with five dollars in his pocket, in search of a good shirt and some flashy neckties. These purchased, he wended his way home through the busy bustling crowds one finds on Washington Street on the last Saturday of any vacation. There Freddy was in his glory; he greeted every stranger with a brisk, friendly "Hi." People didn't notice him, for people in Boston know that one can find all kinds on Washington St. Finally, some one did notice his greeting, and chaos came to the corner of Summer and Washington Streets. The person was a gaudy Scollay Square blonde, accustomed to sailors and the like, but hardly acquainted with Freddy.

He innocently tossed his hundred and forty-fifth "Hi" (for that day) at her, she gaped, spat out her Wrigley's, and screamed for a cop.

"Masher!" she cried, and a dozen bluecoats carried off, none too gently, Freddy the Masher (as he was later known in Washington Street folklore).

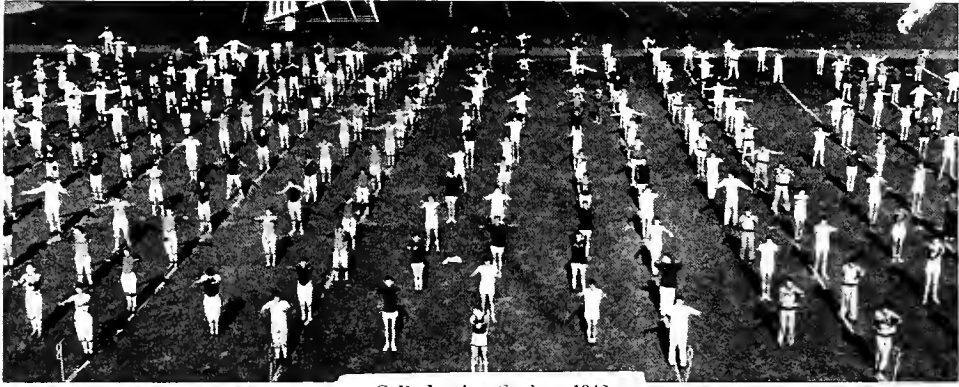

Today, for all we know, Freddy has a cell mate to whom he never says "Hi," which is hardly unusual, if you know what happened to him.

MORAL: For God's sake, don't say "Hi" to EVERYBODY.

No paddle, No Freddy!

In Memoriam

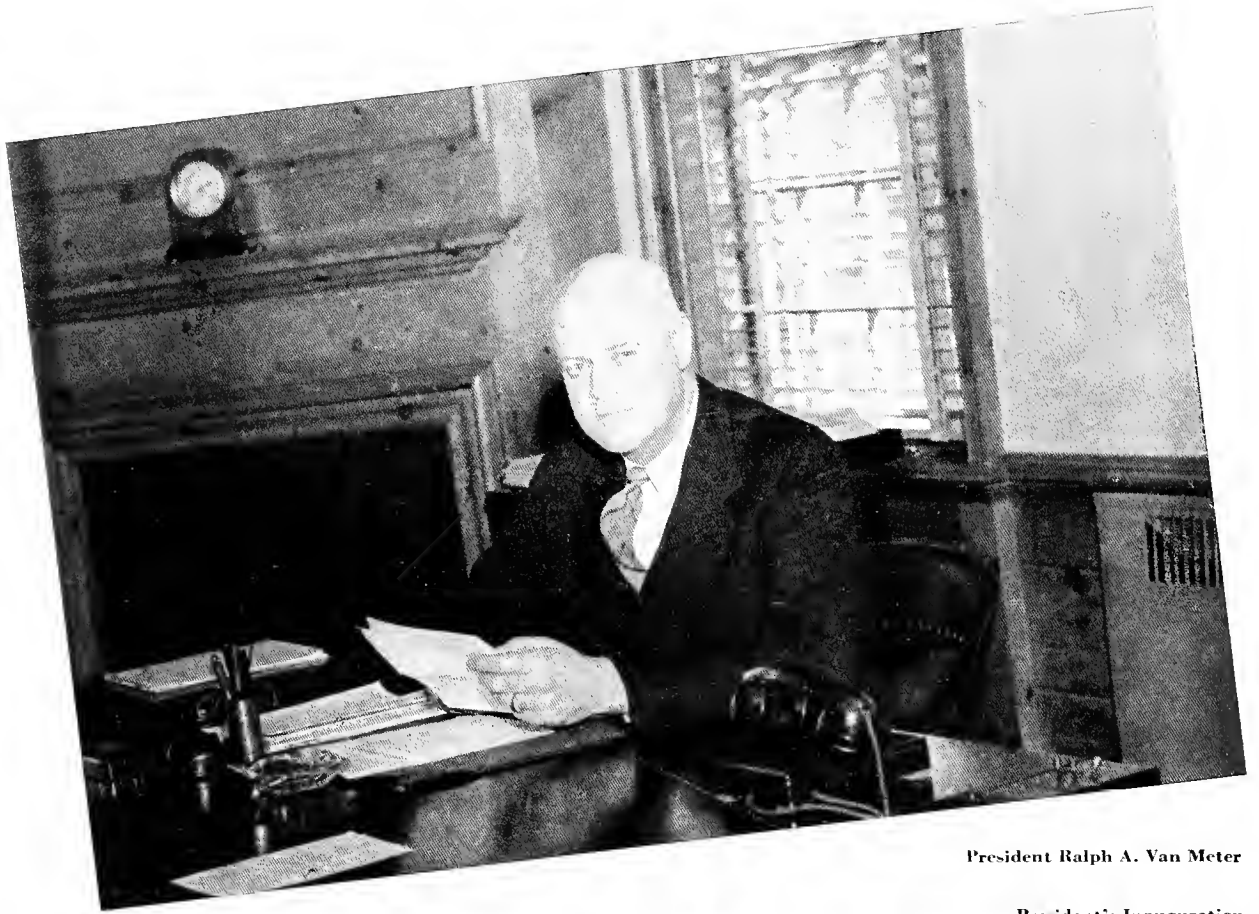

DR. GEORGE EDWARD GAGE

1883 - 1948

The University suffered the loss of an excellent scientist and an outstanding professor when the well-known and well-loved Dr. Gage died, suddenly, of a heart attack on March 8, 1948.

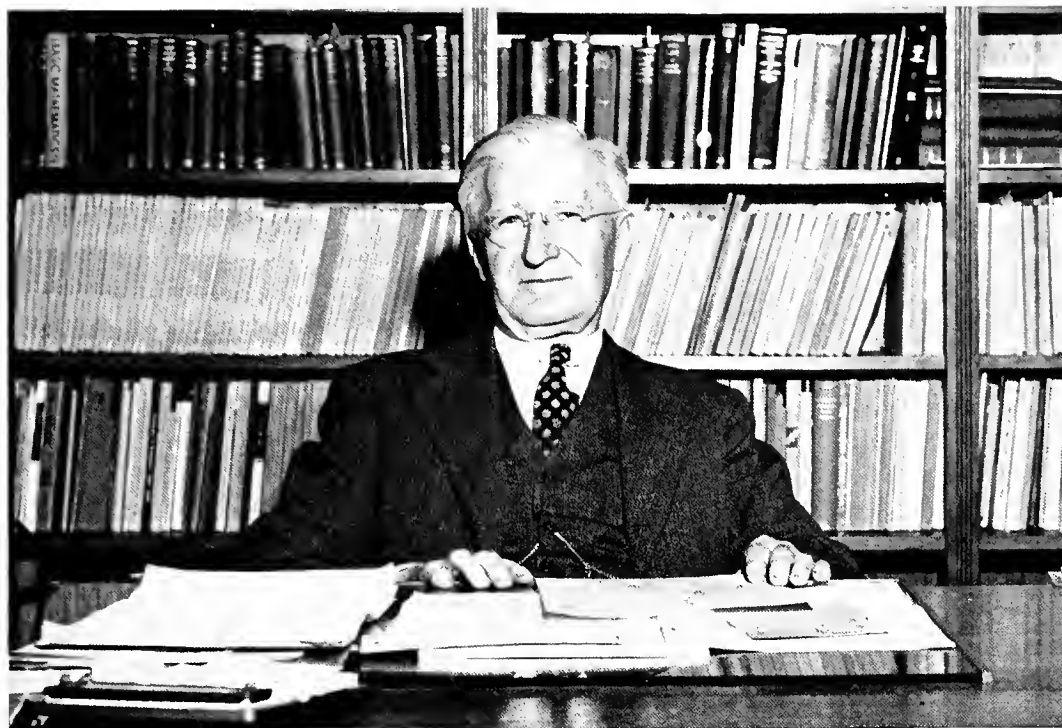

Dr. Gage, who was a member of the University of Massachusetts faculty for 37 years, was born in Springfield in 1883. He attended Clark University, and received his Ph.D. at Yale. He contributed greatly to the research and teaching program of the University and was an active member of the Society of American Bacteriologists and of the Society for the Advancement of Science.

Agriculture

Each division within the School of Agriculture is primarily devoted to the development and training of students in some phase of America's largest industry.

The Agricultural Economics and Farm Management Division aims to train students for the more clerical phase of agriculture.

The Agronomy Division promotes better crop culture and crop improvement research.

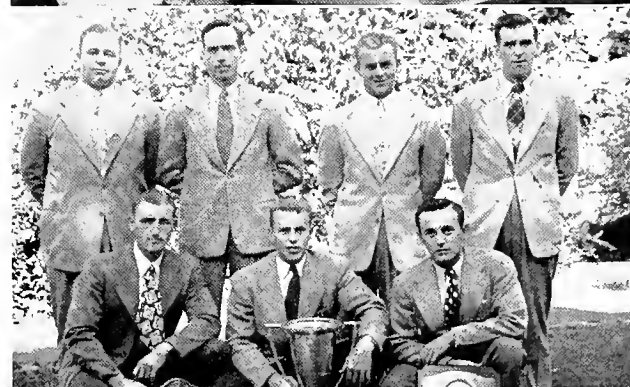

The animals are not forgotten, for the Animal Husbandry Department deals with that branch of agriculture. Each year the Animal Husbandry Department sponsors the Little International Livestock Show.

A Dairy Industry major is also offered by the School of Agriculture for the purpose of teaching students methods of milk handling and the manufacture of dairy products. This division sponsors the annual dairy classic.

Students who wish preparation in the operation of commercial poultry and breeding farms and hatcheries find courses in the Division of Poultry Husbandry.

A curriculum in General Agriculture is also offered for students not wishing to specialize.

In addition to the course offered to U. of M. students the School of Agriculture sponsors short courses for anyone interested in attending them.

The School of Business Administration at the University of Massachusetts is an outgrowth of the Department of Economics, first established in 1935. The School offers four curricula, preparing men for careers in the following major fields: Accounting, General Business, Industrial Administration, and Marketing. By next fall, the School hopes to have added a curriculum in Finance.

Three hundred and fifty-nine major students now enrolled in the School at Amherst and Devens, are taught by a staff of sixteen full-time teachers from the Department of Economics and the School of Business Administration.

The School of Business Administration was established in September, 1948. Prior to that time, a department of Business Administration existed for one year. The entire development represents an expansion of the work in the department of Economics towards the technical side, the general introductory courses remaining still in the department of Economics.

With its new curricula, expanding faculty, and large enrollment, the school promises to become a significant addition to the University structure.

In September, 1946, the Advanced Course ROTC was reinstated on campus with an Armored Cavalry Unit and an Air Corps unit.

The Military Division activities during the year included a field trip for the Advanced Course Cavalry students and sponsorship of pistol and rifle teams.

The big social affair of the year sponsored by the Division was the annual Military Ball, held at the Smith School in Northampton in December, with music by Ray McKinley and his orchestra. The annual good-bye dance held the weekend before finals was the important social event of the spring season.

The colorful ROTC Band, under the direction of Mr. Ezra Schabas, served very effectively during the entire year.

With the new Engineering Building still uncompleted, the School of Engineering was forced to undergo its second year of crowded classrooms and laboratories. Despite these difficulties, however, the school was able to make substantial progress. Courses were offered in Agricultural Engineering, Light Building Construction, Civil Engineering, Electrical Engineering, Mechanical Engineering, and Chemical Engineering. The school added several new instructors and substantially increased its course offerings.

With the advent of a large group of engineering students from Devens, the facilities proved a bit inadequate, but the near completion of the new Engineering laboratory behind Commonwealth Circle brightened the prospect for next year.

Horticulture

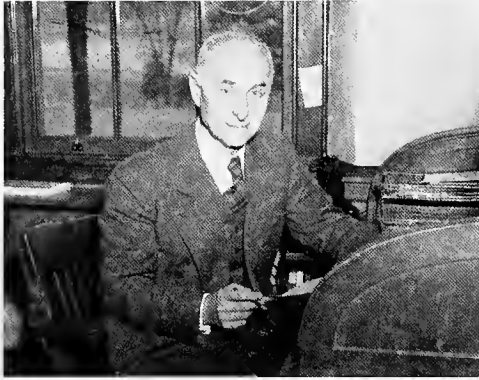

The School of Horticulture includes the Departments of Floriculture, Food Technology, Forestry and Wildlife Management, Landscape Architecture, Olericulture, and Pomology. The school offers instruction in the growing and marketing of flowers, fruits, vegetables, and ornamental shrubs; in the breeding and improvement of plants; in the active management and conservation of forests and wildlife; in the design, planting and care of ornamental plantings, and in the processing and technology of food products.

The facilities of the school include twenty thousand square feet of greenhouse space, supplemented by about five thousand square feet of hotbeds, and coldframes; several acres of gardens and a nursery; orchards with hundreds of varieties of trees and small fruits; the Mt. Toby forest of seven-hundred and fifty-five acres which, together with smaller forests, affords facilities for field work; and a number of laboratories and drafting rooms.

In November, the School of Horticulture presented its thirty-sixth annual Horticultural Show, demonstrating varied talents of students and staff members.

Liberal Arts

The central position of liberal arts in the new University of Massachusetts curriculum was clearly indicated this year by a total of 7149 undergraduate class enrollments in the departments of English, Economics, Education, Fine Arts, German, History and Sociology, Philosophy, Psychology, and Romance Languages.

Remembering that the mission of the University is "to promote liberal and practical education," and recognizing rapid growth, especially in the technical fields, the School of Liberal Arts has expanded its offerings in nonprofessional, cultural subjects to provide the balance necessary for happiness and well-being of the professional man and woman. In addition to this traditional objective of liberal studies, the departments of the School offer specialization which serves admirably as an entering wedge to such vocations as education, journalism, and business, which rely heavily upon flexibility of mind and a broad general background.

Last fall the School noted with regret the retirement of Dean A. Anderson Mackimmie, who since 1928 had directed the work in social sciences and liberal arts, and welcomed as his successor, Prof. Frank Prentice Rand, head of the Department of English.

Dean Helen S. Mitchell

The School of Home Economics started the year by moving into its brand new home, Edna Skinner Hall. The newly completed building with its bright classrooms and shining labs attracted many students to the Home Economics courses. The addition of two assistant professors, an instructor, and a research instructor to the School made possible the offering of several new courses and the alleviation of crowded conditions.

That the School of Home Economics is widening its scope on this campus is illustrated by the fact that the number of freshmen enrolled in this school has increased from 20 in the fall of 1947 to 55 in the spring of this year. A student from Norway and four from this country are enrolled in the Graduate School.

The School of Home Economics

sponsored the Home Ec Club again this year. The club, under the guidance of the School, fostered a project whereby needed articles were sent to families in Poland.

In January, the members of clothing courses presented a Clothing Review attended by faculty wives, townspeople, and students. The Homestead was again used for training Seniors and Juniors in home management.

In the spring, representatives from many branches of Home Economics joined local people for the dedication of Skinner Hall.

With the facilities of its new building, the school of Home Economics has ambitious plans for the future.

Science

The School of Science includes the Departments of Bacteriology and Public Health, Botany, Chemistry, Entomology, Zoology, Geology and Mineralogy, Mathematics, Physics, Physiology, and Nature Recreation.

The School offers special curricula for the needs of pre-medical, pre-dental, and pre-veterinary students and for those who plan to train as laboratory technicians and to enter Public Health Service.

The curricula in the School of Science are planned to provide a broad and cultural education, as well as excellent opportunities for specialized training. The concentration of the junior and senior years gives students as high a proficiency in their fields of specialization as is possible without sacrificing the objectives and requirements of a well-rounded education.

Division of

Professor Curry S. Hicks, Head

The Division of Physical Education includes the Departments of Athletics, Student Health, Physical Education for Men, and Physical Education for Women.

During the past year, the Division kept pace with University growth by offering an expanded intramural athletic program. Whereas before the war there were but nine fraternity and two independent teams competing, this year saw in action teams representing twenty-four groups, thirteen of them non-fraternal.

Further opportunity for inter-collegiate competition was provided through the establishment of Junior Varsity teams in all major sports, thus putting on the field three teams in each sport—Freshman, J.V., and Varsity.

Two other significant events in the Division of Physical Education were the introduction of varsity golf and the reactivation of varsity hockey, last played here in 1935. Although hopes were high for a good season on the new rink, the weatherman ordained that 1948-49 should not be a hockey year at U. of M.

Phi Beta Kappa

On this campus, the chapter of Phi Beta Kappa consists of 25 faculty members, faculty wives, and townspeople having been elected to this honorary society elsewhere. The aim of the group is to encourage liberal scholarship at the U. of M.

The society meets three times a year. The first meeting of the year consisted of a talk and question period conducted by Professor Funnell, an instructor experimenting with the course of required reading in the Humanities for the freshmen at Amherst College.

The members hope that in the near future an undergraduate chapter may be established on this campus. In the meanwhile, the association nominates a Phi Beta Kappa Scholar from each year's graduating class.

The Associate Alumni

The Associate Alumni was founded in 1874. Its purpose, then as now, was the promotion of the best interests of the College. E. E. Thompson of the Class of 1871 was the Association's first president.

For 75 years the Associate Alumni has worked diligently and effectively toward its stated goal and, through the devotion and interest and helpfulness of the Alumni, has accomplished much of value. Alumni Field, the physical education building, eight new dormitories—either now occupied or under construction—are all alumni projects.

Memorial Hall, the indispensable student social center, was a gift of Alumni to the college following World War I and was erected in tribute to the memory of those men from campus who had given their lives. Now, it is planned that an addition to this building shall serve as a fitting and proper memorial to the men who gave their lives in World War II. Already the Associate Alumni has raised a substantial sum of money toward this World War II Memorial.

Since the election of Mr. Thompson as president of the Associate Alumni many able men and women have given freely and willingly of their time to guide the organization in its effort to foster the educational program of our University. Currently, the president of the Associate Alumni is Dennis M. Crowley '29; he has long served the alumni group as an elected Director, as committee member, as vice-president, and for nearly two years as president. Among President Crowley's accomplishments has been the organization of an Alumni Council, made up of representatives of all alumni classes and local alumni clubs, and which in years to come will help to strengthen, even further, the notable attachment of our Alumni to Alma Mater.

Acknowledgements

The 1949 INDEX Board extends its heartiest thanks to all who, by word or deed, have in any way assisted them.

To Prof. Lawrence S. Dickinson, Business Adviser, for sound, practical advice, business contacts, and inspiration.

To Prof. Charles N. Dubois, Editorial Adviser, for policy guidance, sympathy, and actual hard work.

To Mr. George "Red" Emery, Executive Secretary of the Associate Alumni, and his office staff for interest, assistance, and facilities.

To Mr. John Cole of the Andover Press, Ltd., for his conscientious aid in helping the INDEX staff put out a large book with very complete coverage and within a close budget in spite of complicated technical problems.

To Mr. and Mrs. Arpiar Saunders, of the Greylock Photo-Engraving Co., for carrying out INDEX plans with skill and personal interest in every engraving—yet within our limited budget.

To "Charlie" Iannello of Harvard Studio for prompt and expert photography including many beautiful views and informal pictures.

To Prof. James Robertson for willing advice in guiding our art plans and for his map of the campus.

To Bill Luti, '50, for his contribution of the appropriate theme-page drawing.

To Prof. Frank Prentice Rand for excellent advice, information, and contributions.

To the President's Office, the Registrar's Office, the News Service, the Library, the Dean's Office, the Schedule Office, the Office of Publications, and the Collegian Office for interest, information, assistance, contributions, and scarce photographs.

To Priscilla Hummel for conscientious help to the Business Staff.

To Walter Feldman of Mem Hall for aid, interest, and mail delivery.

To Richard Howland, '51, for skillfully maneuvering the airplane from which our aerial shots were snapped.

To "Robie" Maynard for posing as our calendar Indian.

To Norton Nickerson, Ted Delevoryas, and Nick Nickerson for the Epsilon Epsilon Sigma article.

To Elizabeth Hibbard for her faithful assistance.

To Johnny Walker who prepared nearly all the informal pasteups in this issue.

To Our Advertisers.

VERTISEMENTS

The cooperation of the firms in this section have made possible, to a large measure, the successful publication of the 1949 INDEX.

These concerns have proved their interest in the University. Let us extend to them every possible consideration now and in the future.

A Book To Be Treasured . . .

This annual is a permanent record, in picture and prose, of the academic year 1948-1949 University of Massachusetts. Its value will increase as the years pass, and the quality of the printing will contribute in great measure to its lasting worth.

The Andover Press, Ltd., takes pride in its well-known craftsmanship which, combined with the long hours of careful planning and painstaking editorial work by the INDEX Staff, makes this a book to be treasured.
